First aid manual of BDPC launched

By Staff Correspondent

The losses in disasters like cyclone and flood can be reduced to a great extent through effective steps to meet the emergency situation after such occurrence.

State Minister for Disaster Management Harun-Al-Rashid, stated this while launching a handbook yesterday on "First Aid in Disaster Emergencies", compiled under joint effort of British Aid Programme and Bangladesh Disaster Preparedness Centre (BDPC).

The function held at the National Museum was also addressed by the British High Commissioner Peter J Fowler, Secretary, Ministry of Disaster management, Islamuddin Malik and the director BDPC Saidur Rahman.

"We can not evade disasters, but we can reduce the loss of lives through disaster management system," the minister said at the launching ceremony, held on the occasion of the International Day for National Disaster Reduction, to be observed tomorrow.

Peter J Fowler, the British High Commissioner in Bangladesh praised the book and said it would be useful.

British Aid Programme funded the preparation, publication and distribution of the manual.

About the compilation of the book the director of BDPC, Md. Saidur Rahman said that they collected the available first aid material from Bangladesh and abroad and invited 60 persons who had gone through a disaster for exchange of ideas.

The illustrated handbook, according to the director, was written by a panel of physicians and NGO activists.

Arakan students congress formed

By Staff Correspondent

A 21-member central committee of All Arakan Students and Youths Congress (AASYC) was formed on October 6 at the Arakanese Students and Youths Conference held in the Thai capital Bangkok from September 27 to October 6, says a press release.

With a renewed vow to struggle for democracy and eliminate all kinds of imperialism and dictatorship, the exiled students of Arakan, arranged the conference. They have also decided to merge three of their organisations into AASYC.

The three organisations are All Burma Students Democratic Front (ABSDF, Arakan chapter), Arakanese Students Congress (ASC), India and Revolutionary Arakanese Youths and Students (RAYS), Bangladesh.

Distribution of fertiliser

Buffer stocks at strategic locations suggested

CHITTAGONG, Oct 9: Measures have been taken to ensure adequate supply of fertiliser to the farmers and the distribution system is being restructured, reports BSS.

Lutfor Rahman Khan, State Minister for Industries, said this while addressing working personnel of Chittagong Urea Fertiliser Factory at Rangadia.

During the review of performance of the factory, the minister was informed that Chittagong Urea Fertiliser has set a production target of five lakh metric tons of urea for 1995-96 fiscal. The factory has produced 1.62 lakh tonnes and supplied 1.28 lakh tonnes from July 1 to October 8.

The actual production and supply during the corresponding period of last year was 1.14 lakh tonnes and 1.24 lakh tonnes respectively.

The factory has a ready stock of 84,000 metric tons of urea.

The minister directed the management of the factory to optimise the delivery of urea to the buyers, particularly during the next season.

He directed them to build up buffer stocks at different strategic locations of the country, particularly in north-western and southern region to check possible price hike.

Lutfor urged upon factory management to undertake proper maintenance of the plant and machinery for ensuring uninterrupted production of fertiliser.

He called upon factory management to enhance productivity in all spheres of operation and reduce production cost avoiding wastage.

He emphasised most efficient and economic use of natural gas.

Earlier the minister went round various sections of the factory.
