Indian retail giant scales back expansion plan after opposition

AFP, Bangalore

India's biggest company, Reliance Industries, said Monday it had been forced to temporarily scale back plans to open thousands of supermarkets after angry protests from small store owners.

The company said it had revised its plans for two Indian states -- Uttar Pradesh in the north and communist-ruled West Bengal in the east -- due to local demonstrations and opposition from state officials.

"The unfavourable trends in those two markets has limited our capability to expand the stores as per our original plan," senior executive Bijou Kurien told reporters.

"In the other states we have been continuing to expand and we believe that after March 2008, we will make up the shortfall in other states," he added.

He did not give any figures, although the daily Mint newspaper reported Monday that the company would be at least 500 stores short of its target to open 2,000 stores nationwide by 2011.

Reliance chairman Mukesh Ambani launched the retail foray a year ago, saying he wanted to build the Indian equivalent of Wal-Mart and setting an annual sales target of 25 billion dollars by 2011.

The company plans to invest as much as 5.5 billion dollars to build a retail chain comprising convenience stores, supermarkets and hypermarts, Reliance Retail said.

Organised retail or chain stores account for only around four percent of India's 350-billion-dollar retail industry, making the sector an alluring prospect for big companies.

As of the last weekend, Reliance had 425 stores under the Reliance Fresh brand dispensing groceries, fruits and vegetables, compared with 12 million local vendors, on whom the impact is "pretty minimal," according to Kurien.

"On the other hand, if you look at the way the market is growing, the space is there for everybody to participate," Kurien added.

The Uttar Pradesh government ordered the closure of stores run by Reliance and another chain after attacks by protestors in the cities of Varanasi and Lucknow.

Kurien said lack of government permits had also forced Reliance Retail to put store openings on hold in the Marxist-ruled state of West Bengal.

He blamed the opposition to supermarkets on the "feelings which people whip up."

"The reality is that everybody continues doing their business without any threat from us," he added.

Iran, China finalise $2b oil contract

AFP, Tehran

Iran and China's Sinopec on Sunday signed a two billion dollar contract to develop a major Iranian oil field, a crucial deal for the Iranian energy industry at a time of mounting international pressure.

The Iranian oil ministry and Sinopec inked the deal to pump oil from the Yadavaran onshore field in southwestern Iran, which was first agreed back in late 2004, at a ceremony in Tehran, an AFP correspondent reported.

"The initial estimation of cost of the project is about 2.0 billion dollars and the final cost of the project will be decided after the offering of the tenders," said Iranian Oil Minister Gholam Hossein Nozari.

The field will be producing 185,000 barrels of oil a day within the next seven years, he added.

The signing came at a time when the United States has been pressuring European and Asian firms, including oil majors, to cut their business ties with Iran to exert pressure on the Islamic republic in the nuclear crisis.

"The signing shows that there is no lack of investment in Iran and we are solidifying our economic relations with China more," said Nozari.
