Prime Minister Begum Khaleda Zia has directed the concerned authorities to extend agricultural loan to the peasants through cooperative societies during the current season, Minister for LG and Cooperatives Abdus Salam Talukdar, told the Jatiya Sangsad Monday, reports BSS.

He was replying to a supplementary question from Sardar Sakawat Hossain Bakul (BNP-Narsingdi).

Earlier, the minister told the House that the total capital of the country's cooperative banks stood at Taka 332,55,98,000 till June 30, 1991.

The amount of outstanding loans of the cooperative banks stood at Taka 158,49,70 lakh till June 30, 1991.

Replying to another question, Talukdar listed the measures already taken by the government for realising the outstanding loans. These include the holding of loan realisation conferences at the national level at Dhaka and divisional levels.

He, however, said that arrangements have also been made to write off agricultural loan of those cooperators who come within the purview of government's directives for exemption of agricultural loan up to Taka 5,000.

Plea to solve problems in cigarette sector

Star Economic Report

The workers and employees of Bangladesh Tobacco Company Ltd (BTC) on Monday urged the authorities and the government to solve problems in the cigarette sector for avoiding the closure of the BTC factory in Chittagong.

Saidul Islam Minu, General Secretary of BTC Sramik Karmachari Union in a press conference at the National Press Club said BTC has decided to close its factory at Bhatari of Chittagong by the end of December due to smuggling of foreign cigarettes and enhancement of excise duty. He stated that the closure would force 1,100 workers of the factory jobless. Besides, the Rangpur Leaf Factory would also be closed if the Chittagong factory does not exist. The Tobacco farmers would also suffer loss, he added.

Saidul said the workers had urged the BTC authorities for streamlining the marketing and distribution system. This could increase the profitability of BTC he stated. But the authorities did not take any step in this effect.

He said the increase in excise duty failed to yield higher revenue as the government expected. After raising the duty from 62 per cent to 73 per cent in 1989-90, the revenue earning from BTC dropped to about Taka 35 crore, he mentioned. The recent increase in cigarette prices has caused a downslide in its sale by 40 per cent, he added.

Saidul said the cigarette industries should get immediate attention as it has bright chance of exporting its products. He also demanded the establishment of a Tobacco Board in this context.

A M Anisuzzaman, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Uttara Bank Limited presiding over the 8th Annual General Meeting of the bank on Sunday. Among other the directors of the bank — Monzurul Islam, M Masihur Rahman, Golam Rahman, A K M Syedur Rahman (Managing Director), Aminul Huq Chowdhury, Ziaul Huq, Azharul Islam are also seen.

Executive tips

Administrative tasks : Management by objectives

Shahabuddin Mahtab

1. The objective to be attained by a public servant is to achieve certain tasks for which he has been made responsible, and he has to attain this with the least possible cost. The senior executive or the top manager is provided with resources in the shape of men, materials and money. The success of a manager depends on the maximum utilization of the resources available to him.

2. The experience of Bangladesh in the past has been that the progress and success of many of our programme and projects, has been greatly delayed, unfulfilled and hampered primarily due to the lack of administrative and managerial expertise and competence.

3. The objective that is set for a public servant is to improve the administration and management of our organisations. The attainment of these objectives will have as its end product, better service and output to the nation.

4. In the socio-political condition that we live in, the management of any organization is a difficult, if not a stupendous task.

5. The administrator in the first instance is required to know intimately the organization that he is working with, and its short, medium and long term problems and also the development plans with which it is associated. The first task for the administrator is to plan and organise. In a situation of multifarious problems, competing demands and severe constraint of resources, planning of any kind is a difficult and painful task. In the matter of planning, one has to have a thorough and adequate knowledge of the subject that he is dealing with and the environmental situation. One is not supposed to be a specialist in many areas, and there is no harm in seeking expert advice all such cases.

6. A planner is required to have a constructive and positive attitude of looking at problems with a determination and decisiveness to solve them. For this many qualities of the head and heart are necessary. He has to identify the problem, and find its solution.

7. The next step to planning is to organise. In every place there is a hierarchy and an administrator has to work through it. The skill in organising would depend on one's ability to work with people, and knowing their individual strength and weakness. The success of an organisation would depend on how best the human resources are utilized.

8. The concept "direction" as changed over the years. Now this is covered more by participation, sharing, understanding and teaching. The old "drive" technique has now been replaced by the human relations school.

9. Similarly the concept of "control" has undergone a major change. The fear concept of control has now been dropped, and it has now taken the form of "help." But then again all such tools of administration are required to be examined in the context of Bangladesh and their applicability here.

10. We may briefly state here that the role of communication in administration and management cannot be overemphasized. Without good communication there can hardly be any effective management. Similarly we would state that the art of decision making forms an important ingredient in achieving administrative tasks.

11. Of growing concern in the erosion of discipline, and that of authority. Here again the "personal authority (image)" of the senior administrator can do more than his "positional authority."

12. The attainment of management objectives is more an art than a science. All organisations are run by people; therefore human behaviour and motivation play an important role here. We cannot always expect rational behaviour in administration. We are not a bundle of reasons but also a bundle of emotions. The central concern of administrative theory is with the boundary between rational and the non-rational aspects of human social behaviour.

13. One of the problems that an administrator often faces is the problem of putting things off. Procrastination is deleterious any administrator. This can cause immense harm. What can be done just now, must be done just at the moment. Day's work should be finished during the day or the next day. Priority has to be fixed. Long hours of work are often necessary. Management of time is a must for all administrators.

14. It is an undeniable fact that administration/management, as it is in Bangladesh to-day, is perhaps the most difficult form of management. For this knowledge, experience, specialization and the best of human qualities are necessary.
