BCL, JCD blame each other for Sunday's incident

by DU Correspondent The student activists of ruling BNP and opposition Awami League yesterday blamed each other for Sunday's violence and killing in the city's Farmgate area. Both the student organisations brought out processions, on the Dhaka University campus protesting Sunday's violence and later held separate rallies with the speakers pointing finger at each other. The Bangladesh Chhatra League (BCL), the student wing of Bangladesh Awami League blamed the Jatiyatabadi Chhatra Dal (JCD) for attacking an Awami League procession at Farmgate on Sunday. They alleged that the terrorists of JCD had killed two activists of AL in the presence of police. At a rally held yesterday on the Dhaka University campus they demanded arrest and trial of the killers. Enamul Haq Shamim, the BCL central committee president said, the student community will resist what he said, the autocratic move of the government. Meanwhile the Jatiyatabadi Chhatra Dal, the student wing of the ruling BNP, accused the BCL of attacking their meeting at Farmgate on the day. At a rally held on the Dhaka University campus yesterday the speakers said that JCD would help establish democracy under the leadership of Prime Minister Begum Khaleda Zia. Fazlul Haq Milan, president, JCD central committee, said, the Awami League believes in the politics of dead and claimed Abdur Rahman was a victim of a blueprint of Awami Jubo League.

Live US Open on Prime Sports

5:30 am, Today

THIS is last of the Grand Slam Masters for the season, with the Australian, French & Wimbledon making up the others. It is held at the famous Flushing Meadow complex in New York after being transferred from Forest Hills in 1977, and Andre Agassi will be in line for his second successive victory if he keeps the form that has taken him to the No.1 ranked player in the world. Last year he beat Germany's former Wimbledon Champion, Michael Stich. But write off Pete Sampras, the 1993 winner, at your peril. LAST years total prize money was US$ 4,100,800 with 128 entrants for both men and women, with the men's singles winner getting US $ 550,000. In the 1994 men's doubles competition Jacco Eltingh & Paul Haarhuis defeated the "Woodies" from Australia - Todd Woodbridge & Mark Woodforde. This earned them the grand total of US $ 200,000. In the women's competition Arantxa Sanchez-Vicario (Second Seed) dropped the first set, but came back to beat Steffi Graf (Top Seed), 1-6, 7-6, 6-4. Total prize money was US $ 3.9 million. The women's doubles was another triumph for Sanchez Vicario as she teamed up with Jana Novotna to defeat the unseeded Katerina Maleceva & R White.

The extraordinary Today 9:30 PM

Star Plus continues to present the reality show, The Extraordinary, a collection of the most unbelievable but true stories from around the world hosted by Corbin Bernsen.

In each episode, celebrities from all over the world tell of their extraordinary experiences. All stories are researched and produced by an experienced team of veteran journalists. Each event is documented factually and presented as it happened. Stories include that of a blind woman from the US who could see when put under hypnosis; the real story behind the movie—the Exorcist; a pair of identical twins from Europe who speak, move and think in perfect unison; the WWI airman who turned up in a squadron photograph taken two days after he was killed in action; and the British woman whose hand writes incessantly and produces volumes of books she says are channeled to her from the great authors of history.
