China criticises foreign investors for tax evasion

BEIJING, July 2: China today sharply criticised the "capital games" of foreign investors who whisked their profits out of the country through accounting deceptions and tax evasion, reports Reuter.

We welcome foreign businessmen's investment in China and will protect their lawful rights and interests," the official People's Daily said.

"But we will absolutely not allow foreign businessmen to seek exorbitant profits, to violate our country's laws, or to use all sorts of illegitimate means to extract (profits)."

The article, entitled "Capital games and profit leaks," accused some foreign investors of using many fraudulent methods to deny China its rightful share of taxes and profits and to secretly spirit foreign currency abroad.

In one survey, the newspaper said, more than half the foreign-funded ventures had failed to pay in their full amount or registered capital.

Some foreign firms had jacked up the price of the equipment they put into the Chinese investment or used poor-quality machinery to artificially boost the size of their investment Some foreign ventures exaggerated their rate of dividend or the prices of the raw materials they used, the article said. Others padded their local expenses and shipped their finished goods back to head office at below cost.

The article admitted China's frenetic emphasis on foreign investment, as part of economic reform, had led to some of the abuses.

"In recent years, many places linked the number of established foreign-funded ventures with the achievements of local leaders, which gave rise to false enterprises,"

The newspaper, demanding a "strict and standard" system, said laws must be strengthened, particularly those aimed at curbing tax evasion.

China this year reported a sharp drop in foreign investment from the record levels of 1993, when legions of board directors flocked to Beijing in a race to participate in the world's fastest growing econ-

Official media has reported that contracted foreign investment in the first five months of 1994 was 32.7 billion US dollars in 20,230 projects, against 58.76 billion US dollars in 43,632 projects in the first half of 1993.

In the first quarter, contracted investment was 25.39 billion dollars in 10,739 projects, down 51.3 per cent and 43.6 per cent respectively from the same 1993 period.

In the whole of 1993, contracted foreign investment was 122.7 billion US dollars, up 76.7 per cent on 1992, a figure China said was the highest in the world.

Economists blame the drop on fewer privileges offered to joint ventures, stronger competition for investment dollars and tighter credit policies by Beijing which have cut growth, especially in real estate.

Some foreign businessmen have said they are wary of the dangers of investing in China, which is wrestling with an economy on the verge of overheating.

Despite boom in trade, Hanoi fails to control deficit

HANOI, July 2: Vietnam's efforts to build an export driven economy produced a boom in trade in the first half of the year but the government failed to control a widening trade deficit, a report said

Friday, reports AFP. Overall trade surged 27 per cent from the same period last vear to 3.3 billion dollars, but imports outweighed exports by 100 million dollars, the Vietnam news agency said.

Exports totalled 1.6 billion dollars, but reached only 44 per cent of the government target for the first half, the official agency said, attributing the shortfall to limited markets for Vietnamese products and fluctuations in world commodity prices. Imports stood at 1.7 billion dollars, up 27 per cent on the same period last year but despite a sharp rise in some exports. Vietnam has been unable to control a swelling trade deficit, which stood at 200 million dollars in 1993.

While exports of some commodities such as groundnuts, rubber and coffee doubled in the first half of the year, imports of construction materials, cement, fertiliser and petroleum products soared as domestic production has been unable to meet demand.

Vietnam has been hoping to follow the lead of its Asian neighbours in developing an export-driven economy but so far its successes have been mostly in the areas of oil and agricultural production.

The government has expressed concern about rising trade deficits with South Korea tries have dismissed the complaints, saying they are mostly selling machinery and factory equipment that will eventually boost Vietnamese exports.

Official figures for the trade deficit do not include the vast amount of smuggled goods flooding into Vietnam from China and Cambodia that western experts say would double the red ink on the trade balance sheet if they were counted.

Hanoi recently hiked tariffs or banned the import of a large range of products to protect Vietnamese industries hit badly by cheaper, higher quality goods from China.

The Vietnam news agency attributed the rise in overseas sales to better production and reforms to the tariff and ex-

US Congress moves to approve world trade accord

WASHINGTON, July 2: A key congressional subcommittee has informally approved much of the proposed legislation that would bring the United States into the new world trading system agreed to by more than 100 countries last year, according to USIS. But the trade subcommittee

June 29 left for the full Ways and Means Committee of the US House of Representatives decisions on some of the most controversial sections of the proposed legislation that would replace the current General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

Rufus Yerxa, deputy US trade representative, hailed the subcommittee's action after the meeting. The subcommittee's informal vote was the first in what the administration hopes will be congressional approval of the trade agreement.

"It's the beginning of the end of a long process." Yerxa

Yerxa said he was confident that the full committee and then both houses of Congress would approve the sweeping changes in international trad ing rules.

"Our target for congressional approval is still... before the recess in August", he said.

Committees in both houses of Congress are trying to reach agreement with administration officials on the shape of the implementing legislation that President Clinton would formally submit in July. Once the implementing legislation is formally submitted, it may not be amended by Congress

Dollar, gold up in New York

NEW YORK, July 2: The dollar moved slightly higher against major currencies in slack early trading in New York Friday ahead of the US independence day holiday weekend, reports AFP.

Gold picked up 90 cents to trade at 386.70 dollars per

At 1350 GMT, the greenback was trading at 1.6000 German marks from 1.5870 late Thursday. Against the yen, the dollar edged up to 99.50 from 98.47 late Thursday.

The greenback also moved higher against other major European currencies to trade at 5.4800 French francs from 5.4395, at 1.3420 Swiss francs from 1.3330 and 0.6508 pound sterling from 0.6477.

Traders gave the dollar a boost with their cover purchases ahead of the long holiday weekend, but the greenback may move lower later in the session, a Credit Lyonnais trader here said.

Dollar-selling should kick in if the dollar hits 1.6250 German marks, the trader said. adding that trading should be light as the currency and bond markets close at midday.

The dollar may again head lower, particularly against the yen next week, ahead of the summit of the Group of Seven highly industrialised countries in Naples, Italy, the same

ROK registers trade surplus in June

SEOUL, July 2: South Korea registered, the year's first monthly trade surplus in June, reaping windfalls from the unabated surge of the Japanese yen and the world economic recovery, the trade ministry said yesterday, reports AFP.

With the volume of June exports at record levels, the value surged 15.4 per cent to 8.36 billion dollars, while imports rose by 10.6 per cent to 8.33 billion dollars, for a trade deficit of 35 million dollars on a customs clearance basis.

South Korea's accumulated trade deficit in the first half of the year expanded to 3.53 billion dollars, up 1.16 billion dollars from a year ago, the ministry's provisional figures showed Ministry officials attributed the steep rise in June's exports to the strengthened international competitiveness of South Korean semiconductors. automobiles, ships and heavy chemical products, coupled with the yen's ongoing surge.

Heavy chemical products also sold well abroad, rising 15.3 per cent from the same month of last year.

Meanwhile, overall imports in the first six months through June were up 14.8 per cent from a year ago, boosted by a rosy outlook for the domestic

Japan wants G-7 to mention currency rates in statement

TOKYO, July 2: Japan might ask other Group of Seven countries to mention currency rates in their economic statement at next week's summit in Naples, Finance Minister Masayoshi Takemura was quoted as saying Friday, reports AFP.

"We will ask for it if the yen happens to appreciate alone against the dollar and other currencies," he said in an interview with Kyodo news ser-

"Some quick measures are called for before the summit. but we don't have any at the moment," the new finance minister reportedly said.

"The only answer now is appropriate and timely actions including market intervention and basically I want to exchange views seriously for international cooperation.

Takemura, leader of the small centrist new party Sakigake, was appointed Thursday to the Conservative-dominated three-party cabinet of Prime Minister Tomiichi Murayama. the country's first socialist Prime Minister in 47 years.

"The new coalition government must show Japan's economic policies, including measures to stem the yen's rise, the finance minister said, not ing that Japan was paying the greatest attention" to the yen's appreciation.

"Currency rates should reflect economic fundamentals, but various economic conditions of each nation are involved the speculative moves are unavoidable.

But even so, it's an overly rapid rise of the yen," he said, adding that he was more concerned about the "stronger negative impact then positive aspects" of the stronger yen on Japan's fragile economic recovery.

The economy overall remains in a slump and I can't say that it has emerged from the recession." Takemura said.

Growth rates in DAEs may continue to rise

PARIS, July 2: China's economic explosion and growing export demand as the economic recovery quickens in the Western world are set to keep Southeast Asia's rapid growth on track, the OECD said on Thursday, reports Reuter.

"Growth rates in the DAEs (Dynamic Asian Economies) could rise further in 1994 to nearly seven per cent in real terms, close to potential, and continue at this rate in 1995. the think tank said in its latest twice yearly economic outlook.

But that strong performance, which will leave the organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development's 25 rich nations standing, threatens to bring overheating with it.

Output accelerating towards its potential ceiling, industry working almost flat out and factors such as a shortage of agricultural produce in South Korea, a steep rise in Hong Kong rents and a new sales tax in Singapore will reinforce the upward trend in prices. The OECD said prices in

by 5.5 per cent his year and next after 4.4 per cent in

China, a huge influence on the region, will see slower growth and inflation rate this year, but both measures will exceed the official targets of nine and 10 per cent respec-

However, the forum said that if inflation were to accelerate it is likely macro economic policies would be tightened in a number of countries. It said that as recovery gets under way in Europe and Japan export volumes for the DAEs, which are often known as the "Asian tigers", will rise again to around 10 per cent. As a result the area's current account surplus will remain in place, with Hong Kong and Taiwan continuing to record large current account surpluses.

The exception will be Thailand, where raw materials account for a large share of exports and capital goods imports have surged as a result of the rapid infrastructure expansion and which is likely to post a deficit of around eight billion dollars a year.
