Three PCR labs open for testing RMG workers

STAR REPORT

Bangladesh Garment Manufacturers and Exporters Association (BGMEA) yesterday inaugurated its Polymerase Chain Reaction (PCR) labs, in collaboration with Diabetic Association of Bangladesh (BADAS), at Chandra, Tongi and Narayanganj to conduct Covid-19 tests garment workers.

The Chandra lab, one of these state-of-the-art labs, according to a statement from the BGMEA yesterday, was inaugurated yesterday via a zoom video conference, and can test 180 samples per day (to be increased later), said BGMEA.

We hope that testing will make it possible to bring the workers back after proper treatment," said Zahid Maleque, Health and Family Welfare minister.

"Millions of workers are involved [in the garments sector] so it is our responsibility to protect them. We thank those who have established the lab," said Commerce Minister Tipu Munshi.

"In order to prevent Coronavirus, more and more samples need to be tested to identify the patients, determine their contacts, and provide proper service," said Atiqul Islam, mayor of Dhaka North City Corporation.

Prof Dr AK Azad Khan, president of BADAS said, "Garment workers will benefit from the establishment of the labs. They are as advanced as those of the developed world. Once the labs are ready, BGMEA will be able to provide services to all it's workers."

Rubana Huq, BGMEA president said, "Workers are the most important thing to us, so we are working to create regular awareness among workers... We have taken a number of steps, such as ensuring the social distancing and taking full responsibility for the treatment of Covid-19 patients. We have ensured private hospitals and BIRDEM Hospital to provide beds for isolation needs," Huq also said.

So far, 264 garment workers have been infected with coronavirus.

Lockdowns

FROM PAGE 12 In Chile, the government said it was extending a three-week shutdown of the capital Santiago after a new record for daily deaths.

And in Peru, the second worst-hit country in Latin America, desperate residents were lining up to buy oxygen tanks for their loved ones.

"We haven't found oxygen yet," said Lady Savalla in the capital Lima.

"I'm worried about my mom more than anything else, because she's going to need a lot of oxygen and the hospital doesn't have enough. STRUGGLE TO RESTART

ECONOMIES

Since emerging in China late last year, the new coronavirus has infected nearly 6.5 million people, killed more than 386,000 and wreaked havoc on the global economy as millions were forced into lockdown.

The virus was on the rise again in Iran, which reported 3,574 new infections yesterday, its highest daily toll since the outbreak began in February and the fourth straight day of a caseload over 3,000.

While hoping the worst of the health crisis has passed, Europe is struggling to restart its stalled economies without sparking a second wave of infections.

Governors of the European Central Bank were set to meet yesterday with analysts expecting them to boost the 750 billion euro ($839 billion) Pandemic Emergency Purchase Programme (PEPP) decided in March by a further 500 billion euros.

secretaries who are mostly aged over 60, he said. The exam controller and other officials are also over 50. Since the BCS result is very sensitive, everyone's presence is needed, which is not possible during the pandemic.

"I would have been the happiest man if I could publish the results today. But we cannot do much because of coronavirus. I request the job seekers to understand the situation," the PSC chairman said.

Recruitment through BCS exams have always taken two to three years that include lengthy police verifications, health check-ups and issuance of gazette notifications.

The civil service recruitment process does not take this long in developed countries or even in South Asia countries including India.

Government jobs in Bangladesh have increasingly become more coveted for young graduates over the decade due to social security, handsome salary and transparent recruitment process. The 41st BCS appointment circular published in November last year saw 4.75 lakh candidates applying for the exams.

THE DELAYS OVER THE YEARS

In last 18 years, it took PSC two to three years to announce the final result of 16 BCS batches.

The 27th BCS took 39 months, the 28th took 27 months, the 29th took 26 months and the 30th took 20 months. It took 16 months for the 31st BCS, 14 months for the 32nd Special BCS and 20 months for the 33rd BCS.

An additional 8-10 months were needed for police verification and gazette notification.

It took PSC 30 months to publish the results of the 34th

PSC took the shortest time for publishing the 35th BCS, which was 18 months. The final results and gazettes of the 36th and 37th BCS also took nearly three years.

However, the 38th BCS has surpassed them all. PSC Chairman Mohammad Sadiq said, "It has often been seen that many competent candidates get low marks. To avoid this in the 38th BCS, we decided for the first time to have two examiners evaluate the scripts. But in many cases, the marks of the two examiners varied so widely that we had to send it to a third examiner. As a result, it has taken a year to publish the written result. That was the main reason for the delay.

He also said that the viva voce started from July 29 last year and it took eight months to take the tests of 9,000 candidates.

The demand for government jobs is not so high in many developed countries. India's civil service is the oldest in South Asia. The country's civil service recruitment process takes about 12 to 15 months.

The Union Public Service Commission of India conducts the Central Civil Service Examination. They take the preliminary examination in June of each year and publish the results in August. Then the written test in October and the results are published in January. The final results of the viva are published in May. Those who are finally selected go for the foundation training which starts from September.

Ikram Ahmed, the immediate past PSC chairman, said, "During my tenure I have had the opportunity to see how public service commissions of various countries in South Asia operate. Things here are very complicated. In fact, it takes the longest time in our country because of advertisements, applications, preparing questions, moderation and then waiting for the government press to publish it. After the exam, again you will have to wait for the evaluation. If a single examiner is late in submission, the whole result is delayed.

Asked what could be the possible solution, Ikram said that the PSC could call the examiners in the commission and request them to evaluate the papers in their office.

"If necessary, their transportation costs and honorarium can be increased. Then like India, there should be a system of 'deducting marks' in both preliminaries and written tests. This will help reduce the number of candidates. I think we should not take more than one year for this," he

Former cabinet secretary Ali Imam Majumder said, Youth is the most important time in life. But a considerable time of the educated youth is spent just for the BCS exams which is not the case in any other countries. Even after the final results, another seven-eight months are wasted in the name of police verification. It is unnecessary.

Citing the recent appointment of an additional 2,000 doctors from the 39th BCS, the gazette of which was published in November last year, without police verification, he said, "That means it is possible and it is the practice in India. ICS, CSP did not take such a long time. I think it is still possible to solve the problems. And for that we need some reforms'

Asked what the PSC was thinking about reforming to reduce time, current Chairman Mohammad Sadig said, "I have overcome a few challenges. There was not a single incident of question leak in the last five years. Transparency has been established and more candidates are coming than

"In Bangladesh, we work with 26 types of cadre appointment while in India its Central Service Commission works with only general cadres. We have general, technical and mixed cadres. Only in the education cadre, we have to take exams on nearly fifty subjects. As a result, it takes more time. To reduce time, we need to think about whether there will be so many cadres in the civil service, and if so, how to recruit them and what reform we really need is our future
