Fishermen facing tough days

From Our Corespondent

SATKHIRA, Feb 26: Thousands of fishermen in vast beel and haors areas of the district have been facing manifold problems in carrying on their age old profession due to lack of fund, scarcity of fishing materials and above all, exploitation of fishermen by nonprofessionals a 1 1 1

The district has a long history of fish production. Assassuni, Shymnagar, Kaliganj, Debnata, Tala, Kalaroa are some of the names which are still well known for fish production.

Drastic fall in water levels in rivers, beels, haors canals and ponds have force fishermen to face difficulties.

Bank loans in another major problem these fishermen are facing. Fishermen apply for small loans to purchase fishing appliances and maintain fishing areas but some alleged that bank loans are scarce. Those who were supposed to receive loans got nothing," said one fishermen. In addition to the bank loans problems fishermen are facing hardship repaying high interest rates to their "mahajans" who often play mercy on these poor fisher-

Security is another problem faced by the fishermen. It is alleged that "mastans" who are refused taxes forcefully takeaway, fishing equipment like,

men demanding high interest

nets, boats, fishing rods etc. Sometimes these men take away fish gun point. Despite repeated calls by locals as well as the fishermen the law enforcing agencies failed to bring any successful result. Some alleged that local police cooperate with these mastans to get their share of money from the

The count of fishermen in the district have fallen to a disappointing low figure. Most, said one fishermen, left profession to seek something new. Few of those who are professional fishermen are at stake. Their survival is very thin and could turn grievous if such situation is allowed to continue any longer.

1.11 lakh water bodies lying uncultivated

From Our Correspondent

RANGPUR, Fcb 26: At least one lakh and eleven thousand ponds, tanks and canals have been lying uncultivated as these remain unexcavated and uncleaned condition in all over the 16 districts of northern region. This situation adversely hampers pisciculture in the region. Forty per cent of these ponds, tanks and canals have joint ownership, 30 per cent owned by individuals and the rest 20 per cent are vested property.

It is informed that every year, huge quantities of wheat are being spent by he government for re-excavation and cleaning of jungles and waterhyacinth of beels, tanks, ponds, canals and other water sources, but a little steps have so lar been done to make these Ifit for pisciculture.

Besides these, the cash loans are hardly sanctioned by the commercial banks for reexcavation of due to redtapism and rigid procedures in disbursement of loan it is

According to a survey conducted by a non-government organisation (NGO), there is an ample opportunity to put all these utilised ponds, tanks and canals under piscieulture. And from these large quantity of fishes worth over Taka one hundred crore could easily be produced annually.

Through co-operative or introducing any other acceptable systems, these huge unutilised source of water can be turned into the field of cash money earnings, the experts recommended.

IMF review of Manila's economic plan delayed MANLA, Feb 26: Discre pancies in figures on the Phili ppine Public Sector Borrowing Requirement (PSBR) has delayed completion of the International Monetary Fund's (IMF) review of the Philippine economic stabilisation programme, reports Reuter.

Preliminary estimates by the Philippine finance and budget departments showed that the PSBR by the end of 1992 stood at 20.8 billion peso, below the target ceiling of 21.9 billion peso set by the -IMF under the programme.

But figures prepared by the central bank showed that the PSBR ranged from 24.28 billion peso, prompting the fund to await computation of the final figures.

Target ceilings of the PSBR are important for the IMF because the fund believes high levels of fiscal deficit can easily push up prices and interest rates in the Philippines.
