Environment and Livelihoods Adviser & Private Sector Adviser
Dhaka, Bangladesh

The Department for International Development (DFID) is the largest bilateral donor in Bangladesh. It has exciting opportunities for knowledgeable, experienced and enthusiastic development professionals to join a dynamic international team based in its Dhaka office.

DFID Bangladesh is looking for two Advisers to work as part of the Pro-Poor Growth Team, an Environment and Livelihoods Adviser and a Private Sector Adviser. You will take full responsibility for the design and supervision of parts of the Bangladesh country programme. Some in-country and international travel will be required.

As an Environment and Livelihoods Adviser you will participate in discussions on key policy and strategic issues. You will have particular responsibility for areas of work relating to environmental issues (including environmental screening of all our work in Bangladesh), climate change - particularly adaptation to climate change and disaster risk reduction and livelihoods of the poorest in rural and urban areas. You will make innovative contributions to the design and management of programmes to achieve DFID's objectives, ensuring that all initiatives clearly contribute towards poverty reduction and strategic targets. This will involve working in a number of teams, and establishing and maintaining close working relationships with key partners including the Government of Bangladesh, local and international civil society, other UK Government departments other external groups and donors. You will bring extensive experience in a relevant area of work - related to environment and development, climate change, and/or the livelihoods of the poorest.

The Private Sector Adviser will contribute to key areas of private sector development, including investment climate reform, financial sector development, and making markets work better for poor people. You will have particular responsibility for areas of work relating to improving the policy and legal environment that new and existing businesses face in Bangladesh.

You will contribute to innovative ideas for developing the private sector, and advise on the current DFID programme of private sector development activities. You will work with a number of teams, and liaise frequently with the private sector in Bangladesh, and with the Government of Bangladesh.

For both posts, you will need to demonstrate a successful track record of achievement as a development professional, especially as part of an international organisation. Applications from specialists with specific Bangladesh expertise, but also international exposure, are particularly encouraged.

You should be able to demonstrate, by example, that you have personal competence in planning and delivery of work, analysis and use of information, working and communicating with others, influencing and decision making. You must possess a relevant post-graduate degree or equivalent from an internationally recognised programme, and have excellent written and spoken English.

There will be an attractive and competitive local salary and benefits package, including a relocation allowance, to reflect the responsibility of the post and your skills and experience. Selected applicants will be able to apply for permanent membership of the appropriate DFID Advisory cadres after successfully completing a probation period of ten months.

DFID is an equal opportunities employer. We actively encourage applications from women, ethnic minority groups and those with a disability. Selection is on merit although you will need to hold Bangladeshi citizenship or have a Bangladesh work permit. We encourage applications from Bangladeshi citizens living abroad.
