

Pak economy improves: Survey

ISLAMABAD, June 13: Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto's government said Pakistan's economy "broadly improved" in fiscal 1994/95 ending on June 30, though most growth targets were not met, reports Reuters.

The government gave its assessment of the economy in a survey prepared by its finance division ahead of the budget for fiscal 1995/96 due to be presented to parliament on Wednesday.

"The performance of the economy has broadly improved during the year 1994/95," the report said. "Many structural and macro-economic reforms have been successfully implemented."

The survey, comparing 1994/95 growth with low growth for two years starting with flood-hit 1992/93, said transition in the economy had been a "difficult and painful phase, and yet most macro-economic indicators flagged marked improvements." At the end of last month, the government set higher growth targets for the next year, provoking opposition charges of exaggerating achievements and setting unrealistic goals.

The gross domestic product (GDP) rose by 4.7 per cent compared to 3.8 per cent in 1993/94 and 2.3 per cent in the previous year, the survey said. But it fell short of a government-set target of 6.9 per cent.

The policy-making National Economic Council (NEC) has set the next year GDP growth target at 6.5 per cent.

Former Finance Minister Sartaj Aziz, Secretary-General of the opposition Pakistan Muslim League, said last week an over-optimistic assessment of the current financial year would be the most critical shortcoming of the next budget.

"This crude attempt at covering the failure of the economic policies of the present government. Also provides in accurate benchmarks for next year's projections and targets," he said in a statement.

The survey said major crops "moved on a peaking trend" with a 6.4 per cent climb... in sharp contrast to negligible jump in 1993/94 and a steep decline of 15.6 per cent in 1992/93.

It said an "encouraging improvement" was recorded in balance of payments with an appreciable jump in exports and home remittances by Pakistanis working abroad with foreign exchange reserves touched a 2.6 billion mark.

"Overall liquidity was kept in check within prudent limits, and expansion of money supply was on target," it said.

But it said prices came under "greater strain" during the first part of the year, though the pace of inflation eased considerably later. "Still the issue remained of major concern to the government." Pakistani officials say the new targets would form the basis of Pakistan's coming talks with the International Monetary Fund (IMF) on resuming a delayed lending programme.

Other major targets set for the next fiscal year include a lower inflation rate of 9.5 per cent compared to 13 per cent in 1994/95, a lower deficit rate of 4.0 per cent from 5.6 per cent in 1994/95 and monetary expansion at 12.5 per cent compared to 12.2 per cent as on May 11 against a target of 11.8 per cent.

Higher growth rates of 17.1 and 15.5 per cent have been set for investment and national savings compared to 15.5 per cent and 14.8 per cent respectively in 1994/95.

The IMF is to scrutinise Pakistan's budget before deciding whether to resume its lending programme already delayed for six months.

Donors may map out $1.3b for Gaza, West Bank

PARIS, June 13: Officials of nations providing start-up funds for Palestinian self-rule are to meet next month to map out a 1.3 billion US dollars investment programme in Gaza and the West Bank for next year, a World Bank official said on Monday, reports Reuters.

The ad hoc group of nations, which has pledged about 2.4 billion US dollars so far to get the Palestinian authority off the ground, will sift through grant requests well in excess of the 1.3 billion US dollars earmarked for this use, the World Bank's Odin Knudsen told reporters during a Paris visit.

The meeting is tentatively set to take place in the French capital on July 10 and 11, said Knudsen, who is the bank's resident representative in the West Bank and Gaza.

The investment funds will come out of the 2.4 billion US dollars already pledged by the group, Knudsen said.

Taiwan to share US helicopter project

TAIPEI, Taiwan, June 13: Taiwan is to join an American aerospace company in producing a 22-seat military and passenger helicopter, the second major aircraft deal to be announced since President Lee Teng-hui's historic US visit, says AP.

Lee was the first Taiwan president to set foot in the United States. On Monday, as he was returning, Taiwan's two main airlines announced they will buy 12 Boeing 777 airliners.

Also Monday, Taiwanese aerospace officials signed a co-operation agreement in Paris with Connecticut-based United Technology Sikorsky Aircraft.

Jack Tang, deputy director of the government Committee for Aviation and Space Industry Development, said Taiwan will develop and produce the S-92 twin-engine helicopter's nose, but details and costs have yet to be worked out.

The American company is also in discussion with other potential partners, including China's Jing Te Zen Helicopter Company, Japan's Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, Brazil's Embraer and Spain's GAMESA, Tang said.

The helicopter, to be named "helibus," is expected to go on the market in 1999.

Rao woos French investors

India won't reverse economic reforms

PARIS, June 13: Indian Prime Minister PV Narasimha Rao wooed French investors on Monday with assurances his country was politically stable, committed to democracy and would not reverse four years of economic reforms, reports Reuters.

But he ruled out privatisation of public-sector businesses, saying foreigners seeking a share of the Indian marketplace should focus instead on the 60 to 70 per cent of national demand not now fulfilled by state-owned firms.

"Our main thrust in the industrialisation programme is not to sell away what has been built over the past 40 years. We are not in a selling spree," Rao told a group of French business leaders at the start of a four-day Paris visit.

Rao was accompanied by 28 Indian business executives who sought to sell India to their

Iran to improve trade ties with developed Asian states

TEHRAN, June 13: Iran has decided to improve trade ties with developed Asian countries in an attempt to reduce its dependency on the West, a senior official said yesterday, reports AFP.

Hassan Taberian, Director of the Foreign Ministry's Asia-Pacific Department, said Iran would give priority to economic relations with Asia and insisted that Asian countries were already the main buyer of Iranian oil.

"An expansion of ties with the Far East and Southeastern Asia would allow US to reduce our dependence on western industrial states," he told the Daily Kayhan International.

Taberian predicted that Asia would become the "world's center of gravity" in the next century, notably in economic fields.
