

Ranatunga being optimistic

COLOMBO, Jan 9: Sri Lanka skipper Arjuna Ranatunga has said the forthcoming series against India would be "very tough", but he was confident his side would rise to meet any challenge on foreign soil, reports AFP.

"It will be a very tough tour, no doubt. But we are confident and ready for any challenge," Ranatunga said of his determined band of players who leave for India on Monday.

Ranatunga observed that India were currently riding high after a string of victorious Tests against England, Sri Lanka and Zimbabwe.

"India were going through a fine spell at the moment. India also have the advantage of playing in home conditions," said Ranatunga, veteran of 46 Tests.

He said that more importance was attached to the tour since it would provide an opportunity for the players to prove that they can perform well at Test level both at home and abroad. Sri Lanka are yet to win a Test match overseas.

"Recently all away matches have been one-day internationals. We now have to prove ourselves in the Test matches," Ranatunga said. Sri Lanka returned home in November after a poor show in one-day internationals in Sharjah and India.

The 30-year-old captain, however, said that Sri Lanka had the potential to upset their neighbouring giants who will field virtually the same side that scored a 1-0 Test series win during their five-week tour of the island in 1993.

Ranatunga was particularly happy with the selection of the 16-member squad to India but he also had words of encouragement for four Test players who have been dropped from the Indian tour.

"I cannot ask for a better side than this. But those who have been left out should not think their career is over. They should work hard to get back into the side," said Ranatunga.

The four Test players - Asanka Gurusinha, Chandika Hathurusinghe, Champaka Ramanayake and Ramesh Kaluwithana had featured in

The vacancies have been filled by three youngsters; fast bowler Ravindra Pushpakumara, wicket-keeper Nisal Fernando and batsman Anura Gunawardena following fine performances in domestic matches.

"Everyone was picked on form. We need the best possible side because it is always tough when playing away. Against India it is tougher," Ranatunga said.

"The new players have to do well. It is their baby. It is up to them to make best use of this opportunity," he said.

Sri Lanka have also included their spin weapon Muttiah Muralidharan, the off-break bowler who has been unplayable on his day. Muralidharan will have support from left-arm spinners Don Anurasi and Sanath Jayasuriya.

Eire plan to get adjusted

DUBLIN, Jan 9: The Republic of Ireland football squad will acclimatise for the World Cup finals with a two-week stint in Florida, reports AFP.

Manager Jack Charlton and his men will spend 12 days in Orlando before opening their campaign against Italy in New York on June 18.

Charlton had originally planned to delay departure from Ireland until the last possible stipulated date but has changed plans on medical advice. No build-up matches, however, will be played in Florida.

"We meet Mexico in Orlando in June 24 and we need this period to assess liquid intake, weight loss and becoming used to the heat and humidity," Charlton said.

The 22-man squad, who fly out from Dublin on June 6, take on Norway in their final first phase game on June 28 in New York.

The Irish have arranged five friendlies before they leave: March 23 v Russia, Dublin; April 20 v Holland, Utrecht; May 24 v Portugal, Eindhoven; May 29 v Germany, Hanover; June 5 v Saudi Arabia, Dublin.

It's blackmail

DUBLIN, Jan 9: Ireland's Foreign Minister and soccer officials blasted American ticket touts on Wednesday for charging exorbitant prices for World Cup matches, and urged fans not to buy them, reports Reuters.

The Dublin-based Football Association of Ireland (FAI), who met with Foreign Minister Dick Spring on Wednesday, said some agencies in New York were asking 250 Irish punts (357 dollars) for tickets, with a face value of 25 punts (35.71 dollars) for Ireland's match with Italy.

FAI general secretary Sean Connolly said: "These are crazy, exorbitant prices and they are still climbing. It's becoming a wind-up by the touts. Our advice at present is don't touch these tickets with a bargepole."

Spring urged fans: "Have nothing to do with these prices. Wait for more information, and don't panic."

The FAI expects to get about 8,000 tickets for each of Ireland's three scheduled first round World Cup matches in New York and in Orlando, Florida, in June, but predict up to 20,000 Irish fans could go to the United States.

An Irish government-appointed World Cup steering committee, involving representatives of the FAI, travel agents and the United States embassy in Dublin, as well as government departments, will consider the tickets issue at its first meeting next week.

Radcliffe pulls off another surprise

BELFAST, Jan 9: Paula Radcliffe claimed another notable scalp on Saturday when she defeated twice world silver medalist Catherine McKiernan in a World Series cross-country meeting, reports Reuters.

The 20-year-old Briton, who outpaced South Africa's twice world champion Zola Pieterse last week, came through strongly off the last hill 500 metres from the finish.

"I could sense she was tired and decided to go for it," said Radcliffe, who won by seven seconds from the Irishwoman in 15 minutes 40 seconds over the 4,800 metres course.

McKiernan, last season's World Series champion, said: "I'm not surprised. Paula's a good athlete."

Kenyan Ismael Kirui, third in last year's World Championship, won the men's race, clocking 23.44 for the 8,000 metres course. Briton Dave Lewis followed him home a second behind after a strong finish.

Henkel hopes to return soon

BONN, Jan 9: Germany's Olympic high jump champion Heike Henkel, who is due to give birth to her first child in March, hopes to return to athletics in time for the European Championships in August, reports Reuters.

Henkel, who had to drop out of the final stages of last year's World Championships in Stuttgart after a season plagued by injury, said on Wednesday that her break from training during the pregnancy had given her an extra boost.

"Of course I want to compete (at the European Championships). I think I have got a new appetite for high jumping through the baby break," Henkel, 29, said in an interview with the German newspaper bid.

Last year it was exactly the opposite. I wanted to have a baby so much that sport became less interesting."

Henkel, formerly Heike Redetzky, is married to former world swimming champion Rainer Henkel.

Manchester goes for C'wealth Games

LONDON, Jan 9: Manchester launched a bid for the 2002 Commonwealth Games on Wednesday, undeterred by its failure to win the 2000 Olympics, reports Reuters.

Sir Robert Scott, chairman of the bid committee, said: "We are very bullish and optimistic about both our chances and our future."

Manchester is competing against two other English cities, London and Sheffield, for the right to put forward its bid.

The Commonwealth Games Council for England must choose between the three on February 2 and the winner will then pursue its bid with the Commonwealth Games Federation (CGF).

Sir Robert, who was knighted this year for his work in spearheading the city's Olympic bid, said: "We see our rivals Sheffield and London as formidable."

"Sheffield hosted the World Student Games and London is London. But Manchester is battle-hardened now."

Manchester, beaten by Sydney for the Olympics, is putting forward a programme of 12 sports, ranging from aquatics to wrestling and promises state-of-the-art facilities for them all.

Two sports venues are already being built in the city — Europe's largest indoor athletics arena and an international-standard velodrome. Plans for a new stadium will be announced later this month.

The CGF will make its choice of venue at a meeting in Bermuda in November 1995.

So far, apart from the English cities, only Perth and Melbourne in Australia had shown an interest in hosting the Games.

Romario makes Real suffer

MADRID, Jan 9: Brazilian striker Romario hit a hat-trick as Barcelona thrashed Real Madrid 5-0 in the clash of Spain's soccer titans on Saturday, reports Reuters.

The defeat in Barcelona's Nou Camp Stadium was the most humiliating Real Madrid has suffered at the hands of the Catalans since the 1944-45 season when they were also trounced 5-0 away.

Real, who have not won in the Nou Camp Stadium for 10 years, dominated the opening 20 minutes as the first Division champions were looking unsettled and feeling the absence of Danish international Michael Laudrup on the left flank.

But after Bulgarian striker Hristo Stoichkov switched with

Romario turned his first touch of the ball into a smooth goal when he took a pass from Josep Guardiola and gracefully slotted it past Real goalkeeper Paco Buyo in the 25th minute.

Barcelona were rampant after halftime, extending their lead within three minutes when Dutchman Ronald Koeman blasted home an unstoppable spot kick.

Koeman's penalty seemed to demoralise Real and from then on the game belonged to the home team, whose fans in the 117,000 crowd celebrated joyously with red and blue flags.

Laudrup replaced Stoichkov in the 48th minute while Real's Luis Milla made way for Emilio Butragueno in the 54th.

Romario's second goal came in the 57th minute after an easy pass from Miguel Nadal and it was the bearded Brazilian again who slotted home Barcelona's fourth in the 81st minute.

He kept up the pace until the very end, setting up a beautiful pass to Ivan Iglesias, who smoothly flicked the ball under Buyo's legs and into the net for Barcelona's fifth, crushing goal in the 86th minute.

The Catalans take the precious two points to draw level on 25 points with Deportivo Coruna at the top of the table, while Real Madrid, reliving the hell of their dismal start to the season, have 21 points in fifth place.

Deportivo, however, will be looking to restore their lead when they meet humble Logrones at home on Sunday.

Venables to get Taylor's job?

LONDON, Jan 9: The list of candidates for the position of England's next soccer manager was officially narrowed to three Wednesday, but officials said there would be no immediate announcement of a successor to Graham Taylor, reports AP.

Jimmy Armfield, appointed as a special adviser to the Football Association's international committee, turned in a list of three candidates at the FA headquarters. No names were released, but reports were unanimous in naming Terry Venables as the prospective No 1 choice.

"We hope to resolve the situation sooner rather than later but no announcement or decision is imminent," FA chief executive Graham Kelly said. "Nothing will happen this week. There will be further meetings."

Taylor resigned in November after a disastrous World Cup qualifying campaign that ended with England failing to make the finals for the first time since 1978.

In addition to Venables, Queens Park Rangers manager Gerry Francis and Leeds Howard Wilkinson are also thought to be leading candidates.

Newspaper reports indicated that Venables was discussing with the FA an arrangement under which he could accept the job.

The Daily Telegraph reported that the former Tottenham manager and chief executives will be told he must give up outside commercial interests before taking on the position. The FA would not comment on the report.

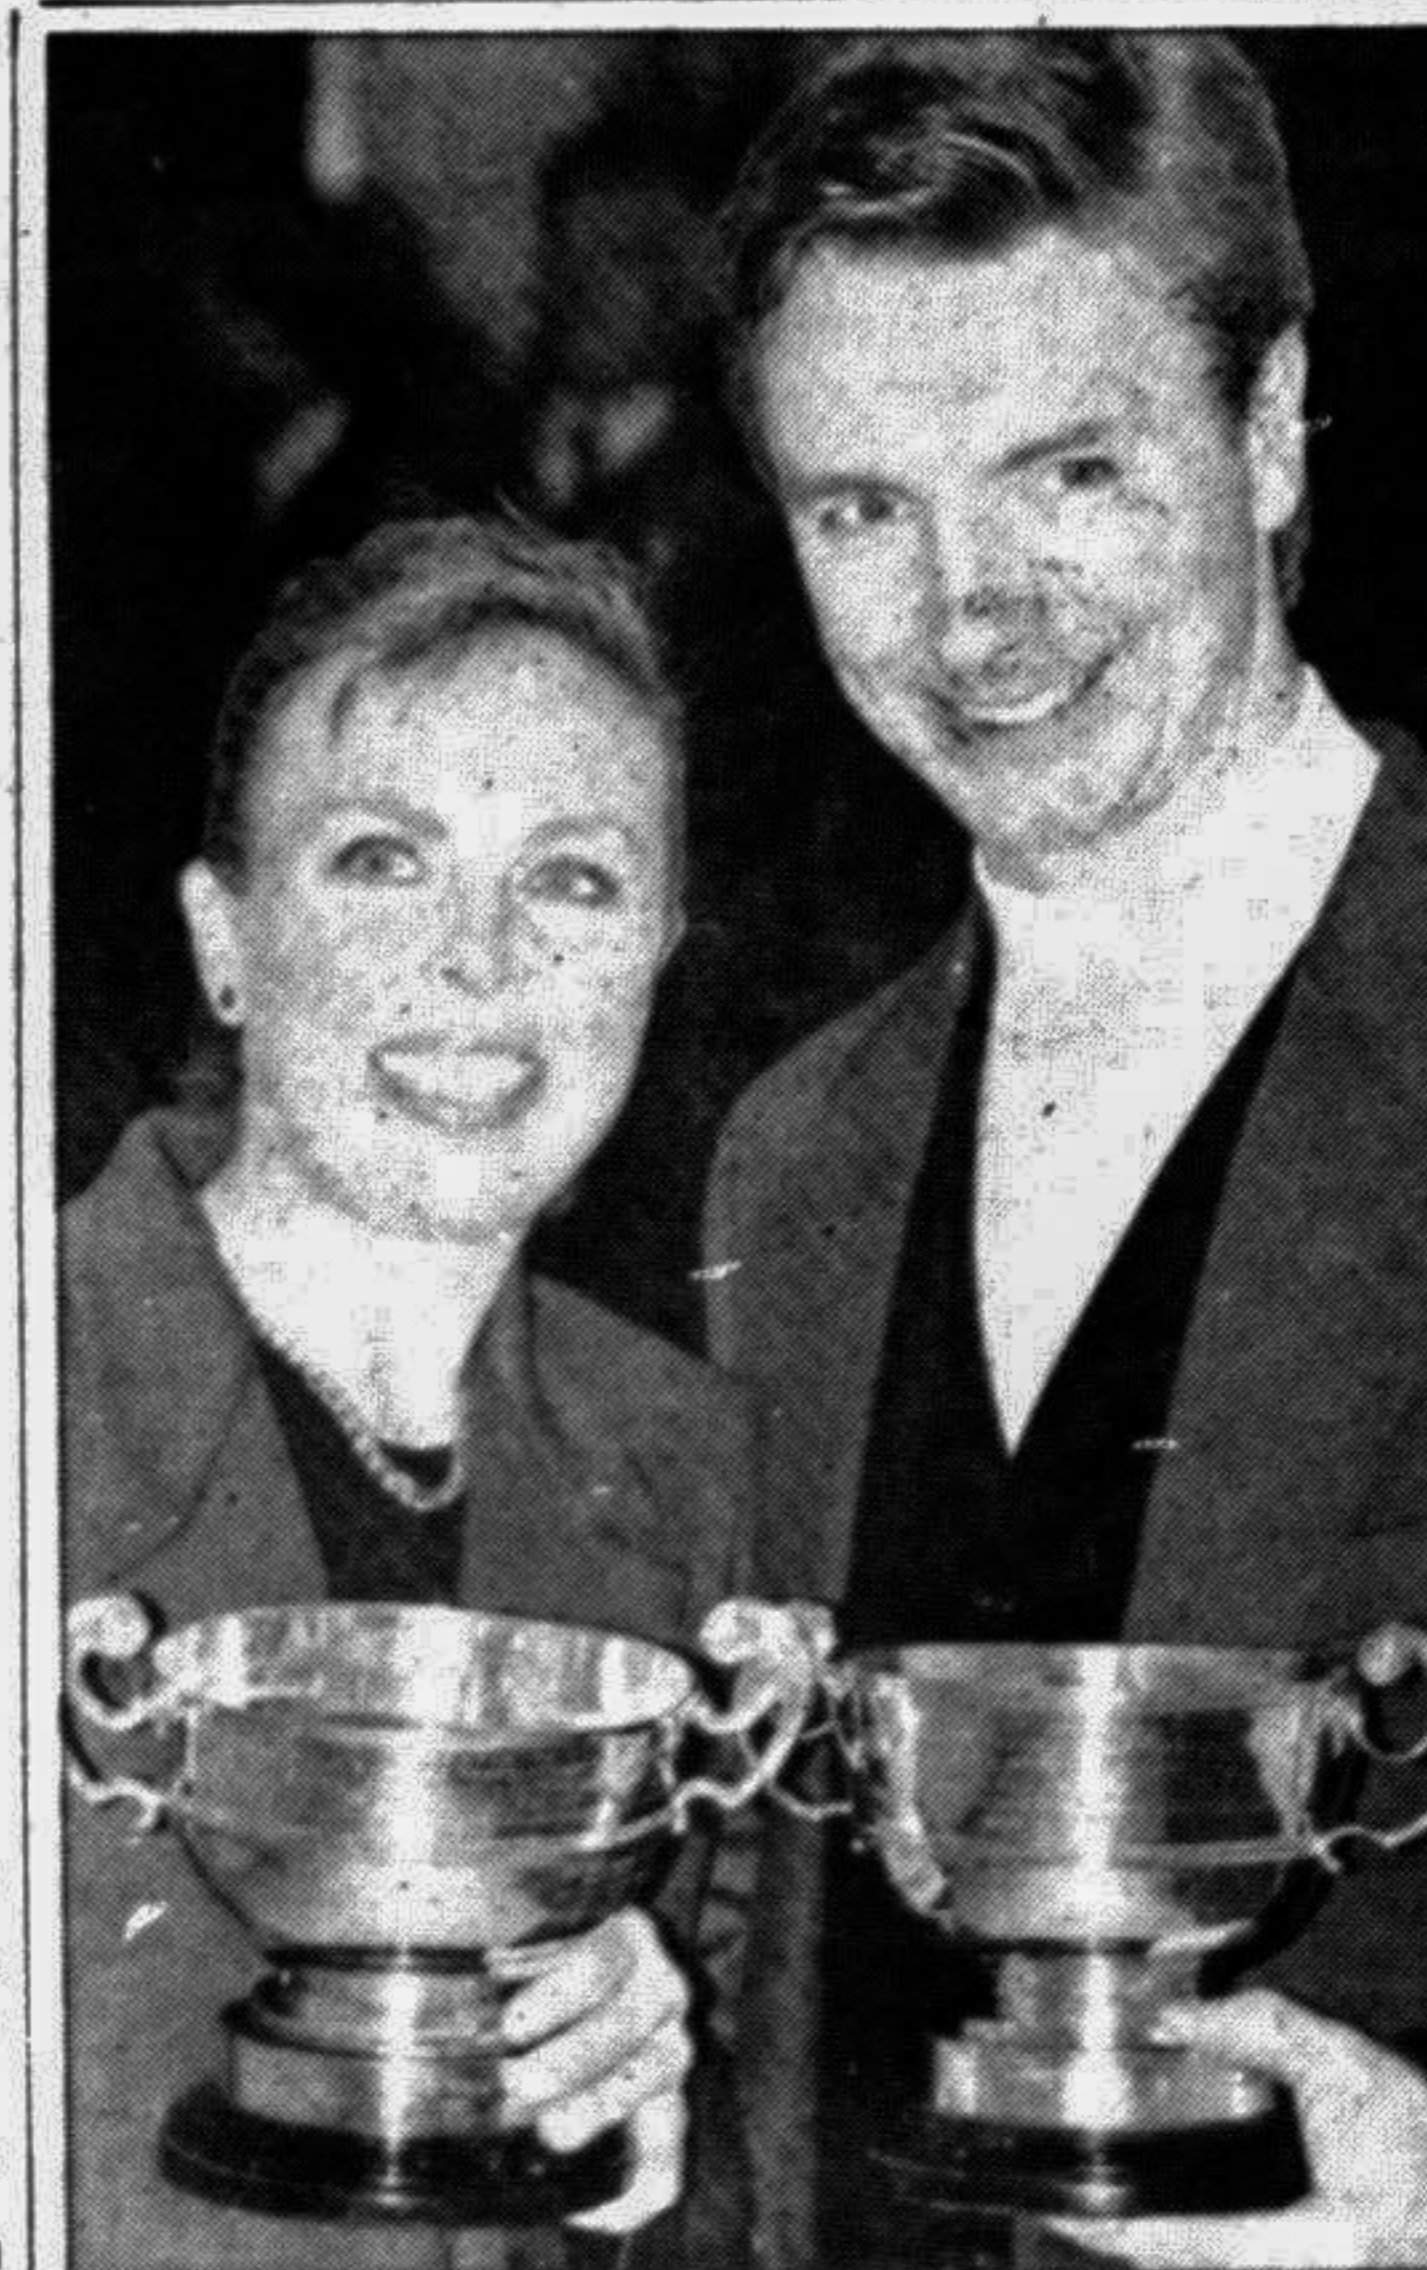

Venables has been the subject of television documentaries investigating his business affairs as well as alleged financial irregularities while he was chief executive at Tottenham. None of the allegations have been proven and no official charges have been made.

Should the FA choose Venables or another unemployed manager, he would be able to take over the post in time for England's upcoming exhibition games against Denmark and Germany. Otherwise, an interim manager would be needed to run the team until the English regular season ends in May.

In addition to Tottenham, Venables has managed English teams Wimbledon, Crystal Palace and Queens Park Rangers, and Spanish Club Barcelona. He became chief executive at Tottenham in 1991, but was fired last year by team chairman Alan Sugar in a bitter dispute that ended up in court.

Venables has also been named as a possible candidate for manager of the Welsh and Nigerian national teams.

No luck for top guns in FA Cup

LONDON, Jan 9: QPR's Gerry Francis was one of several English Premiership managers to be left fuming after Saturday's FA Cup upsets saw Rangers bundled out by Second Division Stockport, reports AFP.

While Rangers went down 2-1, Chelsea finished goalless at home to Barnet and Tottenham Hotspur needed a late strike by Jason Dozzell to salvage a 1-1 draw against Peterborough, currently bottom of the Second Division.

The only sad note for the third round minnows was the announcement that cash strapped Barnet are facing a winding-up order. The club from the north London suburbs, which needs a million pounds by Monday, has meanwhile brought in former England and Liverpool goalkeeper Ray Clemence as general manager.

However, time has already run out for QPR in English football's most prized tournament, and Francis was furious after the Premiership side squandered a 1-0 lead.

"In my three years as manager at the club, this has to be the most disappointing time," he said.

"In these sort of games you have got to battle and match the opposition for their effort and determination. We didn't do that, especially in the second half. Stockport deserved their win and I don't envy any other side having to come here."

Stockport manager Danny Bergara said: "At times we played like a Premier League side. The lads were magnificent and the whole of Stockport should love them."

Andy Preece, the team's top scorer whose 74th minute winner was a spectacular volley, said: "It was a good job it didn't come to me on my right foot because it could have gone anywhere."

Chelsea chief Glenn Hoddle watched as his men were booed off the pitch after failing to destroy a team who were playing non-league football in 1991.

"To say I am disappointed is an understatement," Hoddle said. "I take nothing away from Barnet, they have produced probably their best performance of the season."

"You need luck in the FA cup and we had it today. We didn't deserve anything but defeat."

Barnet may not be in business for the replay, though, following the news from club chairman David Buchler.

"Our financial position is dire," he said. "We need to find one million pounds by Monday — and that is simply not available. We are going to ask for a further adjournment."

Clearence, who left Spurs as a coach at the end of last season, said: "I think it is a wonderful opportunity people have said I must be mad to go to Barnet — but I've seen enough here today to know that we can climb out of trouble."

Kidderminster manager Graham Allner paid tribute to his men after they beat first Division Birmingham City 2-1 — the only victory by a non-professional club.

"To come to a club like this three league above us and win after going a goal behind is tremendous," he said.

"Manchester United or Liverpool would be great in the next round, but Wolverhampton Wanderers would be a massive game for us."

There were more happy managers at Leeds, Newcastle and Manchester City — all of whom had goal-scorers to be proud of.

Leeds boss Howard Wilkinson was delighted with 19-year-old Jamie Forrester, making his first start and scoring two great goals to help see off Crewe 3-1.

"Forrester's finishing was tremendous," Wilkinson said. "His first goal was a super volley and the second was surely goal of the month."

Newcastle manager Kevin Keegan was full of praise for the strike duo of Andy Cole and Peter Beardsley after they scored a goal apiece in the 2-0 victory over Coventry City.

The pair have scored 37 goals in 19 games since teaming up at Newcastle in September.

Keegan said: "I thought today their partnership was about as exciting as I've seen it. They are on the same wavelength."

Manchester City's hero was Norwegian international midfielder Kare Ingebrigtsen, who hopes that his hat-trick in the 4-1 win over Leicester City will help earn him a World Cup place.

"I need to be playing first team football if I am to get into the Norwegian squad for the World Cup finals," he said, before thanking his teammates for giving him his chance.

"The rest of the team set me up for those goals today. They were perfect crosses from Terry Phelan for the first two."

There was mixed fortunes though for two teams in the spotlight on Friday after man-

Everton clung on for a 1-1 draw against Bolton after Barry Horne was sent off.

"They would not lie down and die and that is important," Walker said. "Overall we have got to be pleased we are still in it and the players worked really hard. It was always going to be a tough game."

Meanwhile, Norwich's caretaker boss John Deehan wants his future decided quickly, after the Canaries beat Wycombe Wanderers 2-0 with both goals coming from Chris Sutton.

"I would love the job — it is as simple as that," Deehan admitted. "The sooner the managerial situation is sorted out, the better."

"When we arrived in London we went to an hotel, turned on the television and saw people saying 'Norwich will go downhill from here.' So the way the players got themselves up for the cup tie after that was marvelous."

Jones still champ

CATSKILL, NY, Jan 9: Junior Jones, the World Boxing Association bantamweight champion, retained his crown Saturday by scoring a 12-round unanimous decision over Elvis Alvarez of Colombia, reports AP.

Co-headliner Tracy Patterson, the World Boxing Council super bantamweight champion, also kept his title, scoring a fifth round knockout over Steve Young.
