Review of edn instt nationalisation policy suggested

The Finance Ministry has suggested the Education Ministry to reconsider its policy of nationalisation of educational institutions, arguing that the step fails to improve the quality of education, reports UNB.

In a pre-budget meeting recently, the Finance Ministry insisted that the programme of "wholesale" nationalisation of educational institutions should be carefully reviewed, official sources said.

The meeting was called by Finance Minister M Saifur Rahman to discuss with different ministries about rationalising the current expenditures of the government.

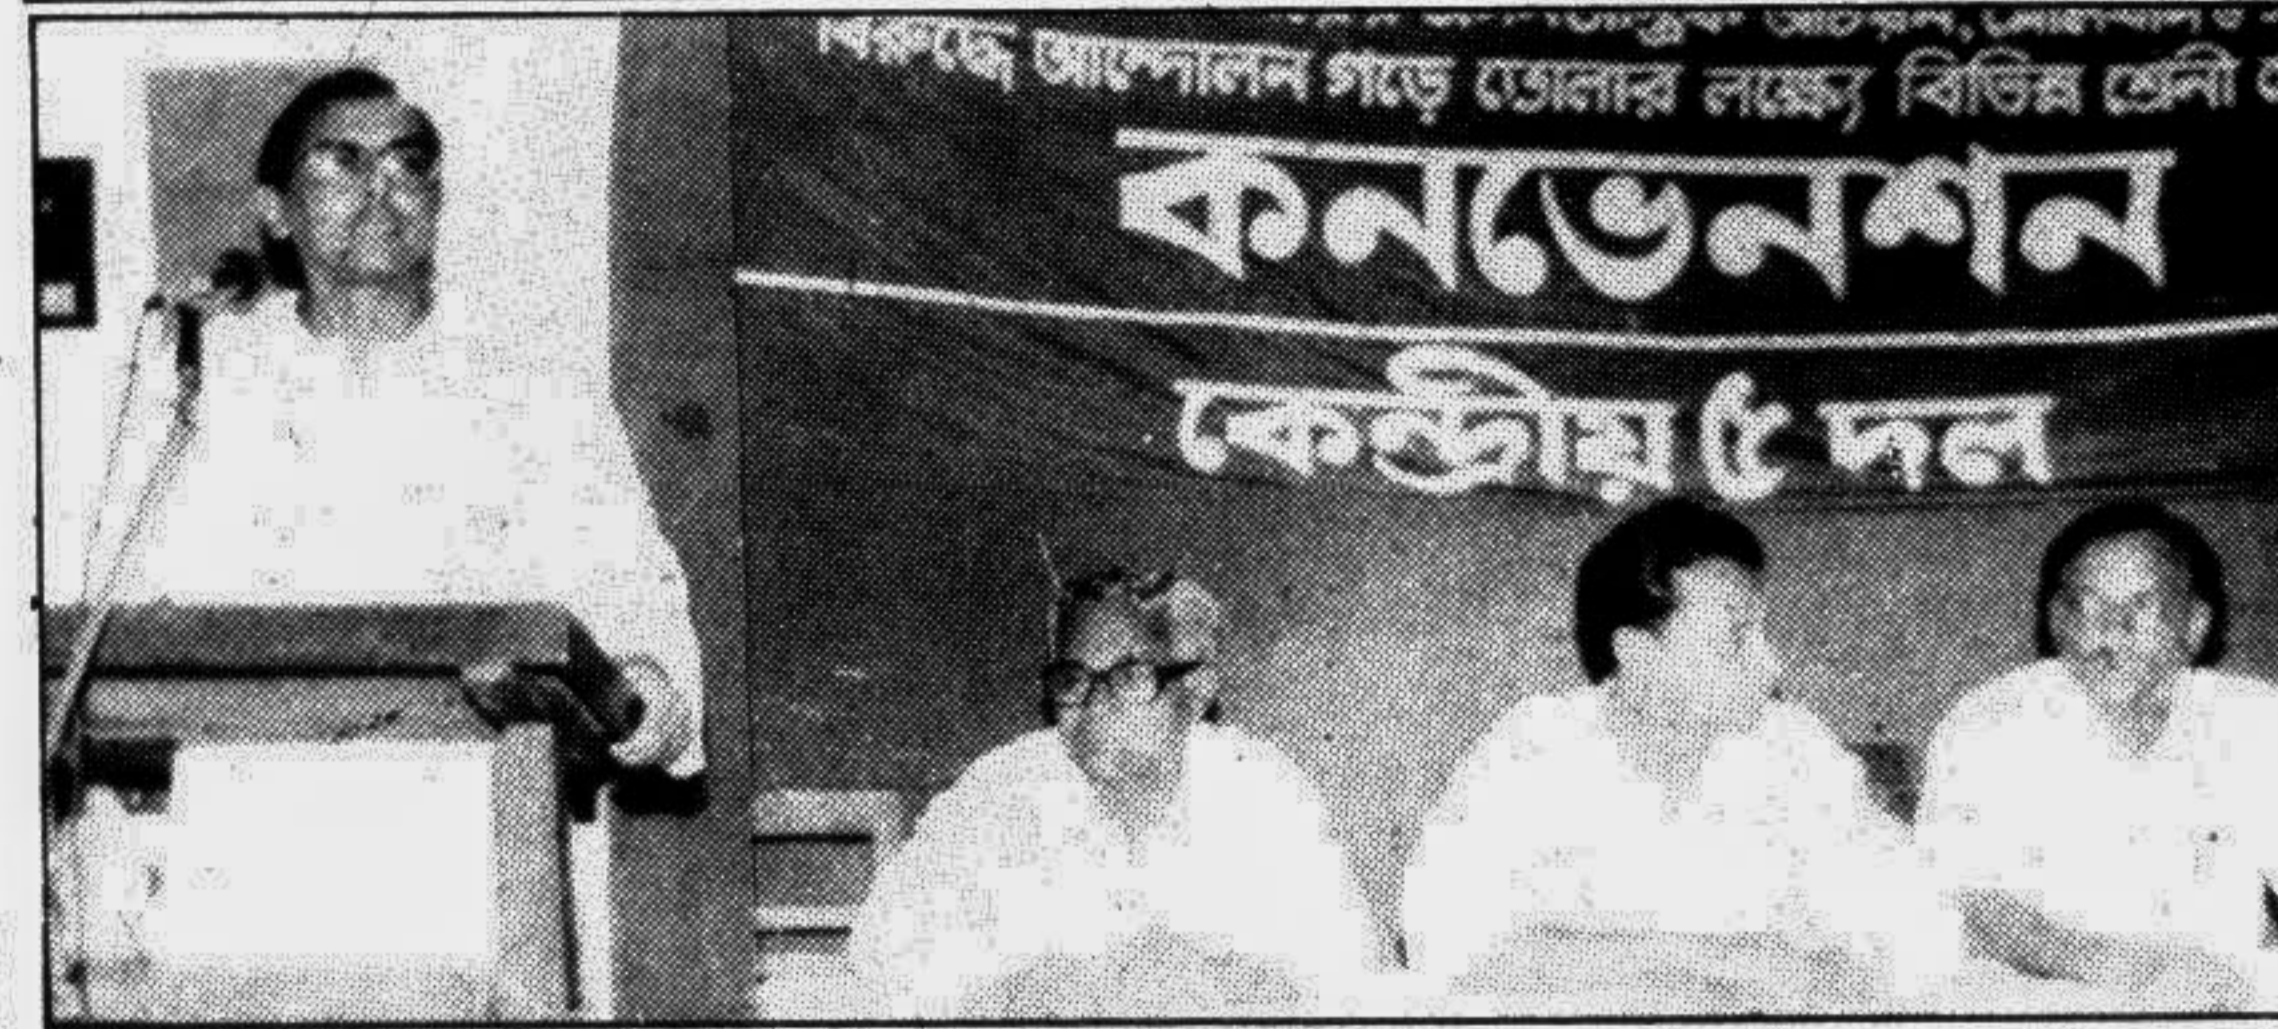

The meeting noted with dissatisfaction that the nationalisation programme benefits only the teachers, not the standard of education, and rather posing a permanent burden on the national budget.

Instead of nationalisation, the Finance Ministry prescribed programme for improvement of physical facilities in private schools and colleges through adequate allocations.

The meeting also decided in favour of increase in admission and tuition fees in government schools, colleges and universities from the current month (July).
