Take measures to prevent rape

PM asks admin officials to create public awareness

UNB, Dhaka

Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina yesterday asked the administration to take extensive measures against rape and raise public awareness against such incidents in society.

“We will have to take extensive measures to resist such rape incidents. And after all, we need to create public awareness,” she said.

The PM was virtually addressing the concluding ceremony of the 70th Foundation Training Course for fresh cadre service officers. She joined the programme from the Gono Bhaban through a video conference.

The participants were connected from Bangladesh Public Administration Training Centre (BPATC) at Savar and the offices of seven divisional commissioners.

Hasina said the government has amended the Women and Children Repression Prevention (Amendment) Act 2000 and an ordinance has already been promulgated to check rape incidents.

She said the rape incidents that take place these days are publicised widely. “The more it is publicised, the more its prevalence increases.”

Noting that people have the right to get justice, the PM said she knows the pain of not getting justice.

Hasina said she did not have access to justice following the assassination of her father, mother, brothers and others on August 15, 1975 as indemnity was given to the killers.

She said this culture (of injustice) should not remain in the country. “It has been possible to try the killers only because I could come to power.”

Hasina said the government wants people not to fall victims to any injustice.

Focusing on the government’s vision and plans to develop the country, she asked the new cadre officers to take Bangladesh forward being imbued with the spirit of the Liberation War.

She said as the government wants to make Bangladesh a developed country by 2041, the young generation, including the trained officers who would be running the country till that time, should take the country forward in such a way that Bangladesh does not fall back any more.

The PM asked the new officers to work for the welfare of the people.

Hasina said the government wants to develop every village equipped with all civic amenities so that rural people get urban facilities.

She put emphasis on modern training for government employees so that they can cope with the pace of the world.

Public Administration Secretary Shaikh Yusuf Harun delivered the welcome speech, while BPATC Rector Md Rakib Hossain, on behalf of the PM, distributed certificates among the trained officers.

Cadre officers Monia Sirat and Mehedi Hasan Kawsar, on behalf of 663 participants of the six-month foundation training course, spoke at the function.

Death penalty

It marked the first conviction since the government this week introduced the death penalty for rape.

Gang-rape already carried the death sentence, but rape by a single offender had previously been punishable only by life imprisonment.

Bachelet cited the law change in Bangladesh, but also calls in a number of other countries to impose the death penalty for rape.

She highlighted calls in Pakistan for public hanging and castration of rapists, and a law introduced in the northwestern Nigerian state of Kaduna last month imposing surgical castration followed by execution in rape cases where the victim is under 14.

“The main argument being made for the death penalty is for it to deter rape – but in fact there is no evidence that the death penalty deters crime more than other forms of punishment,” Bachelet said.

“Evidence shows that the certainty of punishment, rather than its severity, deters crime.”

She stressed that in most countries, “the key problem is that victims of sexual violence do not have access to justice in the first place.”

This was due to a range of factors, including “stigma, fear of reprisals, entrenched gender stereotypes and power imbalances,” she said, stressing that handing the death penalty to perpetrators would not remove those barriers.

by-election was held for the post of chairman of Charbhadrasan upazila parishad in Faridpur.

According to the case statement, Nixon, 42, called Atul Sarkar, deputy commissioner of Faridpur, over mobile phone around 8:00am the previous day and expressed his displeasure over the appointment of more magistrates.

On the day of the election, AC (Land) of Bhanga arrested an activist of Nixon’s for violating the election code of conduct.

Nixon then used abusive language directed in a phone conversation with Jasmin Sultana, Charbhadrasan Upazila Nirbahi Officer.

Nixon also violated the election code of conduct by participating in a victory rally after the announcement of Charbhadrasan upazila election results, the case statement read.

Nazneen Khanum, officer-in-charge of Charbhadrasan Police Station, who accepted the case, said they would investigate the matter.

The district Awami League unit expressed regret to the deputy commissioner (DC) of Faridpur for Nixon’s unedifying behavior on Wednesday. Members of Bhanga upazila AL unit also formed a human chain demanding his punishment.

However, at a press conference, Nixon denied the allegation of using abusive language and sought legal action against the Faridpur DC, claiming that he acted in favour of BNP candidate KM Obaidul

UNO SUES SUSPENDED MAYOR IN BERA

In an unrelated development in Pabna, Bera Upazila Nirbahi Officer Asif Anam Siddiquee filed a case against the suspended mayor of Bera municipality for assaulting him during the upazila law and order committee meeting.

The UNO filed a case with Bera Police Station on Wednesday night, police said.

Talking to The Daily Star, the Bera UNO said suspended mayor Abdul Baten proposed to include the unlawful allotment of Kazirhaat and Nagarbari ghat to Bera upazila parishad so that they could be leased out.

When the UNO refused to sign the proposal, the mayor allegedly misbehaved with him during the meeting on Monday. He was suspended the following day.

Later, the UNO filed a case with Bera police station on Wednesday night accusing Abdul Baten of assaulting him and obstructing the regular work of the government.

Officer-in-charge of Bera Police Station said the case was recorded and they were investigating the incident. Police are trying to nab the accused, the OC added.

Abdul Baten, also the younger brother of lawmaker of Pabna-1 Samsul Haque Tuku, in a press conference earlier refuted the allegation of assaulting the UNO.

Quoting the case statement, the PP also said that the victim and Sagar have known each other through mobile conversation since 2012.

Sagar took the girl to Elenga by a CNG-run three-wheeler when she reached in Shaldair area on her way to the madrasa on January 15 the same year. He later took her to the house of Rajan, his friend and another accused in the case, at Charalajani in Madhupur on the same day.

Sagar, by the four other accused, pressurised her for marrying him. The girl, however, refused as Sagar was a Hindu man.

Then Sagar raped the girl at the house the same night.

They later took the girl beside the Bonshi river at night on January 17 and Sagar and two others raped her again. They later left her there in unconscious state.

In the morning (January 18), the girl, with the help of locals, went to Madhupur Bus Stand and informed the matter to her brother over phone. Later, her family members went there and took her to the house.

The girl filed a case against the five people with Bhuapur Police Station on the same day.

Police arrested Sujon Chandra Moni Rishi, one of the accused, the same day and Sujon gave confessional statement to the court under Section 164 the next day (January 19).

Later the four other accused were also arrested.

After investigation, police submitted a charge sheet against the five. Later, the trial of the case started with framing charges against the accused on October 29.

The PP expressed his satisfaction over the verdict saying that the victim got justice.

On the other hand, Golam Mostofa, one of the lawyers of the accused, said they were not satisfied over the verdict and they would appeal to the higher court against it.

Already hit hard by plummeting income due to the novel coronavirus, Hosne Ara is now looking for alternative ways to make ends meet.

“I’ve curtailed my grocery shopping list and I buy vegetables at night to get comparatively lower prices,” she added.

Egg, a good source of protein for the poor and limited income group, has also become dearer.

Farhad Hossain, who runs a grocery shop in Jatrabari, said he bought 100 eggs for Tk 890 a week ago. “Now it is sold at Tk 920 in the wholesale market. I will sell each dozen at Tk 144,” he said, adding that he earlier sold a dozen for Tk 100-110.

The price of broiler chicken, another good source of protein, has also increased to Tk 130 from Tk 120 a kg.

MYSTERY OVER POTATO

Fixing the retail price of potato at Tk 30 a kg, the Department of Agriculture Marketing (DAM) issued a letter to deputy commissioners on October 7.

In the letter, DAM claimed that about 1.09 crore tonnes of potato was produced last year against an annual domestic demand of 77.09 lakh tonnes. Though the country exports potato, there is less possibility of crisis, read the letter.

According to DAM, the price of a kg of potato when kept in cold storages was Tk 14.

The cost of cold storage rent, interest, collection charge, and weight loss stand at Tk 9. Considering that factor, if the potato is sold at Tk 23 per kg, persons who kept potato at cold storage will get Tk 2 profit.

If the wholesaler adds Tk 2 per kg profit, the price would be Tk 25 and it is not reasonable to charge over Tk 30 per kg at retail stage, read the letter.

A farmer spent Tk 8.32 to produce one kg potato, it said.

Four days after the DAM’s letter, Bangladesh Cold Storage Association (BCSA) on October 11 called upon farmers and traders to get the potato out of storage in an attempt to stabilise the price.

The association said that this year the production of potato was 85 lakh tonnes and due to transport and labour crisis for Covid-19 only 40 lakh tonnes of potatoes were kept in cold storages.

However, DAM Director General Mohammad Yousuf disputed BCSA’s potato production figure of 85 lakh tonnes. He said about 1.09 crore tonnes of potatoes was produced this year.

About 55 percent of 40 lakh tonnes potato has already been sold in the market. Of the remaining, 10 lakh tonnes are seed potato which will be used for the next cultivation season in November, read the BCSA letter.

A source said with the remaining potatoes, another one and half months will be covered. The newly harvested potato is supposed to hit the market by the end of December as potato cultivation was delayed by the flood.

He explained that the IPS is a vision for peace and stability and not directed at any specific country. For long, South Asia has been left out of most Asian strategies where the US participates.

Stephen Biegun arrived just weeks before the US elections and at a time when nearly 1.1 million people have died from Covid-19. Last month, US Defence Secretary Mark T Esper called on the prime minister and discussed many issues, including defence cooperation.

Bangladesh Foreign Minister AK Abdul Momen and Biegun yesterday spoke with warmth and new hope of solid relations at a meeting at the State Guesthouse Padma in the capital yesterday morning. The meeting lasted for about two hours.

“The US sees Bangladesh as a key partner in the Indo-Pacific region ... we are committed to growing our partnership in this regard to advance a free and open Indo-Pacific. Bangladesh will be the centrepiece of our work in the region,” Biegun told reporters at an open-stage press conference afterwards.

He said he was pleased to have the latest chapter of cooperation that has bound Bangladeshi and American people for many years.

Momen said the US impression about Bangladesh has improved manifold because of the country’s sustained growth, stability, and geopolitical location.

“We have a very stable government and democracy. We believe in the same values and principles. Therefore, our relationship is becoming more solid ... we look forward to it. I have no doubt it will continue to improve. We hope to achieve many goals.”

Biegun said from Covid-19 vaccine cooperation to trade and investment, agro-processing industries, IT, pharmaceuticals and energy, US companies were showing increased interest in Bangladesh.

Biegun arrived Wednesday afternoon and had a meeting with State Minister for Foreign Affairs Shahriar Alam that day.

Yesterday morning, he visited the Bangabandhu Memorial Museum in Dhanmondi before his meeting at the guesthouse.

Around noon, he called on Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina at the Gono Bhaban and then visited the Kurmitola General Hospital where he donated some medical equipment.

TRADE, INVESTMENT

During the meetings, Bangladesh sought large US investments, including in energy, IT, pharmaceuticals, agro-processing, blue economy, relocation of US companies, climate-change adaptation, said Momen.

“We want big investments. I said we want to build a dedicated Dhaka-Chattogram train line. We want to stop river erosion, build embankments to check the impacts of climate change,” he said.

Biegun said they would work on it and apprised that many US companies were interested in investing here and that Bangladesh should be part of the global supply chain.

At the Westin press conference yesterday afternoon, he said Bangladesh and US have recently kicked off an economic dialogue. The two countries appointed representatives who have started developing a work plan that would be a roadmap for deepening economic relationship.

Biegun said the US is the second largest investor in Bangladesh after the UK.

“Our business community is having increased interest in Bangladesh because of the size of your consumer class, skilled labour, and the geographical location on the bank of the Bay of Bengal. It makes an attractive place for US investors,” he said.

Bangladesh also sought post-Covid-19 economic recovery assistance that America is giving countries that have good relationships with the US.

Biegun, however, said Bangladesh has a big economy and that they encourage signing a free trade agreement.

Asked if Washington sees Bangladesh in the eyes of New Delhi, Momen replied in the negative.

“The media says that. It’s not right. We are an independent and sovereign country. We have values and principles. We do what we need to do for our interests. The US looks at us independently. If the US saw us in New Delhi’s eyes, he would not have come here,” he said.

ROHINGYA REPATRIATION

Bangladesh sought a strong US role for Rohingya repatriation.

Biegun said the US has been the biggest contributor of humanitarian assistance for the Rohingyas and it will continue. However, a permanent solution lies in the Rohingyas’ return to Myanmar, which should create conducive conditions and ensure rights.

He said the US has been using its political influence as much as possible to influence decisions inside Myanmar regarding the treatment and restoration

Ihsanul Karim briefed reporters after the meeting.

Quoting Biegun, Ihsanul said the United States also wants a permanent solution to the protracted Rohingya crisis.

“We will continue to extend our support to Bangladesh on this issue,” the press secretary quoted Biegun as saying.

Hasina mentioned that over 1.1 million forcibly displaced Rohingyas are living in Bangladesh at the moment, which is an extra burden on the country.

“The problem has been created by Myanmar and we are holding dialogues with them ... they should take their citizens back,” she said.

The PM said the Rohingya issue is a social problem, and a large number of the displaced Myanmar nationals are living at camps in Cox’s Bazar.

“Some quarters could mislead them and get them involved in anti-social activities. So, we need their immediate repatriation to their homeland,” she said.

The premier and the US deputy secretary of state discussed the issue of bringing back Bangabandhu’s convicted fugitive killer Rashed Chowdhury, now in the USA.

Biegun informed that the case was being reviewed by the US attorney general’s office.

He said the visa services for Bangladeshi students would be reopened once the Covid-19 situation improves.

The US deputy secretary of state, who arrived in Bangladesh on Wednesday, said he has already discussed the issue of economic cooperation with Bangladesh officials.

“The US government will closely work with Bangladesh for promoting economic and trade relations,” he said.

He discussed with the PM the coronavirus situation in the USA and said that over two lakh people have died there after being infected with the deadly virus.

“We are close to making vaccines available and hopefully those will be available in the market in the next two weeks,” he said.

According to Biegun, several US companies are manufacturing the vaccines as widespread vaccination will start from next year.

The US deputy secretary of state highly appreciated Bangladesh’s tremendous economic stability and progress under the leadership of Hasina.

He said Bangladesh is attracting foreign investment in huge volumes. The United States wants to further strengthen cooperation with Bangladesh in the energy sector, he added.

Hasina said her government is setting up 100 special economic zones across the country to attract more investment from home and abroad as well as generate employment.

She also briefly highlighted her government’s steps to contain the Covid-19 alongside keeping the wheels of the country’s economy moving.

US Ambassador in Dhaka Earl R Miller and PM’s Principal Secretary Ahmad Kaikaus were present during the meeting.

Ardern vows to quit if she loses

NZ election

AFP, Wellington

New Zealand Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern said yesterday she will step down as leader of the centre-left Labour Party if opinion polls prove wrong and she loses Saturday’s general election.

The prospect appears remote, with Labour enjoying a 15 point lead in the polls, but Ardern responded with a firm “No” when asked during a televised debate whether she would remain as opposition leader if the vote does not go her way.

The 40-year-old, who has led New Zealand through a string of crises in the past three years culminating in the Covid-19 pandemic, said her commitment to the job had demanded sacrifice.
