Bury the hatchet at trade meet, GATT chief tells US, EC

GENEVA, Nov 27: GATT Secretary General Peter Sutherland told the United States and European Community they must settle differences at a key trade meeting next week, reports Reuter.

European Commissioner Rene Steichen and Trade Commissioner Leon Brittan are due to meet US trade representative Mickey Kantor in Brussels on December 1 and 2.

Kantor and Brittan met in Washington this week and reported they had constructive talks. But Sutherland told the TNC today that "constructive meetings are no substitute for concrete results."

The two powers, he declared. "should not make the dangerous mistake of leaving everything until the last minute....

"They must next week reach a substantive result and place decisive contribution on the table here in Geneva," he said.

Sutherland will then call trade diplomats into special session on December 3 to evaluate achievements so far. He said earlier that negotiations on a new world trade treaty must end by December 13, two days before the Uruguay Round deadline.

The December 3 meeting would leave 10 days for delegates to work out the final text of an accord including reconciling problem over farm subsidies, services and trade rules.

Sutherland told a meeting of the trade negotiating committee (TNC), he would then call it into a final meeting on December 15 agreed by the steering body in July as zero-day "to approve the Uruguay Round results."

EC's special meeting

Another report adds: European Community foreign ministers were likely to hold a special meet of a GATT world trade deal during the final 10-day countdown to a December 15 deadline, a diplomat said yesterday.

He said there was a chance that the meeting might even be held in Geneva where the GATT negotiations are due to be wound up by December 13.

"There seems to be a consensus that there will be something (a foreign ministers' meeting) sometime between (already scheduled meetings) on December 6 and 20," the diplomat said after a meeting of EC national trade officials.

France had asked on Thursday that there should be another special meeting and the diplomat said the debate now was more about when rather than if this should happen.

He said dates suggested for a meeting including December 9 and also just before the December 15 deadline.

France wants to keep a close check on the European Commission the EC's executive body which negotiates trade on behalf of the 12-nation block in order to avoid being presented with a sown-up deal at the last minute.

ROK farmers hold rallies

AFP from Seoul reports: Thousands of farmers held rallies in several locations Friday to protest press reports that South Korea was considering opening its rice market to foreign imports, press reports and farm leaders said.

Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries Minister Huh Shin-Haeng told reporters late Thursday that Seoul would reexamine its position on keeping its rice market closed if an accord on the Uruguay Round of world trade talks can be reached by an already proposed December 15 deadline, press reports said.

On Friday, however, he backtracked on what is a very delicate political issue here, saying there was no change in President Kim Young Sun's will against any rice market opening. Yonhap news agency said. Some 2:000 farmers marched in the southern city of Kwangju to protest any move to open the rice market, a local press report said.

Japan poised to unveil rice market Reuter report from Tokyo says: Japan is poised to unveil a partfal opening of its closed rice market around December 10 to avoid blocking a successful conclusion to world trade talks, Japanese media reported on Saturday.

A final decision, however, is likely to hang on whether the United States and Europe can resolve their farm trade wrangles in talks set for early December.

The financial daily Nihon Keizai Shimbun and other media said that Prime Minister Morihiro Hosokawa would announce a secret deal worked out with the US around December 10.

Hundreds of students opposed to the opening of South Korea's rice market clash with riot police near President Kim Young-Sam's official residence yesterday. The students emerged from a subway station and started marching toward Kim's residence but were immediately blocked by some 150 riot police who used truncheons to beat back the demonstrators. - AFP photo

Japanese traders disappointed with reforms in India

slow pace of

NEW DELHI, Now 27: Japa-, nese businessmen are disappointed with the "slow pace" of economic reforms in India, 4 Japanese official said here yesterday, reports AFP.

Kinichi Kadono, who headed the Japanese delegation to a two-day meeting of the Indo-Japanese Standing Committee here this week, said change was needed if Japan were to increase its investment in India substantially

Of 21 suggestions made by Japanese businessmen four months ago to improve the investment climate, only three or four have been implemented, Kadono told a news conference.

Easier investment conditions including full repatriation of profits in hard currency and the right to close unprofitable units were some of the promised reforms, Kadono said.

Meanwhile, Paul Allaire, the head of Xerox of the United States said here that India was becoming increasingly attractive for multi-national corporations and as a source of components.

Allaire told a trade chamber structural reforms would attract more overseas capital and said Xerox would step up investment in India.

Arafat seeks more int'l aid ember 13, the date the land-

STOCKHOLM, Nov 27: PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat called here riday for greater aid contributions from the international community to bolster massive infrastructure development in areas primed for autonomy under the PLO-Israeli peace accord, reports AFP.

Speaking to journalists on the first day of a 36-hour visit to Stockholm, Arafat warned: "We are in need of a lot of help... we have to build everything. We have nothing and we have to start from zero.

The Palestine Liberation Organisation Leader added: "there is real starvation in (the) Gaza (Strip)... there is no water, no electricity. We must build communications, hospitals, schools, houses, ports, air-

Arafat said earlier Friday the PLO estimated it would need "13 billion dollar by 2000 to rebuild the entire country."

His call was backed by Swedish Prime Minister Carl Bildt, who stressed the need for concrete result on the ground to accelerate the peace process.

There would be no progress on that front without economic development, Bildt said, adding that Sweden had pledged some 150 militon dollar worth of aid to the Gaza Strip and the West Bank over the coming five years.

Arafat, who is no the second leg of a four-nation Scandinavian tour that began in Norway, reaffirmed his opposition to any delays in the PLO-Israeli auton-

The first phase of the accord is due to be implemented December 13 with a withdrawal of Israeli security forces from Gaza and the West Bank town of Jericho.

"We hope that the withdrawal... will soon be implemented. Everything will go smoothly, the PLO leader said.

The run-up to the phased Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories has been plagued by increasing violence there, with 23 Palestinians and eight Israelis killed since Septmark accord was signed.

The unrest peaked Thursday with violent protests against the army's killing of Islamic fundamentalist guerilla chief Imad

In the latest opinion polls, Israeli support for the autonomy deal has fallen from 63 to 43 per cent since September. For Arafat's faction Fatah backing is down to 41 per cent from 45 in early October.

Arafat, who held talks Friday with Bildt and foreign Minister Margaretha AF Ugglas, is scheduled to meet Saturday with other too Swedish officials before being received by King Carl Gustaf Saturday afternoon.

Trade union strike paralyses Belgium

BRUSSELS, Nov 27: Belgium was largely paralysed by a oneday general strike vesterday as both the public and private sectors responded massively to trade union calls for action against a government economic austerity plan, reports AFP.

It was the first general strike since 1936, when workers were demanding one week of paid

This time they were protesting against an economic recovery plan involving a two-year pay freezer higher taxes and cuts in social security.

Prime Minister Jean-Luc Dehaene was due to make a statement on the strike in the mid-afternoon. He announced on Thursday that the government was preparing for new consultation with both trade unions and employers.

Public transport ground to a halt on Friday. There was no international traintraffic across the country. Passengers from neighbouring countries were being ferried through Belgium by bus.

Postal services were blocked. Many hospitals and fire station were offering skeleton emergency services.

Many factories in most major cities came to a near standstill. Sometimes with pickets blocking access. Some businesses instructed staff to stay at home.

There was a partial blackout of local radio and television broadcasts. Many newspapers were not published and others were not distributed.

The national carrier Sabena said flight were delayed by up to one hour to give passengers more time to get to the airport, and because of thick fog but airport authorities said air controllers were at work as usual

Hectic activity on the floor of the Milan Stock Exchange November 23. Shock waves from the municipal poll results continued to reverberate through Italian financial markets after the stock market lost five points Nov 22 reflecting the business world's uncertainty in the face of the crisis. Poor factory safety standard in China

BEIJING, Nov 27 : China's state-run media is placing the blame for poor factory safety standard - of the kind that caused the deaths of 81 workers in a fire last week - on the shoulders of foreign investors, reports AFP.

The China Daily, in a long article Friday citing reports by local newspapers, accused foreign-funded factories of open violation of the rights of employees, in many cases uneducated migrant workers from inland provinces with no knowledge of what to demand as rights.
