Sweeps and strokes

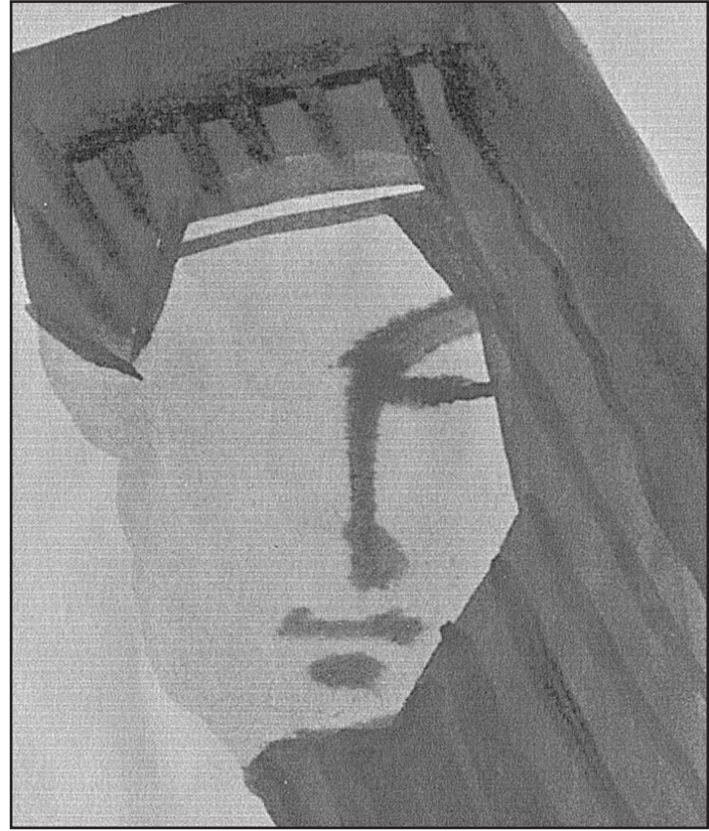

Waves of colour

Hamiduzzaman Khan's water colour exhibition at "Shilpangan"

FAYZA HAQ

HAMIDUZZAMAN Khan, talking about his oncoming water colour exhibition at "Shilpangan" on June 29th, said, "Water colour goes with my character. I enjoy capturing a subject quickly and presenting my emotions and feelings. People make notes while I make sketches with water colour which to me is like poetry as it is lyrical. I specially enjoy capturing the different seasons of the year and this is easy with water colour. Side by side with sculpture, water colour captures our character as well as that of leaves, skies and plains. Sculpture takes time and when I go to places like the Sunderbans, which I've visited 14 times, I can express myself with simple sweeps and strokes to satisfy my inner urge."

"This exhibit is like a presentation of my travels such as when I was in Bulgaria, five years back, I enjoyed the hills and trees and this I transferred on to paper. Similarly the change of the mellow autumn leaves from red to yellow was something I portrayed as it moved me enormously. I'd just been to Korea and there captured scenes from a sculpture garden. The river and the hills there, at Jinjo, were beautiful so that I couldn't resist capturing them in small sketches and water colour pieces. I also made sketches of portraits that I came across as I travelled in Korea to capture the different characters that I saw. I went to Banderban too recently and the purpose was to do some paintings to present the Hill tribe people who travel great distances with laden baskets on their backs."

Talking about the paintings of Banderban Hamiduzzaman said, "When there are many clouds the hills become like the rivers and that is how I've portrayed them in one of my pictures. The fog too prevents you sometimes from seeing any colours. With black, white and gray, I've depicted my feelings and sensations. In another painting I've left the water area blank while the blue, black, gray and brown hills gave you the feeling of loneliness. The up and down wave of these hills was something I tried to capture. The time was evening and the dark hills appeared to me like sculpted scenes of nature.

"In another painting I've tried to show the quick movements of the hilly people having simplified their bending gestures. On the backs one can see the collected fruit while the other lines and forms depicted the minimum of clothes that the people there wear and yet look so picturesque. These have been mostly in sketches of black, gray, blue and touches of red. In another painting one can visualize a woman in a blouse and sarong carrying a weight on her back. With the brown and blue washes I had used some pen strokes too."
