Philippines selling volcanic ash:
The Philippines is selling bottles of volcanic ash at 10 dollars apiece to raise funds for thousands of people made homeless by Mount Pinatubo's eruption, President Corazon Aquino said on Sunday, reports Reuter from Manila.

I have told (Foreign) Secretary Raul Manglapus to try if it's possible to sell all over the world these little souvenirs of Mount Pinatubo, specially where we have consulates, Aquino said in a radio broadcast.

Perhaps 10 dollars isn't asking too much. Aquino also appealed for donations of sacks to be used to collect volcanic ash which swamped towns around the volcano.

IRA bomb detonated by army: Army explosives experts detonated a bomb Sunday that had been planted outside a military recruiting office in northeast England, the Ministry of Defense said, AP from London reports. The blast rocked the heart of Preston, a town 195 miles (315 kilometers) northeast of London, and caused some structural damage to buildings. No injuries were reported. There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the incident, but police said the Irish Republican Army was suspected.

The bomb was unstable and the army team decided to detonate it rather than risk an attempt to move it, a Ministry of Defense spokesman said.

The bomb was spotted by a staff member at the Royal Air Force recruiting office, he said.

The office is just a half-mile (kilometer) from Preston's main railway station where two months ago a cache of 20 incendiary devices was discovered on a platform.

Warsaw Pact to go: Representatives from the six remaining Warsaw Pact countries were gathering Monday to complete the disbanding of the once-powerful military alliance binding the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, says AP from Prague.

Czechoslovak President Vaclav Havel, ironically, will preside over the last meeting of the Warsaw Pact Political Committee. Havel was a playwright turned dissident who was jailed by the former Communist regime after the 1968 Warsaw Pact invasion crushed the Prague Spring reform Comecon, the Soviet-led trade bloc, was disbanded Friday at a brief meeting in Budapest, Hungary.

Poland will be represented by its president, Lech Walesa, the former Solidarity labor union leader and Romania by President Ion Iliescu, an ex-Communist.

13 guerillas killed in Salvador : Government soldiers killed at least '13 leftist guerillas after ambushing them in this small town in central El Salvador, the military and witnesses said Sunday, AP reports from Rio Frio. A news release from the headquarters of the army's 5th

Infantry Brigade in San Vincente, 38 miles (61 kilometers) east of San Salvador, said the clash took place Saturday night. The government troops set up an ambush that trapped an estimated 30 to 40 guerillas as they marched through the town, the news release said. At least 13 guerillas were killed, and the rest fled after a firefight, it said. Residents of the town, which is five miles (8 kilometers) east of San Vincente, at first refused to talk to reporters about the gun battle. But one witness, Pedro Mario Urias, 38, later confirmed that fighting broke out Saturday night while most of the towns people were attending prayer services.

3 Slovenian ministers resign: The three Slovenian members of Yugoslavia's Federal Government resigned Sunday, Tanjug news agency said, quoting Slovenian Radio, AFP reports from Belgrade.

Deputy Prime Minister, Zivko Pregl, Transport and Communication Minister, Joze Slokar and Information Minister, Darko Marin, resigned with the agreement of the leaders of the breakaway Republic, Tanjug said.

No reason was given for the resignations. They came as the Yugoslav Prime Minster was in the Slovenian Capital Ljubljana for talks with Slovenian leaders prior to a meeting of the Federal Government in Belgrade on Sunday evening.

British pilot killed: A British pilot was killed when his bi-plane crashed during an air show on Sunday, police said, reports Reuter from London.

Peter Tredaway, 57, was giving a flying display in his preworld war two De Havilland Rapide Aircrast when it plunged into a field in front of a crowd of 8,000 people.

His 23-year-old son Peter was among the spectators at the show in Essex in southern England.

Appeal to oust Saddam: An Iraqi opposition leader appealed Sunday for international help to topple fragi President Saddam Hussein and put him on trial war crimes, AP from Damascus says.

The appeal was made by Baian Jabar on the second-day of a weekend meeting in the Syrian capital of the Iraqi Opposition Committee, an umbrella group for about 20 organizations opposed to Saddam and his ruling Arab Baath Party. Jabar is responsible for the committee's general secretariat.

He appealed to the world community to "encircle the Iraqi regime politically and economically" to help oust Saddam and bring him to trial.

The international community has maintained a boycott against Iraq that has been in place since shortly after Iraq's Aug 2 invasion of Kuwait. The United States has said the boycott should remain in force until Saddam is removed from

There was no immediate response from the Indian government, but the Press Trust of India (PTI) said Moshe Yegar, Israeli's Assistant Director General for Asian and African terday for talks on the case.

Yitzakhi fell into the hands of the JKLF after he and seven other israelis fought off a rival Kashmiri Muslim secessionist group in a botched kidnapping attempt in which one other israeli tourist died.

However, a hardline group holding Indian Oil Corp. (IOC) Executive E K Doraiswamy, kidnapped Friday, set a 3:00 pm Monday (0930 GMT) deadfine for his execution if the government did not release three of their colleagues.

"The countdown for Doraiswamy's execution has begun," a caller identifying himself as a representative of the A JKLF representative Ikhwan-ul-Muslimeen, said Sunday afternoon.

He said the body of the executive, who was snatched while supervising the construction of a new gas storage depot on the outskirts of the city Friday afternoon, would be dropped at the gates of the statehouse in Srinagar.

Saudi Arabia seizes eight Iranian planes

TEHERAN, July 1: Saudi Arabia has seized eight Iran air planes that belonged to Kuwait and had been repainted in the colours of the Iranian national carrier, the World of Islam Newspaper reported Sunday, reports AFP.

The paper, which is close to Iranian hardliners, said the aircraft were seized at Jeddah Airport where they had been flown to repatriate Iranian pilgrims from the nearby Muslim holy city of Mecca.

The planes were "among a number of Kuwaiti aircraft put in storage in Iran by the Iraqi regime," it said.
