As the staggering menace of black money worries governments across the world including Bangladesh, an international conference in Singapore has recommended punitive measures against financial crimes, reports UNB.

It also stressed on stronger and effective mutual legal assistance among countries to combat the increasing crime of making money through smuggling and drug trafficking, according to a delayed message.

Representatives of judiciary, law enforcers, reserve banks and customs from 23 countries, including USA, Canada, France, Bangladesh, India and South Korea, attended the conference held in Singapore from April 21-23.
