BRIEFILY

Opposition leader sued in S'pore:

A Singapore opposition politician who was defeated in this month's general elections after being accused of inciting racism has been sued for defamation by two Cabinet ministers, a newspaper reported Thursday. AP reports from Singapore. Deputy Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong and Education Minister Lee Yock Suan filed a notice of the suit in the High Court on Monday against Workers Party member Tang Liang Hong, the Straits Times said. In the past Singapore's ruling party leaders have sued other opposition party members and critics also, usually with success.

Liberian polls to be held May 30: General elections that could seal the end of this West African country's seven-year civil war will be held May 30, the government announced Wednesday. AP reports from Elections commission chairwoman Gloria Scott told a news conference that the official campaign period would begin Saturday. She said voter registration would begin Feb. 15. Whether the elections are to remain on track will depend on the full disarmament of some 60,000 rebels. The Economic Community of West African States, which mediated the latest peace accord and provides peacekeepers, has set a Jan. 31 deadline for disarmament of rebel fighters.

80 devil worshippers held in Cairo:
Dozens of students suspected of wearing their nails long. dressing in black and organising open-air orgies were arrested Wednesday by police who claimed the students worshipped Satan, AP reports from Cairo.

Police accused them of "adopting fanatic beliefs," but did not specify what charges might be filed against them. The 80 students, most of whom study at Cairo's two largest universities, were believed to have taken part in orgies in the desert where drugs were consumed freely, police said. The women wore their nails long and were fond of black lipstick.

4 fishermen rescued in Malaysia: Four Malaysian fishermen have been rescued after being adrift in two fibre glass iceboxes for 11 days in the choppy South China Sea, officials said Thursday, AP reports from Kuala Lumpur. The four men survived on rain water, biscuits and some rice they had taken with them in the makeshift lifeboats after their boat sank, Abdul Rahim Akob, a Sarawak state marine department official told The Associated Press. He said two of them - Kassim Drahman, 16, and Mahadi Badri, 21 - were rescued Wednesday morning by oil rig workers when the icebox drifted near their platform, about 125 kilometres (77 miles) northwest of the coast of Sarawak on Borneo Island.

3 ex-Soviet agents sentenced: Three aging, former Soviet secret police agents were convicted Wednesday of genocide against Lithuanian citizens, but their sentences were reduced under the Baltic nation's amnesty law. AP reports from Vilnius.

The convictions were the first for genocide in the former Soviet republic and came after two years of off-and-on court proceedings, the Baltic News Service reported. A regional court in Vilnius found Kirilas Kurakinas, 75, Petras Bartasevicius, 74, and Juozas Sakalys, 74, guilty of taking part in the May 1945 killing of the family of a Lithuanian villager who was hiding from the Soviet army.

Earthquake shakes Turkey: An earthquake measuring 5.5 on the open-ended Richter Scale shook southern Turkey on Wednesday, the Anatolia news agency reported, citing the Kandilli Seismic Institute in Istanbul, AFP reports from Istanbul.

The temblor was felt in Mersin, Adana, Hatay, Malatya. Sanliurfa, Gaziantep and Diyarbakir, the institute said.

5.5b people may suffer from water shortage by 2025 toxic substances and materials. combat desertification and drought, protect the biodiversity of freshwater ecosystems and protect coastal areas from harmful land-based activities.

the world's population will suffer from water shortages by 2025 unless action is taken to stem the wasting and polluting of water, according to a UN

Stockholm Environment

Institute, was done for the United Nations Commission on

Arafat appoints

new members to

Islamic SC

tinian President Yasser Arafat has appointed 18 new members to the Jerusalem-based Islamic

Supreme Court for the Palestiman territories, including the body's first members from Gaza, Palestinian sources said members from the Gaza Strip included officials from Arafat's

Palestinian Authority, notably

Sheikh Yussef Salame who is Director General of the Ministry of Religious Affairs, or bub said the issue of making new appointment to the Islamic Higher Council "is under discussion but is not final yet."

Waqf Minister Hassan Tah-

The sources said the 13

Wednesday, reports AFP.

JERUSALEM, Jan 23: Pales-

Sustainable Development.

The report, by the commissioned report.

AP adds: About two-thirds of

STOCKHOLM, Jan 23: Two-thirds of the world population, 5.5 billion people, will suffer from water shortage by 2025 unless action is taken to improve water supply management, according to the UN

Commission on Sustainable Development (CSD), reports

Stockholm Environment

Institute (SEI) and various UN bodies for the CSD and presented in New York on Wednesday states that water use has been growing at more than twice the rate of population in-world population did not have access to safe drinking water and half lacked proper sanitapopulation currently lives in areas with moderate to severe water shortage, and since 1970, the theoretically available amount of water per capita has decreased by nearly 10 per cent, ing worldwide "due to various sources of pollution," which in turn affects the quality of food and threats agriculture and

The report, which will be submitted to the fifth session of the CDS and to the UN General Assembly later this year, calls for immediate action at all lev-grammes are required to provide safe drinking water and proper sanitation to all, eliminate the unsustainable use of "Agreements and pro-els and sectors of society.

Water quality is deterioratthe report said.

food production.

In 1995, one-fifth of the

About one-third of the world crease during this century.

A report prepared by the President Bill Clinton sings the national anthem prior to addressing students at Glenbrook North High School in the Chicago suburb of Northbrook, Wednesday. During his visit to Chicago, Clinton is also scheduled to meet with Mayor Richard Daley.

observers say. Reuter/UNB photo

Taliban capture 2 towns | Delhi welcomes | Israel appeals to Syria near Panjsher Valley

KABUL, Jan 23: The Taliban militia in a major offensive today overrun two key towns at the mouth of the strategic Panisher Valley, a Taliban official here confirmed, reports AFP.

The Taliban took Jabul Siraj and Gulbahar district in a two-pronged offensive launched early today, Qari Rehmatullah, an official at the militia's control room receiving reports from frontlines told AFP.

The Panisher Valley is the stronghold of the ousted Afghan government's defence minister Ahmed Shah Masood. "The Taliban are in complete control of both Gulbahar and Jabul Siraj," Rehmatullah said, adding opposition troops had been forced to retreat. The Pakistan-based Afghan Islamic Press reported that at least 11 ex-government soldiers the Taliban Reuter adds from Islamabad: Afghanistan's Islamic Taliban militia captured the important towns of Jabul Siraj and Gul-bahar from opposition forces

KHARTOUM, Jan 23: Sudan claimed Wednesday to have halted a rebel advance on a strategic hydroelectric power station in eastern Blue Nile state, as the opposition called for a mass uprising to overthrow the Islamic government that Ethiopia is backing the Sudanese rebels. Information

Minister Al-Tayed Ibrahim

Mohamed Khair said it was now only a matter of time before the insurgents were forced back out preventing any advance by the enemy," he told a daily press conference. "They are preparing to drive the Ethiopians and their agents beyond the border fighting "a deterrent battle".

Preparations were made for "repulsing the aggression in the southeastern Sudanese territo-that 1,260 Sudanese soldiers had been killed as guerillas inched forward to Damazin

City, site of the power station that supplies Khartoum with a died, he said, adding to airport

Wednesday in a government

Newspaper, Al-Sudan Al-Hadith, that "enemy forces had Fewer than 10 soldiers had electricity and fresh water.

been slain by the dozens.

He dismissed rebel claims

The army, he said now was "Our forces have succeeded in of the country.

Reiterating Khartoum's view in Khartoum, reports AFP.

were killed and 80 captured by north of Kabul on Thursday, Taliban and other sources said The sources, quoted by the Pakistan-based Islamic Afghan Press (AIP) service, said the Taliban had captured 20 tanks and

Yeltsin shows up at Kremlin

MOSCOW, Jan 23: Boris Yeltsin showed up at the Kremlin for the first time in two weeks, a surprise appearance that took the wind out of a parliamentary move to oust him because of his poor health. reports AP.

The Communists who sponsored the long-shot oid - failed to win enough votes to end Yeltsin's presidency and call for new elections. But widespread confusion over whether the voting was procedural or decisive marred the proceedings in the Duma, or lower house, and the measure's sponsor. Communist legislator Viktor Ilyukhin. vowed to continue his battle next month.

1000 govt troops surrender to rebels'

Opposition calls for mass uprising to oust Sudan govt

AP adds: Nearly 1,000 Sudanese soldiers have surrendered to opposition forces after rejecting government orders to fight, rebel leader John Garang said in remarks published tian weekly al-Mussawar that

Army and other opposition

Sri Lankan local govt polls

in March

Lanka Wednesday announced crucial local government elections that had been postponed three times and said the voting would take place in March, re-

The Elections Commission said it would start receiving nominations for 238 local government bodies outside the embattled northern and eastern regions for a week from Februend of March and the ballot is seen as a crucial popularity test for the government of President Chandrika Kumaratunga who came to power just over two Local council elections had been postponed three times by The voting is due towards the ports AFP.

years ago.

the government.

COLOMBO, Jan 23: Sri

his Sudan People's Liberation

Garang also told the Egypin the fighting, in which six Taliban and 11 opposition fighters were killed. Both towns are strongholds of former government military commander Ahmed Shah Masood and their loss constitutes a major setback for the anti-Taliban alliance led by Masood and his former rival, northern Uzbek General Abdul Rashid Dostum.

Jabul Siraj, about 70 km (44 miles) from Kabul, lies at the foot of the towering Salang Pas on the main road from the Afghan capital to Dostum's northern heartland.

Gulbahar, about 15 km (nine miles) northeast of Jabul Siraj, commands the entrance to the rugged Panjsher Valley, scene of many of Masood's guerilla exploits against Soviet occupation troops in the 1980s.

The Taliban achieved their latest advance a week after capturing the Soviet-built military airbase at Bagram and the nearby town of Charikar, about 50 km (31 miles) north of Kabul.

forces grouped in the National Democratic Alliance will only stop fighting when the Islamic fundamentalist government of President Omar el-Bashir is liance said Wednesday that the opposition had no plans to cut the power supply to the Sudanese capital, Khartoum, if they capture the town of Damazin, 470 kilometres (290 miles) southeast of Khartoum.

Damazin is the site of the Roseires Dam and its key hydro-

Blue Nile as it flows downstream into eastern Sudan from the Ethiopian highlands, provides Khartoum with 80 per cent of its electricity. One of two rebel offensives being launched at present appears headed to-

"We want transitive government and not to be the cause of their suffering." Farouk Abu Issa, the alliance spokesman, told a news conference in Cairo.

achieved on the battle fronts, I can say that the end of el-Bashir is near," said Garang, a US-educated former army colonel whose SPLA has been fighting successive Khartoum Al-Mussawar said it interviewed Garang at a secret location on the Sudanese-Ethiopian governments since 1983.

border.

In view of what has been

The dam, built across the electric power station.

ward Damazin.

A spokesman for the aloverthrown.

near Taj at least 80 opposition soldiers authorities are now welcoming Greek-born singer 'Yanni's plans to give a concert near the Tai Mahal, the 300-year-old monument that environmentalists say is decaying, reports

All proceeds from his two concerts, scheduled March 20 and March 21, will go toward conserving the Taj, PTI said.

"The Taj has withstood the sun, temperatures up to 45 Celsius (113 Fahrenheit) during summers. Any lighting at a distance of 300 metres (yards) for a couple of hours will hardly have any adverse impact on the Taj," Shashank Shekher, a senior adviser to the state government of Uttar Pradesh, told

The Archaeological Survey of India had objected to the planned performance, fearing that the lighting and noise

Car bomb blast kills 10 more in Algiers bomb exploded outside a progovernment vigilante meeting in a town south of the capital, killing 10 people and wounding 30 others, residents said Thurs-

The bombing Wednesday night in Boufarik appeared to be the latest attack by Muslim militants who launched a wave of terror during the holy month of Ramadan aimed at destabilizing the military-backed gov-

Government media, including the state-controlled radio and television, did not immediately report the attack, though the independent newspaper Liberte reported the bombing. putting the death toll at seven. Residents, speaking on condition of anonymity, said 10

Boufarik, 40 kms (25 miles) south of Algiers, has taken on symbolic importance for both sides in the five-year-old Muslim insurgency that has left stronghold for two years, Boufarik has in recent months driven out the insurgents with the help of "the Patriots," or government-armed "self-defence groups.

The groups' slogan is: "Terrorism started in Boufarik and will finish here, too" Leghari resign. He told a news conference late Wednesday that fair and Prospects for Imran's party in polls look uncertain polls. Khan has suddenly come out with a demand that

President Farooq Ahmed

impartial polls were "not possible" unless the president Khan accused Leghari, who sacked Benazir and dissolved the National Assembly on November 5, of striking a secret deal with Sharif to manipulate the polls in his favour. He did not announce a boycott, though kept the option open, and party officials said no decision had been taken yet to suspend the movement's election campaign "People have given us a big response, but what can we do if the president himself and the state machinery is arrayed against us," said one Movement for Justice candidate, speaking on condition of anonymity. A prominent commentator, Mujibur Rehman Shami, said many people saw Khan "Leading an under-19 team in Pakistan tanyahu had not committed himself to exchanging land for The comments came amid reports that Egypt, Europe and the United States were all exploring ways to restart negotiations between Israel and Syria.

which were suspended a year

Levy said Syria's Foreign Minister Farouk al-Sharaa recently affirmed to US President Bill

Clinton his nations' commit-said, "Please, I am ready to meet you at any time, in any place.

and together we shall prepare for a meeting of our leaders, of teams from the two sides, and we shall sit down and be worthy Addressing al-Sharaa, Levy ment to a strategy of peace.

Speaking to ambassadors.

reports AP.

peace.

the development ahead of the "He has lot of young people around him who can be good with the bat and ball but cannot vote as the voting age under the law is 21 and above," he added.

The Movement for Justice has put up around 150 candidates for the 217 seat National Assembly and about 300 for the approximately 450 provincial constituencies. Khan is nevertheless considered a man untainted by corruption charges and financial scandals, unlike Benazir and Sharif, though his playboy past is being exploited by opponents. His free-for-all cancer hospital, built in his hometown of Lahore with 10 million dollars in donations raised at home and abroad, gave a boast to his political career.

But his playboy past and marriage last year to Jemima. daughter of Anglo-French tycoon Sir James Goldsmith continues to set tongues wagging in conservative circles.

He is accused by opponents of using Jewish money.

Yanni's plan to hold concert

ISLAMABAD, Jan 23:

Former sporting hero Imran Khan is in the centre of the political limelight, but the look uncertain, reports AFP. Campaigning hard to carve out a future for the Movement for Justice he launched barely 10 months ago, the 44-year old playboy-turned-politician is pitted against two heavyweights in the February 3 polls.

Given his cricket record and youth support he will do well to win a foothold in the next parliament in a competition dominated by parties led by former prime ministers Nawaz Sharif and Benazir Bhutto.

administrative corruption. poverty and unemployment.

and has seen three elected governments sacked in eight years for graft and misrule.

But, in apparent disgust with His "justice for all" slogan is commentators said.

NEW DELHI, Jan 23: Indian officials had at first rejected the proposal, but Press Trust of India news agency reported Thursday they reconsidered af ter Yanni said he will use soft lights and agreed to move the concert 300 metres (yards) further from the white marble could dailiage the structure.

day, reports AP.

ernment.

were killed and 30 wounded.

more than 60,000 dead. Considered an Islamic Last Thursday, a car bomb in an open-air used car market in Boularik killed 12 people.

JERUSALEM, Jan 23: Forof the responsibility with which we are charged.

for resuming peace talks' eign Minister David Levy, saying Israel had been sending ap-Levy indirectly confirmed a report in the daily Haaretz that peals to Damascus via foreign an unnamed European foreign governments, made an emotional public plea Wednesday minister was trying to arrange a meeting between Levy and for Syria to rejoin peace talks. Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk al-Sharaa. It quoted But a Syrian government newspaper rejected the idea of diplomatic sources as saying Syria had sent positive signals renewed negotiations as long as Prime Minister Benjamin Ne-> via various emissaries. "Through a number of great statesmen, through your countries. I have passed on the message to Syria that Israel is interested in peace with Syria," he told the diplomats.

about restarting negotiations

"Syria is part of the circle of peace in this region." Syria has demanded that talks resume where they halted in February 1996 at Wye Plantation in Maryland. The previous Labour Party government, which lost elections to Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu last May, reportedly reached understand ings with Syria about a withdrawal from the Golan Heights. which Israel captured from Syria in the 1967 Mideast war.

Off the Record

Half kg salt to feel better!

HONG KONG: A physical education teacher in China has acquired a habit of eating at least half of a kilogram of salt a day to feel better, it was reported Thursday, reports AFP.

Xiang Zhaocheng, 51, of Magjiang county in southern China's Hunan province, would rather "have no meat for three day, than a day without salt," the Hong Kong branch of China News Service reported.

Xiang needed the salt so badly that he felt "weak and without appetite" without it, the report said.

It said Xiang always carried a bag of salt with him, and ate from it when he was thirsty or hungry.

He acquired the taste for sale in 1990 when he was hospitalised for acute appendicitis, and was healed by taking Chinese traditional medicines.

Doctors who examined Xiang recently were amazed to find he had not been physically affected by the large intake of salt. and he appeared younger than other people of his age, the report

The oldest stone tools ever found

LONDON: Stone tools dating back 2.5 million years are the oldest ever found, scientists reported on Wednesday, prompting a search for more evidence about the pre-humans who made them, reports Reuter.

The surprisingly sophisticated tools, found on the border between Ethiopia and Kenya, push back the frontier of the firstknown use of tools by pre-humans by 200,000 years. Sileshi Semaw of Rutgers University in New Jersey and colleagues say the tools are considerably older than others found in the region, which date back 2.3 million years. Reporting in the science journal Nature, they say the find indicates that early Hominis were settled in the region, industriously making tools for hundreds of thousands of years.

"These are the oldest stone tools ever found," Semaw said in a Thousands of the stones, which had been made into knives. axes and hammers by a tricky technique known as knapping,

'Peru won't rule out option of using force to end crisis'

President Alberto Fujimori said he would not rule out the possibility of using force to end the Lima hostage crisis. Japan's Kyodo news agency reported today, says Reuter.

"If some hostages are killed or injured, we might choose a different option," Kyodo quoted Fujimori as saying in an interview with Japanese reporters.

Marxist rebels stormed the Japanese ambassador's residence in Lima on December 17. taking more than 500 hostages and demanding the release of some 400 imprisoned comrades. Although the Tupac Amaru Revolutionary Movement (MRTA) rebels have released most hostages, they still hold 73 captives and negotiations for their freedom have stalled Fujimori told the Japanese reporters on Wednesday that he would not accept the rebels' main demand of freedom for the jailed comrades. Kyodo

TOKYO, Jan 23: Peruvian "A release of jailed MRTA members will pose a threat not only to Peru but also to foreign countries." Fujimori said. Fujimori said he would not agree to the rebels' demand that the Peruvian government pay them "war taxes." "We won't pay a penny," he was quoted as saying.

Putting aside the issue of the release of the jailed MRTA rebels. Fujimori said his government was ready to discuss a variety of other issues in a "flexible" manner in face-to-face talks with the rebels.

Fujimori said his government was considering having Parliament enact a special law to ensure the safe passage to a third country of the rebels, including their leader Nestor Cerpa Cartolini, holed up in the ambassador's Fujimori refused to say in which country the rebels could seek asylum, Kyodo said. But he added: "There are family members of Cerpa in France and Mexico.

residence.

A model presents this black see-through lace evening dress with embroidered flowers as part of Italian designer Valentino's 1997 Spring-Summer Haute Couture fashion - Reuter/UNB photo show. Wednesday.

US officials meet Serb student leaders

WASHINGTON, Jan 23: A top State Department official met Wednesday with four leaders of a student protest movement in Belgrade and said he was deeply concerned by reports that Serb authorities have begun to use force against demonstrators. reports AP.

Assistant Secretary of State John Kornblum told the students the only solution to the current crisis in Belgrade is for the Serbian government to honour the outcome of the November 17 municipal elec-

An account of Kornblum's meeting was given by State Department spokesman Nicholas Burns, who urged President Slobodan Milosevic to end his legal maneuvering." "Election results cannot be negotiated in the back rooms. Burns said. "Elections are not bargaining chips to enhance the political stature, or the political survivability, or the political advantage of the government in Belgrade. And the (OSCE) report is very clear and all Western countries are united on it. Election results must be respected."

documents within a week NEW DELHI, Jan 23: Indian detectives have set themselves a one-week deadline to decipher documents relating to a 1.3 billion dollar arms scandal that has dragged on for about a decade, reports AFP. The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) said 500 documents connected to an arms contract between India and Swedish firm Bofors would be presented to a court here on Friday or Monday. The papers, believed to shed light on millions of dollars in bribes allegedly paid by the company into Swiss Bank accounts held by Indian officials were handed over by Swiss authorities in Bern on Tuesday following seven years of legal wrangles. "Our director is returning (from Bern) on Friday and the same day we will hand over the papers to a court and we expect it to return the documents to us on that day itself or on Monday," a CBI spokesman said. "Within a week's time we hope to have all the answers ... and then we would proceed with

"We think it would not take us more than seven days to decode them. The Bofors scandal, which were found near Gona in Ethiopia.

CBI to detect Bofors scandal brought down former prime minister Rajiv Gandhi's government, followed the company signing a deal with India to supply 410 Howitzers in 1986. It was then the biggest military contract signed by the Indian government.

Allegations surfaced in 1987, however, that the firm had paid bribes of up to 50 million dollars to Indian politicians and officials through seven coded Swiss Bank accounts to secure the contract.

In all, the company was alleged to have paid 250 million dollars in bribes.

Gandhi, who was assassinated by a suicide bomber in 1991, was swept from office in 1989 following the scandal as the Indian opposition campaigned on an anti-corruption ticket.

The CBI, meanwhile, said today it would not invite Indian military experts to examine the secret papers.

When asked if the Defence Ministry was being kept away from the papers because of its suspected links to the scandal defence officials were suspected of having accepted bribes - the CBI spokesman answered: Exactly. The CBI alone will do it." The CBI first tried to obtain the details of the Swiss Bank accounts in February 1990. The Zurich authorities furnished bank documents later that year but a series of legal challenges from the bank account holders dragged out the affair until Switzerland's highest court threw out their appeals.

The Congress (I) Party. which was in power at the time of the scandal, is currently being wracked by a series of corruption charges.

Gandhi's successor, former premier PV Narasimha Rao, faces three corruption trials for bribery, vote-buying and forgery.

European newspapers have linked then Swedish premier Olof Palme's 1988 assassination to the Bofors deal.