River erosion takes alarming turn at Bera thana

From Our Correspondent

PANBA, Jan 13: River erosion has started in the Jamuna within Bera thana of Pabna district. Erosion has already taken an alarming shape in two unions covering at least ten villages under the same thana. The flood Control Embankment near Pechakhola is only ten years from the main current of the river posing a severe threat to the very existence of the said embankment known as Mujib Bundhu.

Erosion has been proceeding by nearly 3 feet everyday towards the embankment. If the embankment is destroyed, says Abdul Majid Mollah, an Awami League leader of the Bera thana, Nakalia and Puran Bharenga unions would then face inundation with an irresistible force of the strong current of the river Jamuna. The Nakalia-Bera road via Puran-Bharenga would also face a severe damage-rendering complete disruption in the social and economic life of the people.

When contacted over telephone, the project director, Bangladesh Water Development Board, Pabna, admitted the devastations being caused to the area by the erosion and disclosed that the government has sanctioned Taka one crore for saving the flood control embankment but the fund was yet to be placed. He further said, considering the gravity of the situation, various other steps were being taken on an emergency basis contemplating the urgency of the work.

Bidders and cement bags are being thrown to save the embankment.

The Joint Convener of Erosion Resistance Action Committee and a member of the central committee of Bangladesh Jatyo Krishak and Khetmayur Samity, Nazrul Islam told this correspondent on Saturday that a big shoal appeared near Pechakhola (about two kilometers long) and hence the main stream of the river Jamuna became deviated into two separate streams. One of these streams, with all fury, started hitting the banks around Pechakhola. As a result, the peasant leader stated, a large number of human habitations and vast areas of land with standing crops have already been devoured.

Miran Ahmed, a member of Haturia-Nakalia union parishad told The Daily Star that the erosion started slowly from November last year but since mid December, it took a severe turn. Within a few days, he said, Nakalia Mouza as a whole went deep under the river Jamuna and at present, over five kilometres area starting from Mohanganj to Natun Hariampur villages were being grabbed. The erosion, he said, was too severe in about one and a half kilometres area from Nayanpur and the people of the affected villages did not get any time to shift their houses and their belongings.

During the last two weeks, Nakalia Government Primary School building, Nakalia Bazar mosque, two third areas of Nakalia bazar, Nayanpur Kail Temple, burial ground, Swarivar Mirza Awa Adarsha village have been completely devoured.

Over 500 families comprising about 3,000 men, women and children have been already rendered homeless.

The Kaitola Pump Station, built a cost of several crores of Taka by the water Development Board, was only two kilometres from the place of erosion. If erosion spreads further, the Pump station may also face disaster.
