800 wildlife species already extinct in Bangladesh

Prof Shamsul Huq, Chairman of the University Grants Commission, has stressed the need for an appropriate policy for preserving the wildlife resources, reports BSS.

He urged the government to conserve 25 percent area of the country for forest with a view to preserving the ecology and for protecting the wildlife resources.

Prof Huq was addressing a reception, accorded to Prof Kazi Zakir Hussain of Dhaka University for receiving the 'global-500 role of honour' award from the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) for his contribution to building up the movement for saving the nature.

Presided over by Prof Shorabuddin, the discussion session on the occasion was addressed by Prof Shahadat Ali, General Secretary of Dhaka University Teachers Association, Dr Nurjahan Sarkar, juvenile litterateur Ali Imam, Prof Khalilur Rahman, Mahfuzunnabi, a journalist from Chittagong and Nazrul Islam, General Secretary of the Wildlife Society of Bangladesh. Dr Mohammad Nizamuddin Director General of the National Museum and Gias Kamal Chowdhury, a journalist also spoke on the occasion.

The award-winning zoologist Prof Zakir Hussain said due to ignorance and senseless activities, eight hundred wild species in Bangladesh had already gone into extinction.

More than fifty of them are threatened with imminent extinction, he warned. He urged for demarcating 25 percent area of the country for afforestation in the interest of the national ecology. Whereas, he said only eight percent of the land area today exist as forest which is again found in paper only. In reality, hardly three percent forest area remains in the country, he said.

Earlier, General Secretary of the Wildlife Society, M Nazrul Islam presented a paper on the wildlife situation in Bangladesh and urged for effectively combating the threats of extinction of the flora and fauna through the implementation of the laws relating to wildlife preservation.

80 more tribal refugees back home

CHITTAGONG, Nov 2 : Eighty tribal refugees have returned at Rangamati and Khagrachari districts from refugee camps in Mizoram and Tripura states of India over the last two days.

With this, the total number of returnees, after government declaration of general amnesty, stood at 290.

Twenty tribal refugees returned in Rangamati from the Kabodlakhal camp under Mizoram. They were forced to leave the country by the outlawed Shantibhanti activists one and a half years back.

Ranjana Chakma, Nishi Kumar Chakma and Nali Chakma, the heads of three returnee families told UNB that they were forced to engage in subversive activities by the insurgents.

After declaration of amnesty they fled the camp escaping surveillance of tribal insurgents and Indian security force and surrendered to the law enforcing agencies in Rangamati.

The rest 60 tribals who returned at Khagrachari Thursday are being rehabilitated, said Samiran Dewan, Chairman of Local Government Parishad.

Classes of Swedish Institute suspended
Classes of Kaptal Swedish Polytechnic Institute have remained suspended since Thursday as the students went on wild-cat strike for an indefinite period.

11 eat poisonous 'potka': hospitalised
SSMCH Correspondent

Eleven persons including five of the same family and three other children were admitted Saturday to Sir Salmullah Medical College Hospital after consuming poisonous 'potka' fish.

Known in English as globe or balloon fish, its consumption can cause serious poisoning since it contains nerve toxin known as 'tetrodotoxin'.

The poisoning incident took place at Keraniganj in the village of Digirpar, Suvaddha and Zindra.

The admitted persons are: Ranu Mondal (35), Zol Bala (30), Kazol Mandal (20), Gouendira Mondal (14), Lipika (11), Bhalobasha (35), Masra Rani (40), Vagha Lal Barber (30), Niasu (20) and Shila Mondal (10). The condition of three of the poison victims was stated to be serious.

The main symptoms of poisoning from eating 'potka fish' are — headache, acute weakness of the nervous system, euphoric condition, diarrhoea, stomach ache and vomiting.

The muscles become weak and consequently people die of respiratory failure.

As there is no antidote for toxin there is no specific treatment for this condition.
