

Graduation 2003

Institute of Business Administration

December 19, 2003

University of Dhaka

Chief Guest

It gives me immense pleasure that the Institute of Business Administration is celebrating the graduation ceremony of BBA 7th and MBA 35th batches of graduates. My congratulations to new graduates, their parents and IBA faculties and staff.

This is a very happy moment for IBA, as the institute had successfully retained its reputation of producing top quality professional business leaders over the last 37 years. Importance of an institute like IBA has recently been surfaced very strongly when the leading employers need to recruit best ones from a large pool of business graduates produced by many other schools around.

I'm glad to know that the demands for IBA graduates have increased and all the graduating students have already been employed much earlier than their formal graduation reflecting the confidence of the employers. This has been possible because IBA graduates have come through a very rigorous academic program. They have been fully equipped with the necessary skills to run businesses and well exposed to the expectation of the employers.

The graduates can feel proud to have graduated from IBA, the prestigious institute of the University of Dhaka. It is now their duty and responsibility to apply their hard earned knowledge and skills to the best possible use of the organization they serve, and bring success and glory for themselves and the nation as a whole.

I facilitate the graduates and wish them an excellent and rewarding career.

Special Guest

"I have walked with people whose eyes are full of light but who see nothing in sea or sky, nothing in city streets, and nothing in oaks. I was far better to sail forever in the night of blindness with sense, and feeling, and mind, rather than to be content with the mere act of seeing. The only lightless dark is the night of darkness in ignorance and insensibility."

On the threshold of academic graduation and embarking into the universe of enterprise adventure, Helen Keller's comment appositely reflects the context of your achievement. To all individual MBA Graduates of batch 35th and BBA Graduates of batch 7th: I congratulate you on your triumphant academic! During your sojourn at our Alma Mater: the IBA, each of you have toiled and preformed to carve your inner niches and external behavioral excellence to consolidate your thoughts and actions to travel beyond the world of learning into the realism realm: with sense, felling and mind.

We are not born with life maps; we make them, and the making requires effort. The more effort we make to appreciate and perceive reality, the larger and more accurate our maps will be. Through the gates of our Alma Mater having chaperoned by illustrious academicians, you advance confidently in the direction of your dreams built on these maps, and with endeavors to live life, which you have imagined, you are destined to meet with a success unexpected in common hours.

There are parts of ship which taken by themselves would sink. The engine would sink. The propeller would sink. The anchor would not hold. However, when the parts of ship are built together, they float. So are with the vents at IBA: it has crafted you into a ship that floats and is going someplace! And we wait at the business enterprise harbor to receive you!

Cordial applause and congratulations to each of you Graduates - accomplishment and achievements follow your footsteps!

Director

This is one day in the year for which we all await eagerly, the day of fruition of our labor - students, staff, and faculty alike. My congratulations to the students on successful completion of an arduous journey. If we were difficult with our standards, our students were even better as they rose above them. We take as much pride in our graduates as we take in our design to meet the expectations of an ever-changing business world. Our effort to better the quality of services, teaching and support, remains as strong as it was when the Institute of Business Administration (IBA) came into being through a vision that we proudly retain and reinforce, towards a better tomorrow.

My thanks to the IBA faculty and staff, and the university at large, for support to the details of our programs - academic and non-academic. We also gratefully acknowledge the support of the larger community of business and our well-wishers without whom our program would have lost much of its competitiveness.

Our wishes to the ... MBA and BBA graduates of the institute on the verge of entry into a slightly different world that I'm sure will spur them on loftier achievements. May the zeal and resolve that they have shown at the IBA get stronger and better.

Chairperson, MBA Program

The Institute of Business Administration (IBA) was established in 1966 under the University of Dhaka to cater the need of executives in the field of business, commerce, industry and other areas of economy. Through the establishment of the institute, business education got the legitimate stature & recognition as an important academic discipline in Bangladesh. Since the inception of IBA, MBA program has been playing a pioneer role in country to provide efficient entrepreneurs and executives to the nation. The nation has passed about 33 years of her independence, but still we are lagging behind the desired level of economic development. I think one of the most important reasons behind this is the failure of our policy makers to recognize management as a separate discipline. This unfortunate nation is still passing through a serious crisis of business leaders. IBA as pioneer institute is playing a vital role to meet up this crisis of business leaders.

In MBA program we offer courses in two streams-full time and part time. To complete MBA degree in full time, it will require two years time & part time will require three & half years time. At the end, student will have to complete a four months internship program in any organization, which helps students provide a practical job exposure. The focus is a complete grooming of students with high standard so that he/she can undertake the responsibilities of an enterprise independently.

IBA is considered as a center of excellence with a very strong support system like a rich Library with huge collection of latest edition of books and journals, a modern Computer Centre, Research and Publication Centre to conduct different seminars at IBA and also to publish a research journal of international standard, Placement Office, Multimedia classrooms, Entrepreneurship and Small Business Development Centre, and Canteen etc. We have a very good number of highly qualified & competent faculty members, officers and staff.

We take it as pride that IBA graduates are 100% employed. They are mainly working in different public and private sector enterprises including multinational companies. Some of our graduates have joined Govt. services like, Tax, Customs, Police, Foreign services etc. It is worth mentioning, that most of our graduates get employment while they are in internship program. Presently a good number of CEOs in different organizations are our alumni.

The whole world has become a global village now with the blessings of technological development. We have now access to all kind of information through Internet. All kinds of trade & communication barriers have now been removed between countries under market economy and globalization. So we cannot hide any information related to socio economic development that take place globally. IBA is continuing its endeavor to incorporate all developmental issues specially in business and commerce in its course curricula to keep students up dated so that they can take the challenges of new millennium.

Chairperson, BBA Program

I am indeed very proud to present these graduates whom this Institute has arduously trained for meeting the challenges of the business world. They have worked so hard with dedication that we can rest assured that they are well-prepared to face the future. I heartily congratulate these envoys of the Institute.

This is the thirty-eighth year of IBA's existence. Through all changes in the business environment and its needs, IBA has maintained its standard of education and has not failed in preparing the graduates to meet the expectations. These graduates are not only prepared for accepting and meeting challenges but also to be the entrepreneurs of the future - who can make a difference.

In the present scenario when competition is soaring high with the increasing number of private universities, IBA, the pioneer is still the leader. I would like to thank the members of the faculty, without whose dedication IBA would not stand where it does now. I would also like to thank the officers and staffs of the Institute for their support.

On this occasion, I would like to express my appreciation to the business community for their support as they provide opportunities to our graduates. It is through a reciprocal communication that our mutual interest is being served - we are being able to prepare graduates to meet the upcoming challenges and the business community is getting better equipped with efficient managers.

I would also like to take this opportunity to emphasize the role of the Dhaka University in providing its support and cooperation to the Institute in the academic and non-academic fields.
