As Eid-ul-Azha approaches, online cattle market becomes popular in remote Saidpur upazila of the northern district as this practice ensures maintenance of health rules and social distancing during the coronavirus pandemic.

Many buyers even from other areas including Rangpur city are giving order online for buying sacrificial animals as local officials of government livestock department verify health status of each animal before sale and issues health certificate, inscribing age, variety, weight and other information of the animal.

The pioneer of online cattle market in the area is Jamil Ashraf Mintu, 38, of Banshbari area in Saidpur upazila town.

Instead of looking for jobs, the educated youth set up a cattle farm named 'Yousuf Dairy and Cattle Fattening Farm' on own land with four oxen in 2012.

Now there are 302 oxen and bulls in Mintu's farm and he has gained trust of buyers as his animals raised for sacrificial purposes are purely of local variety and those are reared naturally, feeding grass, bran, straw etc.

Steroids and hormones are never used

Mintu said, "Buyers choose cattle through video call with smartphone and

Dummy houses mushrooming in vacant land beside airport

Landowners building those to get better compensation in case their land is acquired for a proposed air force base there

Our Correspondent, Barishal

Within a span of only two months, over one hundred dummy houses sprung up on agricultural or otherwise unused land adjoining the proposed air force base beside the current airport in Barishal's Babuganj upazila.

Many of the new houses, brick or wood-tin structure, cannot be accessed from roads in the locality, under Khanpura village of Rahmatpur union. Some do not even have any bathroom or kitchen. And the ones that have those, they lack power connections or access to fresh water.

Locals said they built the houses after hearing that a large area of the village would be acquired by the government for an air force base and compensation for their land.

One such house owner is Sirajul Islam Pintu. He said so far, at least a hundred new houses have been built near the proposed base in the last few "More than 150 of my relatives, who own nearly 20 acres of land here, have been building new houses. Although we haven't been notified of our land being acquired [for the air force base], we thought it would be helpful for us [if we did so]," he said.

Sabina Begum of the same village said she also built a new tin-roofed house in the area and, if necessary, she might stay in the new house too.

Contacted, Shahidul Islam, additional deputy commissioner

the new houses would ensure better (revenue) in Barisal, said under the proposed plan for the air force base, around 158 acres of land, which is about one-third of the area in Khanpura village, would be needed to be acquired from the village.

The district administration has started preliminary work in this regard and they would soon send to the land ministry their proposal for the acquisition of 158 acres of land in the village. The actual acquisition work would start only after the ministry's approval to the proposal.

Ensuring that no one would gain any advantage by adopting unethical means, Shahidul said, "We already gathered video recording of the entire area. So, the recent construction there will bear no additional benefit.

Workers build a new house on the yard of an existing house, near the proposed site of an air force base next to the current airport in Barishal's Babuganj upazila. The photo was taken this Sunday. PHOTO: STAR
