English language film series are the most favourite programme among 80 per cent school-children while television news attracts them least, reports BSS. Entertaining magazine programmes and dramas of BTV hold the second and third position respectively in their preference list. This was revealed in a study conducted by Press Institute of Bangladesh (PIB) by its researcher Quamrul Haq recently. The study titled 'The Impact of BTV Programmes on Children and Juveniles' was conducted among 464 children of 7-16 age-group studying in KG to Class nine. They were chosen at random from 31 Kindergarten, primary and secondary schools of Dhaka city. Although most of the children prefer watching English language films, only 2.6 per cent watch the Movie of the Week. In regard to categorisation of English language films, 72 per cent preferred detective series. This was followed by cartoon series (68 per cent) and comedy series (53 per cent). However, more than 70 per cent children said they cannot follow the English series because of language problem while more than 87 per cent opined that these should be dubbed in Bengali. Some 80 per cent of children said, of the BTV's children's programmes, they like 'Nutun Kuri' most.
