Shaista Ahmad passes away

STAR REPORT

Shaista Ahmad, one of the founder general members of North South University's trustee board, passed away yesterday, said a press release.

Shaista -- wife of Muslehuddin Ahmad, former diplomat and founder vice chancellor of NSU -- was a professor of zoology at some, including Dhaka College, Eden Girls College, Holy Cross College, and Titumir College.

She left behind three children -- Dr Junaid Kamal Ahmad, member of NSU trustee board and vice president at World Bank; Javed Muneer Ahmad, member of the trustee board and CEO of Aprosoft, Inc; and Seema Ahmad, member of the board.

Shaista had received prestigious Rotno Gorbha Award.

Her namaz-e-janaza will be held after Isha prayers today at Gulshan Society Jame Masjid. She will be buried at Banani graveyard.

Workers are drying the sheets of paper that have been recycled from old cardboard boxes. Once ready, these sheets are used to make all kinds of containers. A kilo of this material is sold for Tk 45. This photo was taken in Khulna's Dumuria area recently.

take decision during pre- and post-migration, said organisers.

Addressing the event, RMMRU Executive Director Prof CR Abrar said the prime objective of releasing the app was to ensure that labour migration takes place properly.

"A key driver behind labour migration from Bangladesh is the lack of employment opportunities here," he said.

However, while going abroad, workers face various challenges in the pre- and post-migration stages and their sufferings continue even after they return home, which is unexpected, he added.

As chief guest, Barrister Anisul Islam Mahmud, chairman of the parliamentary standing committee on expatriates' welfare ministry, said remittance sent by migrant workers is a major economic pillar of the country.

However, challenges faced by them are often overlooked, he added.

Migrant workers pay exorbitant fees due to the lack of information and face exploitation as a result, he said.

He stressed on integrated initiatives of the government and private sector to provide better service to migrant workers, calling upon the government to come forward in this regard.

Shahidul Alam, director general of Bureau of Manpower, Employment and Training, said providing service to migrant workers on a digital platform can bring significant change in the sector.

He said the SafeStep app can achieve better success with a better partnership between government and private sector.

Joining the event virtually, Liesbeth Zonneveld, chief of party of USAid Fight Slavery and Trafficking in Persons Activity, Winrock International, said one of the objectives of the app is to ensure better recruitment practices in labour migration.

Tourists having trouble getting

Tanzim Anwar, president of ATJFB, led the delegation of the organisation.

"It takes three to four hours for a foreign tourist to complete his/her visa process at the airport, which often ends in bitter experiences," said Shiblul Azam Koreshi, president of TOAB.

He demanded the government introduce e-visa for foreign tourists who are entitled to get visa on arrival.

"The number of foreign tourists will increase and the country will be benefited hugely through earning foreign currencies if we can introduce e-visa for them," he said.

The TOAB boss if e-visas are introduced, the tourists will be able to complete visa processing online from their respective countries.

Md Yunus, director (media and publication), TOAB, said the government should also instruct immigration officials to provide smooth services to foreign tourists, so that they are not harassed while getting visa on arrival.

The TOAB leaders also urged the government to ensure that local authorities of Bandarban allow professional tour guides along with local tribal guides to accompany foreign tourists while visiting the location.

Art as a form of resistance

Ruposhree said, "When I came to know that we had a rich history of weaving, I wanted to highlight it and showcase the current crisis it faces within the community."

"I imagined myself as that woman who wanted to start weaving again, but I don't know the actual methods of our traditional weaving," she added.

Ruposhree also tried to preserve all the fairy tales and stories of her community through her paintings. "I tried to give colour to those stories I heard from my grandparents. I want those stories to survive in my paintings," she said.

Talking about her future work, Ruposhree said she wants to highlight the connection between her paintings and her culture to the world.

Dreaming of pursuing this goal in her graduate studies, she said, "I want to do research and paintings for a lifetime. I want to tell people about the lifestyle and the relationship of Hajong people and how they harmoniously coexist with nature," she added.

Md Tofazzol Hossain, secretary of Trade Union Sangha Mymensingh district unit, said a meeting was held with the factory authorities, government representative and workers on November 4.

At that time, over Tk 1.69 crore due wages for all 93 workers was mentioned, but the factory authorities did not agree with that, he said.

Then, Tk 90 lakh due was proposed by the factory authorities, which the workers accepted, Tofazzol said, quoting the manager.

The workers said they will not leave the spot until they are paid the money in cash.

Contacted, Md Arifuzzaman, deputy inspector general of Department of Inspection for Factory and Establishments in Mymensingh, said police have been deployed at the factory premises to avert any untoward incident.

The factory manager could not be contacted over phone despite repeated attempts. No one has been allowed to enter the factory amid this situation.

The workers will be paid their dues as early as possible, said Arifuzzaman, quoting the manager.

British High Commissioner Robert Chatterton Dickinson, who inaugurated the solar panels, said electricity produced through renewable sources such as solar is critical to reducing dependency on fossil fuels.

Dr Sebastian Groh, managing director of SOLshare, said it is important to walk the talk, and this is a good time to introduce this initiative, during COP27, to set an example for all other missions.

"And this is just the beginning. We look forward to having further potential opportunities to support the British High Commission in its sustainability journey," Groh said.
