Shantibahini activities continue despite truce

Despite a ceasefire in the Chittagong Hill Tracts, the outlawed Shantibahini reportedly continues its campaign of extortion, abduction, arson and other anti-social activities, reports UNB.

The current ceasefire between the government and Shantibahini will end on September 30. But their repressive measures have created a sense of doubt and insecurity among the hill people.

It is learnt that the armed cadres of the Shantibahini were sending toll collection notices to the people. They reportedly were damaging the development projects or stopping the uplift works for failure of meeting their demand.

In the wake of their undue pressure, normal activities in the area are being paralysed. Villagers of some areas are contemplating to desert their homes.

Sources said nine Bangalee wood-cutters from village Panbarata in the frontier Panchhari thana and UP chairman of Gulmura Nagendra Narayan in Matiranga thana were abducted a month back and nothing known about their fate.

The armed Shantibahini activists tried to abduct a tribal Marma leader Rakhai Marma and set ablaze a tribal village.

On a tip-off, the members of the law enforcing agencies arrested two people from a temple in Naikhangchhari thana during their preparation to raid a village on July 7. One Chinese rifle, 1,000 rounds of bullets, four grenades and a wireless set were seized from their possession.

On August 13, the Shantibahini abducted one Shawkat Ali from Rajanagar village of Langdu thana of Rangamati district. Recently, they sent notices to the villagers of Baghaichhari thana demanding Tk 5 lakh. They also issued warning to destabilise the situation there if their demand was not met.

Security sources said some 338 people, including the members of army, police, BDR and Ansar were killed in the Chittagong Hill Tracts region till May this year since 1979.
