In Quest of A Raison D'etre

by Fayza Haq

In his second solo exhibition, G.S. Kabir has once again displayed a variety of sketches and a vibrant choice of colours. This display was recently held at La Galerie at Banani. The painter had gone out in quest of finding the reason for his existence. "Who am I and what am I doing here?" were Kabir's persistent questions, as was remarked by M.S. Degallaix, the French Ambassador. Lonesome and in search of happiness, the artist painted a world of dark hues and frightening blacks.

Kabir's images were crammed with the theme of ugliness and disappointment of life, although he had not brought in the subject of the hypocrites and prostitutes, as he did so obviously last time. His use of dark colours brought in pessimism. All through his compositions there were criss-crossing lines denoting confusion and conflict. Grey and black dominated his work and yet the creations were not entirely gloomy as there was always the hint of the pink or red to relieve the eye.

Couple: Oil on paper

"My love", one of the boldest of his creations, had garish combinations of greys, blues and blacks. The woman in it was depicted almost as a caricature rather than the conventional idyllic delineation of one's treasured feelings. Like many of the figures in his earlier exhibition, she was almost an object of fun and derision.

Although there was plenty of silver and white to relieve the gloom and various mystifying swirls of reds, yet the theme of chaos and confusion was very pertinent in the backdrop. Even the smile on the woman's lips seemed one of mockery.

"Image - 1" showed a modern urban existence with all its squalor. The paints were laid on so thick that they had a three dimensional effect. There were the broken windows, the shattered panes and the beat-up door, apart from the grimy walls. It was a true portrayal of many parts of our modern metropolitan existence.

Kabir's "Known-Unknown" was once more done on imitation leather with harsh cement-like use of paints, and was a fantasy in silver, green and pink. The red circle in the forefront with the deliberate cross added to the mystery and the aura of fairy-tale effect.

The artist's "Reverie" was a triangle filled with swirls of abstractions denoting fear and doubt, more than having any hint of symbols of a sweet dream. The blue and red along with the minute half-moon could not relieve the impression of doubts on the mind of the viewer. The creation, however was mounted on a vast mass of romantic sweet - sixteen pink. Images of a man and woman at work came in "Couple-A". The way in which the figures were drawn, once more brought in the theme of toil and continuous struggle. Like so many other angry young painters Kabir saw the world as a place where a man must live by the sweat of his brow. Nothing was easy to achieve. His paintings of series on "Tension" were all similar in theme but varied in composition, images and hues. The artist wished to point out that people had to be constantly in a state of hustle and bustle to make ends meet. There were endless splashes and swirls of reds and blues.

The series entitled "Emotion" had each of the pieces charged with conflicting feelings of love and hatred. Wire-like lines and splashes and swirls of vermilion dominated the images, and relieved the sense of despair, want and need. For a change, impression of images were brought in "Joy" and "Doll", although they were more Surrealistic and Impressionistic than anything else. Bars, circles and sweeps dominated the red and green images that were overpowered by the grey outlines.

Kabir's "Positive Disregard" was a massive silver abstraction on black. Circles, squares and lines relieved the monotony of the extensive use of silver. Dramatic black and scarlet lines held the gigantic composition together. In displaying his emotions and experiences, the artist created a fascinating world of mystery and gloom, interspersed with occasional happiness.

All laws against workers' interests to go

Laid-off industries to be reopened: Khaleda

Prime Minister Begum Khaleda Zia said in Dhaka Wednesday that the present government would take necessary measures against all laws contrary to the interests of the workers of the country. Addressing a discussion on May Day organised by the Labour Directorate at the auditorium of the Institution of Engineers, the Prime Minister said "my government will give sympathetic review to the just demands of the labourers and find out realistic solutions to their problems."

State Minister for Labour and Manpower Rafiqul Islam Mian, Labour Secretary Nuruddin Al-Masud, Labour Director D.A.F. Chowdhury, Vice Chairman of Tripartite Advisory Parishad (Labour) Pratapuddin Ahmed, President of Bangladesh Employees' Association Latifur Rahman and Additional Labour Director M.A.S. Talukdar also spoke on the occasion.

A special prayer was offered on the occasion for the peace of the departed souls of the cyclone victims and seeking divine blessings from the Almighty Allah to give the nation the strength to overcome the crisis.

Begum Zia called upon the labourers to stand by the side of the affected people in the cyclone-hit areas and help the government in mitigating their sufferings.

The Prime Minister said the present government had already taken initiatives to reopen the laid-off industries. She said, if necessary a new people-oriented labour policy would be introduced to realise the new steps.

The Prime Minister said there was no alternative, but to the increase production for achieving development of the country. If necessary, two or three shifts have to be introduced in the mills and factories for increasing production, she said.

She said there was no short-cut route to development. The road to development is always difficult, laborious and time-consuming. The Prime Minister said her government would certainly take all possible measures to reach the benefits of production to the working people.

Begum Zia said the workers, specially the industrial labourers, would have to play a pioneering role in making the economic base of the country stronger. She said, "you must work together to make the economy strong and protect the independence of the country."

She said the independence and sovereignty would become meaningful only when the country is economically self-reliant.

She said the present government wants to establish a relation of friendship with the workers of the country. It also want to see that brotherly affection prevails among the workers and employers. She said peace and stability were prerequisite for industrial development.

Begum Zia expressed her belief that the May Day would work as an inspiration for improving life and family welfare of the working class and increasing production in mills and factories. It is necessary to maintain good relations among the workers and employers and make production system proper and welfare oriented to realise the spirit of May Day, she said.

8-hr working day yet to be implemented: SKOP

Sramik Karmachari Oikya Parishad Wednesday urged the government to fulfil its 5-point demand, reports UNB.

The SKOP leaders, addressing a rally organised in front of the Jatiya Press Club in the afternoon in observance of historic May Day, hoped the democratic government established after a long struggle would materialise the "just" demands of workers and employees.

Addressing the rally, Abdul Wahed, Joint Secretary of Jatiya Sramik Jote, said the autocratic government of Ershad didn't concede to the demands of the workers and employees.

The present government is also yet to announce the pay commission report and the wage commission for employees and workers, he added.

The rally also demanded arrest of price hike of essentials, withdrawal of lay-off on different mills and factories, stopping termination and harassment of workers.

Earlier, hundreds of workers and employees carrying red flags and beating drums danced and sang while joining the rally in processions from different parts of the city to extend solidarity with the working class on the historic occasion.

The rally observed although the tolling people of the world had achieved 8-hour working day through long struggle culminating in the 1886 Hay Market sacrifices, it was yet to be fully implemented in Bangladesh.

Workers in garment and other mills and factories still work 14 to 15 hours a day with less remuneration and often being harassed by the management.

The rally over, a procession was brought out, which paraded Gulistan, through Fulbaria and dispersed at Zero Point.

A cultural show was arranged in the evening to mark the day.

SKOP leaders Nurul Islam, Abul Bashir, Muklesur Rahman, Shirin Akhter, Yakub Ali Bhuiyan, Pratapuddin, among others, were present at the rally.

Journalists observe May Day

Country's journalist community Wednesday expressed great shock at the loss of life and property in Monday night's devastating cyclone, reports UNB.

Journalists at a rally at the Jatiya Press Club on the occasion of historic May Day observed one-minute silence paying respect to the departed souls of those who lost their lives in the cyclonic catastrophe.

It also paid tributes to the memory of those who made supreme sacrifices at Hay Market in American city Chicago on this day in 1886, to realise rights and working condition of the workers.

Presided over by Riazuddin Ahmed, President of the Bangladesh Federal Union of Journalists (BFUJ), the rally was addressed, among others, by BFUJ Secretary General Amanullah Kabir, DUJ President Zahurul Haq, General Secretary Ruhul Ameen Gazi and Joint Secretary MA Aziz, former BFUJ Secretary General Syed Zafar, former DUJ Vice-President Masud Nizami, DUJ Publicity Secretary Delwar Hossain and Office Secretary Kazim Reza.

In his presidential speech, Riazuddin Ahmed explained significance of May Day in our national life.

He called upon all members of the community to take a fresh vow imbued with the spirit of the historic day for realising legitimate rights of journalists and ensuring freedom of press.

Expressing great concern at the present unstable condition in the country's newspaper industry, Riaz called for launching a fresh and continuous struggle against victimisation of union members and representatives.

"Laws empowering the management to serve simple termination notices are absolutely detrimental to the interests of the employee," he said.

The BFUJ President assured the rally that an action programme would be announced soon seeking resolution of multifarious problems facing the press and pressmen.
