

THE DAILY MUNDANE

There is comfort in familiarity but boredom in the too-familiar. I am not the adventurous type; does that mean that I'm missing out on the nicer things in life? Probably, but that's okay. From seeing the beauty of someone taking a peaceful nap to a dog acting as if it owns the road—it's all there in the chaos. The beautiful chaos in the most mundane parts of our lives. Problem is, we don't have the time to look.

PHOTOS & TEXT
ATIK SAMEER

