Indo-Bangla 30-yr water sharing treaty hailed

More intellectuals and lead ers of political parties, professional groups, trade unions and various organisations yester day welcomed the 30-year Ganges water treaty, reports UNB.

The historic treaty was signed in New Delhi on Thursday by Bangladesh Prime Min-ister Sheikh Hasina and Indian Prime Minister H D Deve Gowda.

Welcoming the treaty, Sramik Krishak Samajbadi Dal leader Nirmal Sen said, "we hope the bilateral relation between Bangladesh and India will be strengthened through the signing of this treaty.

He said the Bangladesh government must be careful about the implementation of the accord, availability of water and its utilisation.

Ganoforum congratulated governments of Bangladesh and India for signing the Ganges water sharing agreement and said this had ended an intolerable situation.

The party expressed the hope that this agreement would make a positive contribution towards establishment of peace and ensuring progress in the spirit of regional cooperation.
"Other problems existing between the two countries will also go through their mutual respect and cooperation," a party press release said. Jatiya Janata Party said the water sharing agreement demonstrating honesty and friendliness of both the countries would help resolve the unresolved issues existing between India and Bangladesh.

Bangladesh People's League said this agreement had proved that any problem could be re-solved if honesty and sincerity were there. Ganatantrik Karmi Shibir said a large part of Bangladesh would now be saved from desertification due to the agreement. Bangladesh Jatiya Hindu Parishad termed the agreement as a victory of democratic and non-communal forces against the communal and fundamentalist forces. Desh Unnayan Juba Front described the agreement as a landmark for the development of Bangladesh. It said Prime Minister would be ever remembered among the toiling mass for realising their long cherished demand. Jatiya Chhatra Sammelan, 96 preparatory committee, said this agreement would further
