Tale of Divorce Cases in City

By AS M Nurunnabi

Dissolution of marriage through divorce is a sad phenomenon in most societies. But this is an immemorable part of social ethos in the sociological evolution of man. It is said: Getting married is easy; staying married is more difficult and staying happily married for a lifetime should rank among the fine arts. Thus staying happily married should be regarded as an enviable ideal. But it becomes a tragedy in the life of some, when staying married presents difficulties which end in the marriage being irretrievably broken down.

The procedure through which a divorce is obtained is different in different countries in the light of prevailing religious practices. In our country, divorce proceedings are regulated by the Family Laws Ordinance, 1961. Under this law, when any man or woman wishes to divorce his spouse. he or she shall, as soon as possible after the declaration of talag (divorce) in any form whatsoever, give the notice in writing to the Chairman of the Arbitration Council, with a copy to the spouse concerned. The Chairman in this context means (i) the Chairman of the Union Parishad; (ii) the Chairman of the Pourashava; (iii) the Mayor or administrator of the Municipal Corpora-

During 1992, it appeared from the City Corporation records that the total number of divorce proceedings filed according to law was 1,180. Of this total figure, the number of divorce petitions initiated by the wife was 790 and by the husband 390. For the subsequent year 1994, the total figure was 1320. The break-up of this total figure was 960 by the wife and 360 by the husband. In 1995, the total figure of divorce petitions rose to 1720 with the continuing trend of the preponder-

This was the first time the president (head of state) was briefed by a prime minister about the state visit abroad as per the constitutional provision since the introduction of parliamentary democracy in the country in 1991.

Under the constitutional provision, the prime minister is to apprise the country's president, who is the head of state, about his/her state visit. But the provision was not followed in last five years.

Laws need to be reformed to check menace of non-performing loans

A leading business leader vesterday emphasised that laws be reformed allowing banks to force-close on mortgaged property without going through the existing procedures, reports UNB.

The laws need to be reformed also to combat the menace of non-performing loans said Mahbubur Rahman, International Chamber of Commerce (ICC)-Bangladesh President, in a meeting with a IMF delegation.

Rahman made the suggestions when the International Monetary Fund (IMF) delegation sought views on measures which are needed to expedite economic re-generation, including acceleration of financial sector reforms.

The high-powered delegation was led by IMF deputy managing director PR Narvekar. It also included Deputy Director of the IMF South-east Asia and Pacific Department Anoop Singh. Welcoming the IMF team.

Mahbubur Rahman said the reform measures suggested under Financial Sector Reform Project should be implemented at the earliest, keeping in view accumulated problems in the banking sector.

He pointed out that country's potential or economic efficiency was given necessary incentives, and in this regard, enumerated the factors which had been limiting the growth of private sector.

The ICC-Bangladesh president also pointed out how the continued weakness of the financial sector, coupled with economic distortions created by the huge loss of the public sector enterprises to the tune of Tk 25 billion annually, limited the growth potential.

While stressing on reforms in banking sector, the ICC president suggested that at the same time, privatisation programmes must go ahead without any further loss of time. Commenting on WTO, he
