Developing Children's Intellect

by Aasha Mehreen Amin

Children are seen participating in the short drama 'Sadeq Ali' in the function arranged for reception of 12 Shaheed Freedom Fighter's families in December, '92.

In a country where there is far too much emphasis on text-book education, a centre for children's intellectual and cultural development is indeed welcome. Shiri Shishu Shahitya Kendra is such a centre where the emphasis is on bringing out a child's creativity in making him aware of his surrounding, his past and his future. The best part is that this process of learning, so vital for any child's development, is done in a playful way so that there is no danger of any resemblance to a dreary old classroom. Founded in February 1992 by Hasanur Rahman a known writer of children's books, Shiri tries to give children something beyond just cultural exposure. It also tries to make them aware of their history and their environment. In this regard one of Shiri's projects has been to introduce its child members to Muktiyoddhas and their families. On December 12, 1992, Shiri organised a reception for the Shaheed Muktiyoddha families. A similar reception was given in December last year to accord recognition to twelve living Muktiyoddhas. This was the first time, says Hasanur Rahman, Shiri's director, that Muktiyoddhas were being recognized by a children's organisation.

The event was a special one, for, it gave the children a unique opportunity to hear first-hand stories of war experiences related by the muktiyoddhas themselves. For the children, the experience was as thrilling as it was moving. In this way, says Rahman, the children not only got to know the muktiyoddhas but it also gave them an idea of what the war had been like instead of having an abstract knowledge of it. Shiri's committee consists of many well-known writers of children's literature, Hasanur Rahman being one of them. The number of children involved include 50 general members and are aged up to 10 years old.

Every three months Shiri arranges cultural programmes which are presided over by writers and other well-known personalities. The children perform — sing, dance, play act, recite poetry and show off their talents. Venues of these shows are usually the premises of a school and when that is not available they take place in the living room of a member. Shiri also arranges special programmes to give children lessons in singing and art.

In addition to this Shiri also brings out a magazine every year. This includes short stories, poetry and drawings of the children as well as writings of authors of children's fiction.

Although Shiri has started out in a modest way it plans in the future on extending its programmes outside of Dhaka. For now it is concentrating in the city encouraging children to keep in touch with their cultural and intellectual environment. This kind of awareness can be seen in 10 year old Majrifa Alam's article on Sita Kunda hill range.

She describes her excursion to Chittagong which starts off as a fun trip but ends up in her shocked realization that the hills have been stripped of their green forests by indiscriminate felling. She criticizes the people responsible and appeals to the government to take action against them.

The Bangladesh Jatiyatabadi Muktiyoddha Dal accorded a reception to the Tribal Repatriation Committee of Chittagong Hill Tracts at the auditorium of National Sports Council yesterday. Seen seated (from L to R) are Rashed Khan Menon MP, Communications Minister Oli Ahmed, LGRD and Cooperatives Minister Abdus Salam Talukder and Minister of State for Sports and Youth Sadeq Hossain.

JS body meet told

About 8 lakh tonnes food in stock

The country has a food stock of about 8 lakh metric tons and the rice stock is adequate enough to meet the distribution under Public Food Distribution System (PFDS) for nearly a year, reports UNB.

This was informed at the 22nd meeting of the Parliamentary Standing Committee on the Food Ministry, held at Sangsad Bhaban yesterday with Food Minister Mir Shawkat Ali in the chair.

The committee reviewed the price level of rice, its present stock and production in the country and expressed satisfaction over the overall food situation.

It opined the price of rice has become stabilised due to open market sale at 12 places in the Dhaka city.

The government will take adequate steps to monitor the price of rice and, if needed, open market sale will be started at any place where the price rises.

The meeting was also informed that production of IRRI-Boro paddy would be upto expectation in the coming season.

It expressed deep shock at the death of Abdul Baten, former State Minister for Education and BNP standing committee member.

The members of the committee — MA Matin and Salahuddin Quamran of BNP, Mosharraf Hossain and Mirza Azam of Awami League and Azizur Rahman Chowdhury of Jamat-e-Islami — and Food Secretary Dr Taufique-e-Elahi Chowdhury were present.

Preservation of Bir Sreshthas' graves under consideration

The issue of preserving the graves of Bir Sreshthas of the Liberation War is now under active consideration of the government, reports BSS.

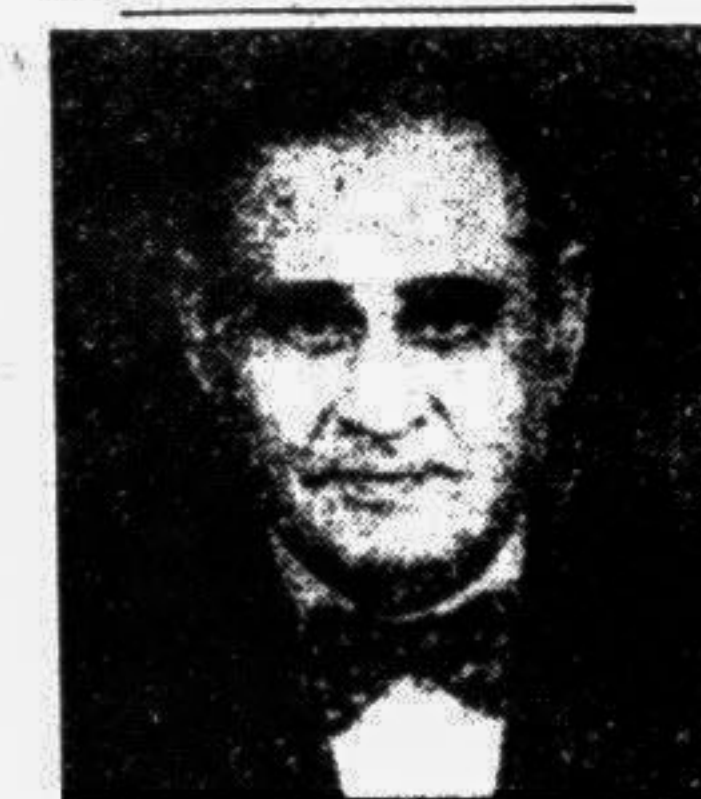

Agriculture, Irrigation and Flood Control Minister Major General (ret'd) M Majid-Ul-Huq told this Jatiya Sangsad yesterday. He said that out of the seven Bir Sreshthas, graves of four were located in different parts of the country.

The grave of Shaheed Ftl Lt Motiur Rahman is located in Pakistan, while the grave of Shaheed Lance Naik Munshi Abdur Rauf who died in Rangamati hill district could not be identified yet, he said and added the body of Shaheed Sallor Ruhul Amin of Bangladesh Navy could not be recovered after the ship, on which he was serving, was destroyed on December 10, 1971.

He said the government might consider setting up a memorial in honour of the Bir Sreshthas if there was a proposal.

In reply to a question, the minister said if the transfer of grave of Shaheed Ftl Lt Motiur Rahman from Pakistan to Bangladesh was permissible in religion, the government would take necessary steps in this regard. He said the matter would be consulted with the Religious Affairs Ministry.

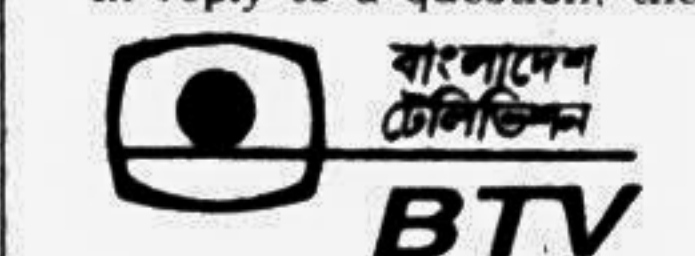

Dr Wajih dead

Dr A A M Wajih, MBE, first Indian Surgeon General of undivided Bengal and the erstwhile East Pakistan, died Friday in Dhaka. He was 94, says a press release.

Dr Wajih comes of an illustrious family of Bengal. He was the son of late Moulavi Mohammed Mahmud, a renowned educationist and A D P I of Bengal. He was the grand son of Moulana Mohammed Alia Madhrasa and Fort William College and also a signatory to the Calcutta University Charter as an Indian.

Dr A A M Wajih for his outstanding services in the medical profession and in the Eastern front medical mission during World War II, was awarded 'Merit of the British Empire' (MBE).

He was buried at Banani Graveyard after Zohr prayers Saturday. His zohr prayers will be held after Asr prayers today at 88, Santinagar, Dhaka. He left behind a son and host of relatives, admirers and friends to mourn his death.
