B Chy for grooming women leadership

Deputy Leader in Parliament Prof A Q M Badruddoza Chowdhury yesterday called upon the country's women to take part in politics to build up women leadership for solving their problems through political decisions, reports UNB.

"Without political decisions, you can never solve social, economical, educational or any other problems of your community," he said while addressing the inaugural session of a two-day seminar on 'Women in Politics' at a local hotel in the morning.

Prof B Chowdhury emphasised on grooming women leadership from the grass-roots level, saying "otherwise there will be leadership gap in the long run."

He asked the progressive section of the women community to build up the leadership from all walks of life to ensure mass participation of women in politics.

State Minister for Women's Affairs Begum Sarwari Rahman was the special guest at the inaugural function of the seminar organised by Dhaka Business and Professional Women's Club. The function was also addressed, among others, by Nargis Khan, Ferdousi Ali, Dr Nazma Chowdhury and Nilufer Sultana.

Prof B Chowdhury urged women to take active part in politics to change the overall political environment of the country.

"Don't hate politics," he said. "Only politics can initiate the overall development of women at every level. Every child has to go to school, every woman should be educated and have their individual rights — these are all political decisions."

He said it is unique that the country's Prime Minister and Leader of the Opposition in Parliament are both women. But it does not prove that participation of women in politics is very high. "Women's participation in politics is about one per cent or less than that."

Prof B Chowdhury told the women participants at the seminar to be more vocal in establishing their political rights.

Mentioning the role of women community, he said: "They are 50 per cent of the population ... they voted in every elections and reflected their will in decision-making."
