

A DAY TO REMEMBER, A PRIDE TO SHARE

It was a momentous day for all when the Nobel Committee announced the Peace Prize 2006 for micro-credit guru Dr Muhammad Yunus. People became ecstatic when they heard the news. Yunus flew to Oslo with an entourage of 79 people including the representatives of Grameen Bank who shared the prize with him. The 'banker to the poor' was given a rousing reception in Oslo where he called on the Norwegian Royal family. He was also given several civic receptions on his return.
