Window to our contemporary art

Elthem B Kabir, chairman of the Society for Promotion of Bangladesh

Daily Star: What is the purpose of the book -- why is it important? Elthem B. Kabir: There has been a great demand among art lovers to project Bangladeshi art. If you compare Bangladeshi art with the rest of Sub-continental art or Asian art our depth is incomparable. The unfortunate part is that our art has not been exposed to the international community. A few days back in the Herald Tribune I saw a notice of Sotheby's or Christy's for Indian art and I felt that why couldn't it have been on south Asian art where Bangladeshi art could have come in. Our art has not been exposed. Those who come to our country are pleasantly surprised with the passion of our art. Yet, so far, nobody was trying to project this. We in our society felt that there has to be a book which will be of an international standard, a copy of which should be available when you walk into the book store Metropolitan Museum or the Tate Gallery.

DS: Did you face any problems?

EK: The biggest problem was the funding for which I approached the Norwegian Embassy which provided majority of the funding. Shortfall of the balance was equally put up by GrameenPhone and the Khairul Kabir Foundation. The Society for Promotion of Bangladesh Art has the copyright to the book. The society will be open to members with a fee of a few hundred takas. The project began approximately 18 months ago and the most difficult part of the project was which artists do you put and which one of their works do you include in the book

DS: What is the focus? How many artists have been brought in -- Who are they and how was the selection done? EK: The fundamental purpose the masters like Zainul Abedin, is to promote Bangladesh art. An advisory committee was formed SM Sultan, Anwarul Haque, where the committee members included senior artists like Md. Kibria. Qayyum Chowdhury, along with other artists like Rokeya Sultana, Kanak Champa Chakma and Iftikhar Ahmed. Included in this was also Mahmudul Haque who was once the Director of the Institute of Fine arts and Rafiqun Nabi who was the president of the Artists' Association. There were others like Saju as a gallery contributor. Private collectors like Faroog Sobhan, and Abul Khair, who has one of the largest art collection.

The terms of reference for being included in the book were very simple: First a list of 40 artists was made and this expanded to 68. This begins with Safiuddin Ahmed, Md Kibria, Qayyum Chowdhury to Kalidas Karmakar, Monirul Islam, Rafiqun Nabi, Shahabuddin, Torun Ghosh, Niten Kundu, Alvi etc. It moves on to show women artists like Dipa Huq and Rokeya Sultana and artists of remarkable talent and achievement like Chandra Shekhar Dey. The young artists like Rafi Haque and Md. Iqbal are also there. The artist community did not want any amateur artist included in the book as this was the first publication of such a book. There are about 300 coloured works included in the book.

DS: What are the aspects of the artist that the book deals with?

It took four to six months to write the book while it took four to six months to do the photography for which we had two cameramen from Drik and our project coordinator Rafi Haque. The book contains about 350 pages and the forward was written by me.

DS: Why is the price of the book kept so high?

EK: The book has been published by using the most modern photography and printing technology while the paper used in the book is of the highest standard so that it has an international quality. It has a hard bound cloth cover with a jacket and outside protective cover. Books of similar standard and quality are sold at a much higher price even in our neighbouring of this movement. This movement also produced famous filmmakers in other parts of the world.

The first thing that a film society does is organise film sessions regularly. To show films of artistic and aesthetic merit and then arrange study circles or panels of discussion to complement the screening is the main objective of a film society. The discussions concentrate on the technical and thematic aspects of a film. It is often expected of a film society that it would create an environment of publications to make people aware good cinema by making the cinegoing people aware of the importance of a national cinema reflecting the reality: social, cultural, historical and political. The role that a film society plays is thus of immense importance. It stands against the strong tide of bad films which deviate from and distort the reality by not presenting a real picture of the society.

Zahir Raihan Film Society by belonging to and believing in this tradition has been working ceaselessly. For the years since its birth on 16 May 1986, it has presented its members, well-wishers and patrons with films that made the history of the cinema, which is 108 years old. It screens films, which constitute the history of the cinema, which has become part of the film history. During these years the Film Society has organised screenings of more than two thousand films.

The three month long series of programmes to mark this eighteenth anniversary started back in March when a session of 20 best films of 2002 from 14 countries were screened. This first series includes Human Nature from France, And Your Mother Too from Mexico, Hero from China, Sweet Sixteen from Britain, Mr. and Mrs. Iyer from India, among others.

The Second Series started on Sunday and will run till Thursday at the Goethe Institut. Three films are being screened each day: at 3PM, 5PM and 7PM. The following films have been shown so far: Pinocchio oy Roberto Benigni (Italy), Spider / David Cronenberg (Canada), Das Experiment by Oliver Hirschbiegel (Germany), The Eye by Brothers Pang (Thailand), Rain by Christine Jeffs (New Zealand), The Quiet American by Philip Noyce (Australia), Dark Water by Hideo Nakata (Japan), The Warrior by Asif Kapadia (India) and Son of the Bride by Juan Jose Campanella (Argentina). The following films will be screened today (Wednesday): All or Nothing by Mike Leigh (UK), Amelie BY Jean-Pierre Jeunet (France) and Bread and Tulips by Silvio Soldini (Italy). The Mystic Masseur by Ismail Merchant (India), The Crime of Padre Amaro by Carlos Carrera (Mexico) and Killing Me Softly by Chen Kaige (China) will be screened tomorrow (Thursday). Killing Me Softly is the first English language film by Chinese filmmaker Chen Kaige.

hours. Hammond is oddly motivated to help. The killer is searching for his stash of cash. Cates and Hammond who have the Black-white, cop-crook thing to work out make surprisingly good partners as they navigate through the city looking for their suspect.

STAR MOVIES: 10.30 p.m. Lock Up. Frank Leone is nearing the end of his prison term for a relatively minor crime. Just before he is paroled however, Warden Drumgoole takes takes charge. Drumgoole was assigned to a hellhole prison after his administration was publicly humiliated by Leone, and has now arrived on the scene to ensure that Leone never sees the light of day.
