Refrain students from disruptive politics, Huda asks teachers

Information Minister Nazmul lluda yesterday gave a clarion call to the teachers to cooperate with the government building a self-reliant Bangladesh by spreading the light of education, reports BSS.

Barrister Huda urged the teachers to help change the face of Bangladesh by preaching the students to discard terrorism, campus violence, hartal and chaos for the sake of institutionalisation of the parliamentary democracy, freedom of the press and speeches, accountability and progress of the on-going development programmes.

The Information Minister was addressing as the chief guest the triennial conference of the Bangladesh Teachers Association Chapainawabganj district unit yesterday afternoon at Shaheed Satu Hall. Syed Manoor Hossain MP, Association secretary general Nazrul Islam, secretary M A Hannan also spoke. Association district unit president Md Yunusur Rahman presided. He said the government had attached the highest priority and budgetary allocation in the education sector to spread the light of education throughout the country for the economic emancipation of the people of Bangladesh.

Barrister Huda called upon the teaching community to sincerely, honestly and with dedication educate the students so that they would not resort to politics of terrorism, violence, vehicle damage, hartal and chaos.

He said that the present government came into power with massive popular support and would like to continue as the most popular one by implementing each and every election pledge.

The Information Minister also urged the teaching community to make the students refrain from disruptive politics and added if the teachers rightly educated their pupils then no one could mislead

He assured the Private School Teachers Association that the government would positively consider their rational demands within the resource constraint for a healthy development of the country's education system and institu-

Barrister Huda pointed out that the government would not do anything which was against the popular will and national interest.

"We have no lack of sincerity to solve your problem but as you see the descated political forces are now out to discredit the present popular government and we have to concentrate more time in a bid to fizzle out the non-issues raised by these rejected parties, than to the real issues."

He regretted adding despite all these odds the government had been able to cleanse the ruins of autocratic Ershad regime.

The leaders of the association assured the minister that they would cooperate with the government spreading the light of education throughout the country for the uplift of the 112 million population.
