Mass preparedness stressed to face quake aftermath

BSS, Chittagong

Speakers at a project focusing meeting here yesterday stressed the need for adopting a sustainable and comprehensive mass casualty management preparedness to face the aftermath of earthquake.

They said such step at institutions like hospitals and schools would greatly help to keep the loss of lives and property at a minimum level with optimum services to the victims when a natural disaster particularly an earthquake strikes.

Referring to the bitter experience of the trial of devastation left by hurricane Katerina in the United States last year, the speakers pointed that Bangladesh must have a work plan and preparation with adequate logistic supports to face the earthquake or other natural disasters.

They, however, praised Bangladesh's disaster preparedness programmes that earned much appreciation internationally

'Solidarity between Bangalees, hill people a must for CHT dev'

OUR CORRESPONDENT,

Rangamat Speakers at a seminar here have underlined the need for solidarity and confidence building between hill people and Bangalees to ensure peace and development in Chittagong Hill Tracts (CHT).

They urged the leaders of Bangalee settlers and indigenous people to work for fostering mutual respect and trust among the people in the hills

The seminar on 'Prevention of conflict and promotion of solidarity and development in the Hill Tracts' was jointly organised by national daily Amar Desh and news magazine Probe at Rangamati Tribal Culture Institute on Saturday

Former chief election commissioner Justice Md Abdur Rouf addressed the seminar as chief quest while former advisor to caretaker government Subimol Dewan was the special guest. Journalist Mahfuz Ullah moderated the func-

Irtiza Nasim Ali, editor of Probe, delivered the welcome address.

The speakers said poverty is the main cause of all crises and it always obstructs ways to resolving problems

Poverty is increasing day by day among all communities in CHT which is making the situation complex, they added. The speakers said the leaders of

Bangalees and indigenous communities should realise this and work together to improve relations among all communities and change the lot of the people

They said peace is destroyed by some vested quarters to achieve their personal gains and as such people in the hill irrespective of their origins should guard against the evil elements for their own interest.

National Press Club in the city yesterday.

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

A four-member team of Bangladesh Khudra Matshajibi Samity, a platform of fishermen, yesterday submitted memorandums to the deputy minister for land and the director general of Fisheries Department to press their five-point demand, including amendment to water-body policy 2005 and incorporation of fishermen into the wetland management.

Their demands also included participation of fishermen in the leasing process of the country's water-bodies, implementation of all projects submitted by the Samity and allocation of khas land for setting up of matsha-palli (fishing villages).

Terming the water-body policy 2005 a document for the extinction of fishermen community, the Samity General Secretary Anwar Hossain Sikdar said that it has opened up opportunities for some NGOs and other vested quarters for money makina.

Describing the sufferings of the fishermen, he also said that implementation of the current policy cannot change the lot of the fishermen.

They also held a rally at Muktangan in the city where Samity President Md Israil Pandit, Organising Secretary Hasinur Rahman, Vice President Abdus Samad, Treasurer Manik Lal Dhar and other leaders were present.
