Mastans rule chicken market

City markets run short of fowl supply

By Khalilur Rahman

Price of chicken and ducks has recorded a considerable rice during the last one week in the city market. The sudden increase in price is due to the short supply

The traders have refused to bring chickens and ducks from far flung mofussil areas in view of extortion of tolls by a gang of 'mastans' at the wholesale depot at Tejgaon.

President of the Chicken-Duck Dealers' Association, Mr. Abdul Wahab has strongly condemned the harassment meted out to the small traders by the illegal toll collectors. The gang members, at times, snatch away money and other belongings from the delears coming from rural areas if anyone refuse to pay illegal tolls, Mr. Wahab alleged. He said that they did not get protection from the law enforcing agency despite repeated appeals.

tant places and reach Dhaka by trains and road transports and deposit the collection at the huge depot at Tejgaon. From there the ducks and chickens are distributed to the local city markets. The supply is too scanty though these are largely available in the rural areas.

During my visit to some local markets in the city I saw very small number of chickens and ducks are on sale. The shop keepers were charging higher prices for the item to a large number of buyers. The purchasers were struggling to get those from the shopkeepcrs. A small size chicken was sold at Taka 20 to Taka 25 a week ago. The price of the same is now Taka 35 to Taka 40 per piece.

Oil prices stable PARIS, Feb 10: Oil prices have displayed remarkable stability as the ground phase of the Gulf War approaches, a characteristic they have shown ever since the start of the war, observers commented on Friday, reports AFP. That remains true despite a surge of gas oil prices this week due to a cold wave in

Business =

Europe. The oil market surprised everybody on the first day of the war as prices plunged more than 10 dollars a barrel. But since then, crude oil prices have not varied much more than a dollar on either side of the 20-dollar-a-barrel

North Sea Brent, the British Marker crude, plummeted from 32 dollars a barrel on January 16 for nearby delivery to 21.30 the next day, the start of the war. In the latest session (Friday), Brent for March delivery was quoted at the close in London at 19.95 dollars a barrel, against 20 at the opening and 20.15 at the Thursday to 21.47 dollars a barrel. In commenting on the surprising price plunge when hostilities broke out, one European oil company analyst said that "after having taken it on the chin, operators realized a bit late that the oil market was in balance, and was even oversupplied."

In New York, light sweet crude for March was up 25 cents at 1830 GMT on Friday

Many experts were predicting before the start of the conflict that crude would rocket to 40 dollars.

Plea to cancel

The steering committee of Bangladesh Citizens Committec Saturday urged the government to cancel the lease agreement signed by the fallen government with a foreign company, Scimitar, for the extraction of Hartpur oil, reports

The steering committee issucd a statement following exchange of views by its leaders with the representatives of the All-Party Students Unity, according to a press release.

The committee expressed its dismay and surprise that no steps as yet have been taken by the interim government for cancelling the lease agreement. "The people are also surprised that the political parties have raised no demand in this respect so far," it added.

In the statement the committee said failure to confiscate the illegal money of former president Ershad, his associates, corrupt businessmen and bureaucrats had created a great imbalance in the election race. Attachment of illegal money and recovery of illegal arms are a must for a free and fair election, it said.

The committee demanded cancellation of candidature of Ershad, his arrested ministers sued and immediate trial of Erhsad.

It took serious exception to erats and businessmen.

During the exchange of views with the student leaders, Prof. Khan Sarwar Murshed. architect Mazharul Islam, Justice K. M. Sobhan, engineer Sheikh Md. Shahidullah, Mrs. Nurjahan Murshed and others spoke on behalf of the commit tce. Asim Kumar Ukt Nasirudujja , Fazlul Huq Milon and others were present on bchalf of the APSU.
