Pak money rates dive

KARACHI, June 1: Rates for the Pakistan government's sixmonth T-bills dived Sunday after the central bank accepted bids for bills with 4.03 billion rupees, reports Reuter.

The State Bank of Pakistan accepted bids at 12.28 per cent, down from 13.13 per cent at the previous auction, dealers said

"The latest issue (of the Tbill) was being offered a around nine and 10 per cent level at the close, dealer Nabel Waheed said. "We do not expect this outflow to have any substantial impact on the mar ket and we believe rates are going to remain low." The interbank call rates remained unchanged at 1.1/2 to 2.0 per

Gulf states buy Pak Basmati rice

ABU DHABI, June 1 : Six Gulf Arab states, who form a joint purchasing committee for rice imports, have bought 56,000 tonnes of Basmati rice from two private Pakistani firms, officials here said, reports AFP.

The committee agreed in Dubai Thursday to buy the rice for 430 dollar per tonne for delivery to Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Bahrain, the United Arab Emirates (UAE), Qatar, and Oman.

"It is very cheap" said the committee's chairman, Taregal-Barak. "But we could not have wrested such a deal without a joint purchase".

India's spice export hits record high

NEW DELHI, June 1: India's export of spices during the 1991-92 year ending March 31 has touched a record high with the country's share in the world spices market reaching 33 per cent. Ac cording to an official press release available here Sunday, 160,567 tons of spices were exported during the year, 33,276 tons more than in the previous year, reports Xinhua.

Tin price soars to 10-month high

KWALA LUMPUR, June 1 Tin hit a new 10-month high vesterday on the Kuala Lumpur tin market on strong overseas buying demand and supply shortage as miners refrained from selling in anticipation of higher prices, dealers said, reports AFP.

The price of tin closed at 15.53 Malaysian dollar (6.20 US) per kilo, up 10 cent (four US cent) from previous day. There seems to be an increas ing interest now from the European buyers, said a tin trader.

Estonia ready for own currency

HELSINKI, June 1: Estonian Foreign Minister Jaan Manitski said on Sunday his country was ready to introduce the kroon as its new currency, reports Reuter.

"Everything is prepared everything is in placed and all exchange places are prepared and manned, Manitski told Reuters when asked if the kroon would be introduced soon. Estonia would become the first of the former 15 Soviet republics to introduce its own currency.

ICO agrees on new coffee deal

LONDON, June 1: Producing countries in the International Coffee Organization have agreed on the broad outlines of a new international coffee agreement, delegates said here yesterday, reports AFP.

They added that the producers have also decided to recommend a total export quota of 62 million bags for the first year of a new agreement-10 million less than forecast consumption.

Ukraine stops inland use of rouble

KIEV, June 1: Ukraine said yesterday the use of the rouble on its territory would effectively end on July 1, when the former Soviet republic starts using reusable coupons to meet all everyday payments, reports Reuter.

But Ukrainian Deputy Finance Minister Pavel Slipchenko told a news conference the move did not mean Kiev was leaving the so-called rouble zone.

Australian wheat sales to Iran slump

ABU DHABI, June 1 : A wheat shortage pushed down Australia's exports to Iran by nearly 50 per cent in 1991 but trade is expected to recover this year, the United Arab Emirates daily Gulf News said yesterday, reports AFP.

The exports stood at 307 million dollar in 1991 compared with 500 million dollar in 1990, the paper quoted Bruce Wallace, Australia's Frade Commissioner in Tehran, as saying during a visit to Dubai.

the Finance Minister around June 17, he added. The Insurance Council proposes allowing life and nonlife insurers to enter accident, illness and nursing insurance businesses directly and other businesses through subsidiaries which will be allowed to use parent company's sales network to sell their products, he said.

The Insurance Council proposed allowing insurers to is sue commercial paper (CP) and borrow money from banks

Business -

The usage of the fund through the issue of CP should be limited only to cover a temporary fund shortage and the maximum amount of the CP issue should be restricted. the council said

Also, long-term fund procurement must be allowed for capital spending or investment in insurers' subsidiaries and af filiates both at home and abroad, it said.

The council also proposed deregulating and diversifying sales channels, such as letting one insurance firm's exclusive sales agencies sell other firms products

Other recommendations include introduction of a broking system in which in surance brokers are allowed to advise best insurance prod ucts to their clients.

In order to cope with growing business risks stemming from the deregulation of the industry, the council proposed that insurers establish a safety-net mechanism like a deposit insurance system in the banking and other indus-

It also suggested further disclosure of insurers' financial data to the public and higher insurance dividends to policy holders

The council proposed that the MOF should also pave the way for insurers owned by policy holders as mutual companies to become companies owned by shareholders.

The committee also said that foreign insurance firms doing business in Japan should be regulated under the same laws as the domestic - AFP photo | firms.

Miracle bulb

COLUMBUS (Ohio), June 1: A new kind of light bulb developers say uses a fraction of the energy of traditionally varieties and can last up to 20 years makes its debut Monday, reports AP.

Hailed by some as the biggest improvement since Thomas Edison invented the light bulb in 1879, skepties point to the so-called E-lamp's high cost and use of radio waves as potential draw backs.

The lamps use a magnetic coil that generates a radio signal, which mixes with the same gas used in conven tional florescent lamps. A plasma is formed, which makes a phosphorus coating on the inside of the glass glow

The bulbs, which don't have filaments, can fit most sockets, generate up to 150 watts of power and last 10 to 20 years, developers said. They are scheduled to be sold early next year for 10 to 20 dollar each.

The invention uses one-fourth of the energy of incandes cent bulbs because it pro duces less heat. It also is billed as a money saver be cause consumes would have to buy fewer bulbs.

Lighting consumes one-fourth of all the electric power generated in the United States, Europe and Japan, E-lamp promoters said.

"We feel this can be as significant an invention as the CD or the fax machine or the cellular telephone was in the 1980s," said Pierre G. Villere, president of a codeveloper, Intersource Technologies.

Observers in the energy in dustry said the announce ment is a significant one but some expressed concern about the cost and the possibility that the bulbs could interfere with reception of radio broadcasts.

American Electric Power Co. of Columbus, one of the coun try's largest investor-owned electric utilities, is invest ing dlrs 6.5 million in the technology.

"We believe it will be a corner stone of our energy conser vation programs," said spokeswoman Marsha Ryan. Intersource, started in 1989 said the bulb lasts from 15,000 hours to 20,000 hours. The typical incandescent bulb lasts from 750 to 1,500 hours.

Karl Johnson, manager o commercial building systems at the Electric Power Research Institute in Palo Alto, Calif, said the E-lamp is a major improvement if the developer's claims are true.

They're good steps to im prove lighting efficiency, he said.

But he said paying 10 to 20 dollar for a bulb "tends to be a barrier," and said inventors have had problems in the past with the frequencies of the bulbs interfering with radios.

BCCI executives to cooperate in probe

LONDON, June 1: Former senior officials of the collapsed Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI) have said they are prepared to cooperate with investigators trying to unravel BCCI's affairs, a Member of Parliament said, reports

Opposition Labour MP Keith Vaz said on return from a trip to Abu Dhabi and Karachi that some officials said they would cooperate with Britain's serious fraud office in helping to track what some call the biggest fraud in the history of world finance. Some of these officials are prepared to come forward and clear their name. There also appears to be a lot more money left in the bank than we at first thought, Vaz

Vaz said in a statement that some of the officials concerned had fled Britain after the virtual worldwide closure of BCCI in July last year. They would not however return to Britain to offer their help. He said they had produced documents that cast serious doubts on the asset figure given by the liquidators as to the amount of money left in the bank. The officials are now prepared to help the liquidators, Vaz said.

Vaz, Chairman of a BCCI parliamentary group, said Abu Dhabi had accepted delivery of a letter signed by 150 British MPs calling for more compensation for BCCI depositors.

Vaz said last week he wanted the ruler of Abu Dhabi to raise compensation to four billion. Liquidators Touche Ross and Abu Dhabi shareholders have proposed a 1.7 billion plan which could pay for 30-40 per cent of creditors' claims.

Ramos to target power, foreign capital

HONG KONG, June 1: Astan pacific currencies had a mixed week against the dollar, reports AFP. Central Banks played a role in sending the yen and Malaysian ringgit up, while the South Korean won finally ended its long slide against the Greenback by firming.

Other risers were the Thai baht and New Zealand and Taiwan dollars.

The Singapore, Australian and Hong Kong dollars all fell, as did the Philippine peso penerally reckoned to be overvalued - and the Indonesian rupiah.

Japanese yet: The yen rebounded to close the week higher at 128.33 to the dollar. against 129.65 a week earlier, after the Bank of Japan stepped in with dollar sales for three consecutive days to drop up the Japanese unit.

Finance Minister Tsutomu

Hata also talked down the dollar rise when he said Friday the Group of Seven leading industralised nations were supporting a stronger yen.

The yen opened the week firm at 129.12, but steadily lost ground to the week's low of 130.27 as the dollar advanced amid brighter prospects of US economic recovery.

But intervention by the central bank pushed the yen back to the week's peak of 127.83 Friday.

Australian dollar: The Australian dollar edged up against the US dollar to finish at 75.90 US cents Friday, compared with 75.85 seven days earlier but fell against other major currencies over the week.

On the central bank's trade weighted index, which measures the dollar against a basket of major trading curren-
