NEW DELHI, Mar 3: Ministers and officials of 14 countries on the Indian Ocean rim meet in Mauritius this week to launch a regional trade forum, bringing together nations that were Cold War rivals, reports

The Indian Ocean Rim Initiative has taken more than two years of intense diplomatic wrangling over defining everything from a rim nation and to the character of the organiza-

"What the group won't do has already been decided. Members will keep away from issues related to security and human rights. A report at a preparatory meeting of officials in 1995 called for staying away from "issues likely to generate controversy and be an impediment to regional cooperation efforts. "There are a whole variety of contentious issues. If you bring in human rights, it will not move forward," says Jakkie Cilliers, an international relations expert at the private Institute for Security Studies in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Australia wanted to discuss security issues, which might have included working to police sea trade routes. But for India, that meant allowing a country that it considers part of the Western alliance access to its military secrets.

"We cannot have Australian ships guarding an area where our submarines are exercising. said Rahul Roy-Choudhury of New Delhi's Institute for Defense Studies and Analyses, a government-funded think tank.

Nations also differed over membership. India did not want rival Pakistan to be a member and others did not want membership to stretch to Iran Nations like Australia, however, have called for the forum to include all countries that have a land route to the Indian Ocean or a subsidiary water body.

in Bangladesh rises

Palm oil consumption

The consumption of Malaysian palm oil in Bangladesh has registered a sharp rise over the previous year.

Disclosing this at press conference in the city Sunday on the eve of a week-long campaign for palm oil, Tansri Dato Dr Mohd Yusof Hashim, Chief Executive of Malaysian Palm Oil Promotion Council, said although palm oil import in Bangladesh was much lower than that of India and Pakistan but it showed a remarkable increase last year.

He said according to available statistics more than 1.14 lakh tones of edible palm oil was imported by Bangladesh last year whereas only 20 thousand tones were imported previous year. The main cause of decline in consumption of palm oil in 1995 was attributed to the serious production shortfall in the home country. Due to supply shortfall, the prices of palm oil-went up and the total market was captured by soybean oil, Yusof Hashim told newsmen.

Dr N Chandra Shekharan, a consultant of the council, and AKM Fakhrul Alam, Bangladesh country representative, were also present.

Explaining various advantages in consumption of palm oil, he said this cholesterol-free vegetable oil contained rich Vitamin E.

During the week-long campaign, a number of seminar and symposium will be held where papers will be presented featuring advantages of the use of palm oil in cooking and making different tasty food items. The programme also includes video presentation and cooking competition among the housewives.

ICC to hold congress in Shanghai in Apr

The International Chamber of Commerce is holding its world congress in Shanghai from April 8-10.

The ICC, the world's leading business organisation, convenes this high-profile event every three years. The Shanghai Congress will bring together over 300 top executives of major companies from all over the world and the Chinese leadership, and offers a unique opportunity to gain insights into political and economic prospects for the Asian region, especially now that the post-Deng era is beginning and only a tew months before Hong Kong reverts to China, says a press re-

The Shanghai Congress, on the theme "Asia in the Global Economy" will explore the following key issues: What is the strategic thinking of Asian entrepreneurs, and how do they view business alliances with companies outside the region? BSB conference Recovery of loan from defaulters urged

A day-long conference of the senior officers of head office and zonal and branch heads of Bangladesh Shilpa Bank (BSB) on "Loan Recovery" was held in the city on Sunday, says a BSB press release.

Dr Jamilur Reza Chowdhury. Chairman, BSB's Board of Directors, and an adviser, former caretaker government formally inaugurated the conference while it was presided over by Shamsuzzaman Choudhury, Managing Director of the Bank.

Dr J R Chowdhury in his speech underscored the role of the BSB in the socio-economic development of the country. In order to achieve its objectives, he stressed recovery of lone from the defaulters

He dwelt at length various decisions taken by the Board of Directors of the bank for recovery of overdues. In this connection he mentioned setting up of a "Recovery Task Force" under direct supervision of the Managing Director for recovery from defaulters including top ten.

In recent times, the most talked about subject in Bangladesh has been the stock market. Never in the history of Bangladesh so much was swin dled from so many by so few in such a short period of time!

From mid-September to mid-November 1996, trading in Dhaka Stock Market (DSE) took an unprecedented and extremely abnormal leap forward — the price hike was beyond the wildest imagination and defied all canons, norms and relevant circumstances of share valua-

Cash Flow, Price Earning Net Asset Value (Historical or Revalued), special events like striking an oil field or gold mine, massive investments in future projects, merger or amalgamation, introduction of new products etc. It has been alleged that the artificial price-hike was stagemanaged by a handful of brokers who indulged in FAKE bulk trading of shares through the mechanism of DVP (Delivery Versus Payment) system. Out of the record turnover of over Taka 700 crore in October 1996, only 5 brokers handled Taka 200 crore and that also mostly through nonexecuted DVPs. This artificial price increase gave wrong signals to the ordinary public and lured them into frenzy investments (in most cases selling their valuables) and the manipulators made fortunes by off value or much cheaper price. I have summarised the monthly turnover (value) of sponsible or it was done in con-DSE in Table A and the Month-End quoted price of a few selected stock in Table 'B' - at-The statistical figures shown in tables A & B are indicative of the highly volatile situation of the stock market. The turnover of Taka 121 crore in June 1996 zoomed to Taka 806 crore (6.7 times) in November, 1996; price index of all shares as on 5th November, 1996 increased to 3,648 (4 times) from 959 of 30th June 1996; and the market capitalisation at the end of November 1996 jumped to Taka 21,278 (3 times) compared to Taka 6,773 at the end of June, 1996.

stocks held by them at face

The market price of shares of a number of companies increased abnormally - in many cases by 10 (ten) times or more. I have already commented that this unnatural and unprecedented boom in all the statistical indicators of DSE was not justified by the economic activities and other relevant circumstances of the companies concerned. Therefore, the apprehension of market manipulation cannot be ruled out. The questions which instantly came to my mind. Were the brokers solely re-nivance with the sponsor owner of the listed companies? Were the traded shares a part of the legally issued capitalof the company or just represented printed sheets of paper (may be regularised later by backdated — Issue and Return of Allotment of Shares)? Did actual delivery of shares and payments happen within [4] days excluding the transaction date) or did not happen at all?

Who were the real buyers and sellers- ordinary investors, sponsor- owner (unloading their cheap priced shares after creating artificial price hike), broker- dealer (unloading.... price hike)?

In the cases of executed DVPs are there any evidence of subsequent payments through which the stage managed profit/loss were neutralised between the buyer and seller?

Were the records of Brokers and Banks providing Custodian services to Foreign Portfolio

Fund thoroughly investigated?

DVP system of bulk trading was introduced in the interest of

It has been gathered that

By Z U Ahmed stock market and benefit of the investors during the later part of 1993.

The allegation is that few brokers and few companies connived together, sky-rocketed the share prices through the game of bulk trading (mostly non-executed), misled the inexperienced ordinary people into a gambling spree and led to a boom in the unofficial or kerb market.

Bulk Trading ultimately ended up in transactions on the kerb market. In between DVP and Kerb Outlets, the shares changed hands on the floor of DSE with market premiums.

Dhaka Stock Exchange The most heated period was

September and October 1996. Stock market was not only bullish — it went crazy — share prices soared to the sky without any rhyme or reason. Bulk trading by few brokers and broker dealers, shares of few listed companies triggered the biggest surge which gave manipulated and distorted price signals to the ordinary investing public with a view to make casino-type windfall profit.

In any other country, such sharp price increase without any valid reason would have resulted in temporary suspension of trading of the relevant share by the Stock Exchange itself — did not take any action in the shape of suspension of trading or investigation into the phenomenal increase in the volume and prices of bulk trading under DVP system on the lame excuse of non-receipt of any complaint. What else could one expect when, the DSE members are now allowed simultaneously to be an office bearer of the exchange, policy-makers, brokers on the floor, dealers (on own account) on the floor, directors of listed companies? It is a situation like running with the hare and hunting with the hounds!!

DSE Chairman has been quoted in the press as saying DVP deals should not be construed as price-setters or manipulation — but admitted that DVP can give scope for manoeuvring in the stock market. Oh dear me, what a wonderful argument! Let us get the thing straight - manoeuvring with an intention to make abnormal profit (profiteering) at the cost of the innocent gullible public is pure and simple fraudulent manipulation and nothing else.

Securities and Exchange Commission

Both DSE and SEC are Self-But the authority of the DSE Regulatory Organisation (SRO). In a constantly changing stock market it would be unwise to draw a rigid line between the Government and the SROs. Best would be frequent dialogue and consultation between them and to take appropriate actions timely as the problems arise.

At a meeting organised by FBCCI, the Finance Minister reportedly claimed that SEC would be reorganised, new people would be employed at the policy level, allegations of price manipulation and insider trading would be probed

To-date what we see are that (1) a non-judicial enquiry committee has been formed (commented upon in the later paragraphs) (2) two professional members of SEC have been removed without bringing and proving specific charges against them, and (3) two new members have been appointed - an ex member of NBR and an exmanaging director of a bank.

One can hardly find any consistency between the declared intention of the Government to re-structure the SEC with a view to improve its efficiency and their choice in the placements of two top vital posts at the policy making level. To say the least, the unfortunate problem of Bangladesh appears to be placing the right people at the wrong

Outgoing

It has been alleged in the press that two professional members of SEC were made scapegoats for the stock market fiasco - inability of SEC and DSE to probe into highly unrealistic price-hike, collusive bulk trading through DVPs and take timely action. Stock prices were manipulated in the case of secondary issues (not first issue or IPOs) where the members of stock exchanges are the only players - where the two SEC members had absolutely no influence. Again, if SEC is to be blamed for its failure to protect the interest of the small investors, then why only the two members should be removed? What about the overall responsibility of the Chairman who is the Chief Executive Officer of the SEC and a top bureaucrat? It is a poor reflection on the bureaucratic administrative system of the country. Should we always remain a nation of mediocresunable to admit our responsi bility and set example by voluntarily resigning? The only precedent I remember was that of Zahir Uddin Khan, an ex-BNP minister.
