'Shiddhidata'-a strange fantasy

Loko Nattyadal launches their 21st production

RUMMAN UDDIN AHAMED

ELL-known theatre group Loko Nattyadal presented their 21st production Shiddhidata at the Mohila Shamitty stage on February 22. Written by Mohit Chatterjee, the play has been adapted from a sanskrit play Bhogobothggukiam written by Boudhayan.

The story is about a fraud priest and his student who beg for food. The student was not a Brahmin, the upper class amongst the Hindus. The only reason that he mingled with the priest was for food. Their fate was never with them, so they led a miserable life. One day the priest had a dream, which led them towards their eternal happiness. The drama centered around this dream.

The Yamdut from hell came to take the life of a woman named Bashantoshena. On earth, while he was standing under a coconut tree, a coconut fell on his head. He was injured and went to the priest for medication. But the priest and his student denied to help him as they thought that Yamdut would take their lives. After a long discussion the Yamdut convinced them that he would not take their lives.

In the meantime the priest and his student found a temple of Ganesha in the forest. They were astonished to see the worn out condition of the temple. Ganesha told them that if they could fix up the temple, he would grant them a wish and all their problems would be solved. So the priest agreed and decided to fix the temple. When this was taking place, the student heard Boshontoshena singing and fell in love. At that time, Yamdut took the form of a serpent and mistakenly took the life of Boshontoshena. Yamdut was sent back to earth for making such a mistake lamented over his lover's dead body and asked his master to make her alive. The priest entered Boshontoshena's body to keep her alive for some time. Upon his return Yamdut found the priest dead and Boshontoshena praying. As a result Yamdut placed Bashantoshena's life in to the priest's body.

Then the priest started to behave like Boshontoshena, got frustrated and tried to commit suicide. In the mean time, the student and Bashantoshena (priest) remembered Ganesha and prayed. Once again Ganesha told them to setup the temple. After doing so all their troubles were over.

The plot and the presentation were impressive. The stage was designed by Ali Ahmed Mukul. Background music was composed by Yasmin Ali, which added more colour to the play. Costumes were designed by Kamrun Noor Chowdhury and Yasmin Ali and lighting was done by Thandu Raihan. The play was directed by Liakot Ali Laki, which starred Monir Hassan, Hafizur Rahman, Zakir Hossain, Azizur Rahman Shujan, Abdullah Al Harun, Mamun Choudhury Anonto, Sajedul Alam Dalim, Esha Al Jami Rahi, Ziauddin Shipon, Anisur Rahman Dipu, Farzana Afroze Mili, Shamima Islam Tushti, Zahida Aktar Soni, Lavly Mahmud, Monira Ferdousi Rotna, Maria Rahman Rita and Liakot Ali Laki himself.

Post-Sept. 11 songs in running at Sunday's Grammys

REUTERS, New York

HE Grammy Awards return to New York for the first time in five years on Sunday, with songs influenced by the Sept. 11 hijacked plane attacks on the city in the running for the music industry's top annual prizes

Veteran rocker Bruce Springsteen's "The Rising" and country singer Alan Jackson's emotional "Where Were You (When the World Stopped Turning)" are both nominated for Song of the Year.

Young singer and pianist Norah Jones with her mellow mix of jazz, blues and country song and album "Come Away With Me," is among eight stars most frequently mentioned by music critics as likely winners of the most sought after statuettes for Album, Record or Song of the Year.

But music fans are often surprised by the industry voters' odd choices such as reclusive jazzrock band Steely Dan in 2001 and the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences has a committee to weed out embarrassments before they are nominated.

Springsteen and his E Street Band head the Madison Square Garden playbill for the Grammy's show to be broadcast live on CBS-TV at 8 p.m. EST. The Academy moved the show out of New York to Los Angeles in 1999 after then-Mayor Rudolph Giuliani had a much-publicized dispute with Academy executives.

Springsteen's "The Rising" was released in July, the first all-new recording by Springsteen with the E Street Band since 1984. The album includes the tracks "Into the Fire," which Springsteen wrote after Sept. 11, and "My City of Ruins," an earlier song about down-on-its-luck Asbury Park, New Jersey, that the musician dedicated to New York after the attacks and Sciences Award dinner in New York on February 21. Bono was honoured for his accomplishments as a musician

The awards will honor artists in 104 categories, ranging from pop, rock, soul and jazz to classical music, spoken word and polka.

Paul Simon and Art Garfunkel of Simon & Garfunkel, one of the great popular music acts of the 1960s and 1970s, are reuniting on stage when they will also receive a Grammy Lifetime Achievement Award.

A spokesman for Simon said the famed duo were not planning any tour or recordings but had practiced for Sunday's event.

"They were working yesterday for the first time in many years," Simon's spokesman Dan Klores said on Friday. "They had a wonderful time hanging out and singing together. They spent many hours doing so ... it was verv warm. Some musicians and

Hollywood stars have publicly opposed the U.S. buildup to possible war against Iraq, leading some music industry watchers to expect antiwar gestures on stage Sunday during the live network broadcast. CBS spokesman Chris Ender said he knew of no specific planned protest. "No one has been restricted in their artistic expression for this live show ... this is first and foremost an entertainment event," Ender said. Many of the night's other performers, Jones, rapper Eminem, three-women country band Dixie Chicks, singer/quitarist Sheryl Crow, Canadian teen-age sensation Avril Lavigne and Rhythm and Blues singer/songwriter Ashanti are also nominated for awards. In all, eight musicians shared the most nominations with five each when they were announced by The Recording Academy last month -- Springsteen, Jones, Lavigne, Crow, rappers Eminem and Nelly, R&B's Ashanti and Raphael Saadio. Should "The Boss" Springsteen win the Album Grammy, it would fit the trend of academy voters giving the nod to some of popular music's most enduring performers. Eric Clapton, Tony Bennett, Steely Dan, Bob Dylan and Carlos Santana have all won in the past decade ahead of younger acts. A public opinion poll Jan. 22-

current appeal, commercial success and being topical is of great importance to the consumer. whereas the Grammys have often gone to the sentimental favorite or the artist with the most history,' said Rick Krim, VH1's head of music and talent.

Jackson and Springsteen topped the poll for Song of the Year. Respondents favored The Dixie Chicks' "Home" for Album of the Year and Eminem's "Without Me' is preferred for Record of the Year.

dents believe Ashanti should win Best New Artist, ahead of Jones, Lavigne, pop and rock teen-age singer Michelle Branch, and John Mayer, known for breezy, catchy songs. The poll of 1,000 people had a margin of error of plus or minus 3.1 percent.
