

7 peacekeepers, 15 Somalis killed in Mogadishu

MOGADISHU, Sept 5: Seven Nigerian UN peacekeepers and at least 15 Somalis, some of the women and children, were killed today when a patrol tried to shoot its way free from gunmen loyal to warlord Mohamed Farah Aided, residents said, reports Reuters.

Somali gunmen also captured two Nigerian peacekeepers in the worst attack on the 25,000-strong UN army in Somalia since August 8 when four American UN Troops were killed in an ambush using a remote-controlled mine.

The Nigerians, who had been surrounded by angry Somalis along a city road, were killed before they could retreat one km (half a mile), the residents said.

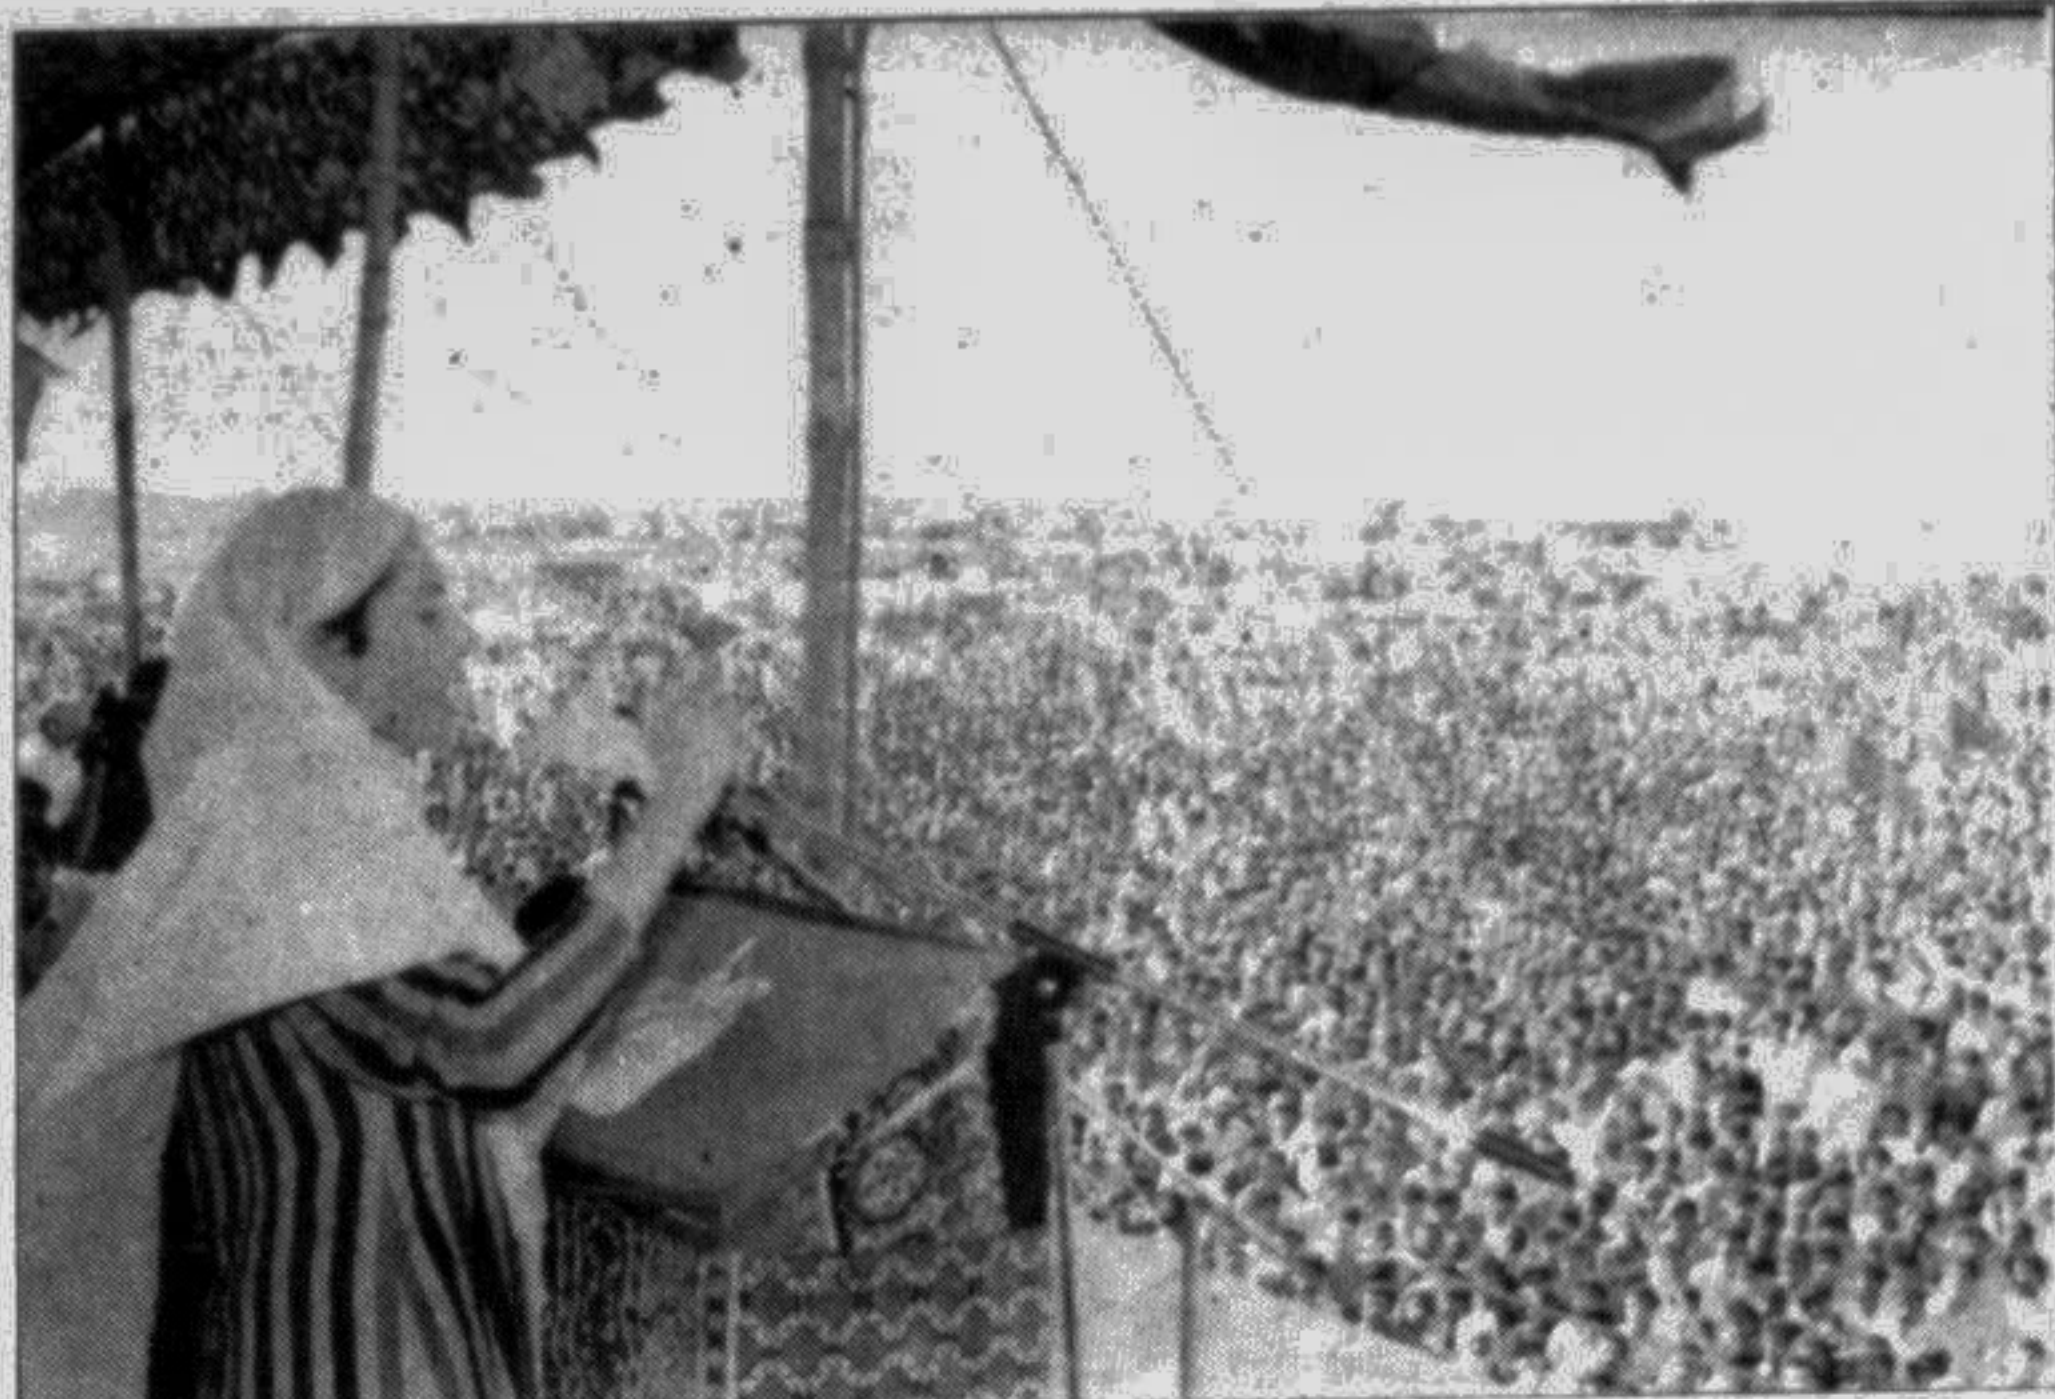

Nearby Italian troops and other UN contingents were prevented from helping them by burning barricades and mobs.

The latest attack raised the UN death toll to 46 since June 5, when Aided's supporters killed 24 Pakistani UN troops at the start of a campaign against UN control of the country's economic and political rehabilitation from famine and war.

The UN says it has no record of Somalis killed in fighting and disputes allegations by Aided and his allies that several hundred have been killed in UN raids or violent demonstrations since June 5 in Mogadishu alone.

Private organisations estimate that the least 150 have been killed since June 5 but say the figure could be higher.

Today's attack underlined the dangers faced by the 27-nation UN army from the fugitive Aided, who feels he has been robbed of power by UN attempts to bring democracy to Somalia. Nigeria has about 500 troops in Somalia.

JP programmes

According to meeting sources, JP's student wing, the Jatiya Chhatra Samaj, boycotted yesterday's session of the meeting because the central leaders rejected their demand for funding the Chhatra Samaj with a view to strengthening the organisation.

The deliberations of the district and thana-level leaders concentrated on the launching a movement aimed at ousting the Khaleida Zia government.

The extended meeting was held at a time when the Huda-Matin faction of the party was preparing to split the organisation and was readying to launch a new party.

In his concluding speech at extended meeting, Mizanur Rahman Chowdhury blamed the government for its failure to salvage economy, curb terrorism, boost industrial and agriculture production, stop smuggling and ensure fair prices of farm products.

"BNP has failed to fulfil its election pledges and proved its inefficiency in governing the nation", Mizan Chowdhury said. "Every politically conscious citizen is now wondering where the nation is heading to."

Criticising the government's failure in checking smuggling and terrorism, the JP leader said the very existence of the country will be at stake if the present government continues in power.

He was bitterly critical of 'repression' on opposition, including the JP leaders and workers, and warned of grave consequences should the ruling party continue such hostile attitude.

"Remember no government is the last government," Mizan Chowdhury reminded the ruling BNP.

The acting chairman of JP demanded release of former President Ershad and said the government kept him detained in jail in fulfillment of its 'political revenge'.

He also demanded separation of judiciary from the executive and cancelling the Special Powers Act and the Anti-Terrorism Act.

Expressing concern at the absence of academic atmosphere on the campuses, the JP leader called for eliminating terrorism in educational institutions. He also asked for strengthening the student wing of the Jatiya Party.

Meanwhile, the Federation of Bangladesh University Teachers' Associations (FBUTA) yesterday alleged that some quarters within the government were harbouring the terrorists.

The FBUTA leaders, at a press conference, also urged the political parties including the ruling BNP, the Awami League, the Jamaat-e-Islami and the Jatiya Party not to shelter terrorists in their organisations.

The press conference, held at the Dhaka University Club yesterday afternoon, was addressed by the federation president.

PM's directive

The meeting which discussed possible pragmatic measures for the speedy and proper implementation of the decisions, has given the responsibilities to 12 ministries to coordinate the follow-up actions categorised into 20 subjects.

The meeting also formed a working committee with Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister as convener to monitor the progress of the follow-up actions. The secretaries of the concerned 12 ministries are the other members of the committee. It has been decided that the working committee will sit at least once in a month to review the progress.

The sub-committee which met for the first time decided to sit at least once in every two months at the initial stage which later may be extended to once in every three months.

Yesterday's meeting laid emphasis on taking up a common programme for the SAARC nations for the alleviation of poverty. The programme may be chalked out after reviewing the respective on-going programmes in different SAARC countries, the meeting observed.

The progress in the field of SAPTA, trade liberalisation, South Asian Development Fund, increase of investment and social issues particularly that of empowering women and children were also reviewed.

Foreign Minister A S M Mostafizur Rahman, Communications Minister Oli Ahmed, Commerce Minister M K Anwar, Energy and Mineral Resources Minister Khondker Mosharraf Hossain, Industries Minister Shamsul Islam Khan, Planning Minister A M Zahiruddin Khan, Cabinet Secretary Ayubur Rahman, Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister K M Rabbani and Foreign Secretary Reaz Rahman attended the meeting among others.

dent Professor Khandaker Mustahid Rahman.

The federation demanded withdrawal of 'false' cases against ten teachers of the Jahangirnagar University and arrest of the 21 alleged terrorists against whom the JU authorities had filed cases.

The FBUTA leaders also urged the government to take necessary steps to restore normalcy in the universities.

Discussing the overall situation in the universities across the country, specially the Jahangirnagar University and Islamic University, the federation expressed deep concern over the future of higher education and the fate of the new generations.

The teachers also alleged that a powerful and influential sector was fueling and rewarding the 'disturbing elements' to continue their violent activities in the educational institutions.

Regarding violent incident at the Jahangirnagar University on July 29, the FBUTA held the pro-BNP Jatiyatabadi Chhatra Dal (JCD), JU unit and some recently dissolved JUCSU leaders responsible for the violence.

The press conference was attended, among others, by federation leaders Professor Sharif Enamul Kabir of Jahangirnagar University, Professor Badrul Alam and Professor Sayed Ur Rahman of Dhaka University, Abdur Rahim of BUET, Professor Mansurul Amin of Agricultural University, and Dr P M Shaiful Islam and Kamaluddin Ahmed of the Islamic University.

Another Biman flight to Japan from Sept next

Bangladesh will have the rights to operate Biman flights to Japan with one weekly flight to Osaka in addition to the existing regular flights, from September next year when the under construction Kansai International Airport will be opened for international air services, reports BSS.

Biman, however, will operate the weekly Tokyo route via Nagoya as a special measure to ensure full commercial viability of Biman's operations to Japan.

An exchange of notes to this effect, amending the existing Bangladesh-Japan air service agreement, took place here between the two governments.

Afzalur Rahman, Secretary, Ministry of Civil Aviation and Tourism of Bangladesh and Shigeo Takenaka, Ambassador of Japan in Bangladesh signed the notes on behalf of their respective governments at a simple ceremony held at the conference room of the Ministry of Bangladesh Secretariat.

Under the existing agreement Biman was permitted to operate only two flights a week to Japan: One to Narita (Tokyo International Airport) and the other to Nagoya.

PLO-Israeli deal

made by PLO chairman Arafat and Israeli Prime Minister Rabin — before the end of this week.

Israeli Education Minister Amnon Rubinstein said the declaration of principles was independent of PLO-Israeli recognition and there was no reason why the 'Gaza and Jericho first' accord should not be signed on September 13.

Both Peres and Arafat said there was no turning back from a deal that could end one of the world's bitterest conflicts.

Arafat arrived in Syria on Sunday in an attempt to win public approval from a reluctant president Hafez al-Assad.

"I will listen to his good and valuable advice on all what concerns our Palestinian cause and our march," Arafat told the official news agency SANA.

Getting Syria — Israel's strongest foe — behind the deal could relieve pressure on Arafat from radical Damascus-based Palestinian groups opposed to the self-rule accord and from other hardliners within the PLO.

Arab diplomats said the visit to Syria, which has shown signs that it does not like the agreement, would be the most important stage in an Arab tour to muster support.

Syria, Jordan and Lebanon have complained the Palestinians had not consulted them on the agreement, forged in secret talks with Israel. But King Hussein of Jordan said on Saturday that once he saw it he was fully in favour.

In Tel Aviv's main square on Saturday, tens of thousands of Israelis danced and sang in support of the draft agreement.

In Riyadh, six Arab Gulf state announced today that they supported a PLO-Israeli accord for limited Palestinian autonomy.

In a statement, the six-member Gulf Cooperation Council said it "welcomed the draft accord as a first step on the path to a just, durable and comprehensive settlement of the Palestinian cause and Arab-Israeli conflict."

AFP from Islamabad adds: Pakistan's interim government today ruled out recognition of Israel in the wake of a possible handshake between the PLO and the Jewish state.

"We have no plans to recognise Israel," Interim Prime Minister Moeen Qureshi told reporters here.

However, he said Islamabad would support any step that would lead to the recognition of the Palestinians rights and would extend support to any arrangement that reduces the suffering of the Palestinian people.

Internees damage SMC Director's office

From Staff Correspondent SYLHET, Sept 5: The office of the Director of Sylhet MAG Osmany Medical College Hospital was damaged by a group of agitated internee doctors today.

They also ransacked the office room of the Head of the Department of Paediatrics.

The internees went on an indefinite strike from today.

Sources said the Director, Col Fahim Ahmed Chowdhury, during his routine round in the hospital this morning found that an internee doctor had signed his attendance in advance.

The Director rebuked the doctor for the irregularity. This angered the internees of the hospital who immediately stormed the Director's room when he was attending a meeting at the college Principal's office.

They also ransacked the room of Prof Abdur Rouf Head of the Department of Paediatrics.

The internees claimed that the Director uttered bad words, but the Director denied the accusation.

The Internee Doctors' Council called the wildcat strike and insisted that the Director must apologise for his 'misbehaviour'.

The internee doctors also demanded the resignation of the Director of the College within 48 hours or else threatened further action.

WB concerned over wage

From page 1 col 7 questioned the efficacy of the decision to increase wages in the loss-making sector without any production gains.

However, a bank source in the capital said that negotiations on funding the JSRP are "still on track and progress is being made." He added that the impact of the wage hike on the jute sector is being discussed because it is also likely to have an effect on the private sector jute mills and noted that the government announcement also contained certain "redeeming" features.

The Jute Ministry is planning to initiate the 3-year reform programme in the jute sector from October 1 and the International Development Agency (IDA), the soft-lending arm of the WB, has also tentatively agreed to provide a loan of about 250 million US dollars for the project.

A legal document to this effect was sent for government approval on August 11.

The loan proposal is expected to be placed before a World Bank board meeting in Washington, which is scheduled to begin on October 3.

The JSRP is designed to reduce the total production capacity in the jute sector by closing down nine public sector jute mills, retrenching several thousand jobs, restructuring the existing Tk 4000 crore debt of the sector and by privatising most of the public sector jute mills.

The July wage hike came at a crucial time of the negotiations for the JSRP funding and necessitated a revision of the total retrenchment benefits envisaged under the Tk 1500 crore project.

The increase in wages would enlarge the pay bills of the public sector enterprises, including that of the Bangladesh Jute Mills Corporation (BJMC), by 17 per cent. This amount would be over and above the Tk 250 per month interim allowance announced by the government earlier.

For BJMC it would translate into an additional monthly expenditure of Tk 45 million.

The bank source identified the "appreciable redeeming" features in the government announcement as: that the future wage increase would be linked to productivity; no national minimum wage was declared and that the wage increase was not as high as recommended by the Wage Commission, which was Tk 1000 per month.

In a letter sent to the WB on August 23, outlining the objectives of the JSRP, Finance Minister M Saifur Rahman also pledged to reform the wage policy of the jute industry, linking wages to productivity based on the recommendations of the Tripartite Consultative Committee, and eliminating government intervention in the jute sector and allowing it to function on a purely commercial basis.

Canal digging

which often led to digging the canals on strategically important places, sources said.

There were also reports of an unhealthy competition existing among the union parishad chairman for securing digging work in their own areas. This has resulted in taking up of less prioritised projects instead of the most needed ones.

Moreover, the report has found that the criteria of volumetric digging are also flared since canals were often found to be wide but not deep enough to channelise the water.

Based on these findings the report has proposed a master plan for canal digging which will facilitate smooth, timely and serialised implementation of projects.

The report also has suggested that since the rural people are too poor to participate in voluntary work, the system should be changed for quality project implementation.
