Civic Watch concerned at political crisis Civic Watch-Bangladesh expressed deep concern at the deteriorating condition of the country, says a press release. The country is at a very critical stage both politically and economically as the economy has practically come to a standstill. The prices of the essentials including rice are beyond the reach of the common people, they observed. Civic Watch-Bangladesh feels that both the ruling and the opposition parties have so far won their respective political games - only the people are the sufferers. The opposition has won as all their demands have been met. The ruling party also won as it had the wisdom to show political flexibility - the people have already appreciated this. Now one more issue - 15th February election to the 6th Parliament - stands in the way of final settlement. Civic Watch-Bangladesh would request the President to consider the following for a solution. The President may prepare the case for immediate reference to the Supreme Court (Appellate Division), for its opinion which all parties should abide by. If the reference is made under Article 106 of the constitution the President is not required to consult the political parties for making such a reference, added the press release.
