Rajshahi College female students facing accommodation problem

From Our Correspondent

A first year student, with the help of their relatives or party-people get allocation in the mass-rooms of lower class category. When promoted to second year, she gets the chance to live in other mass-room which is considerably a better one. In these rooms there are larger beds where more than seven girls sleep.

Only in the third year class the senior students get allocation of seat in small rooms containing 2-4 beds, but they have also to accommodate two to three students in a bed.

The accommodation crisis has aggravated more this year after opening the Masters degree in the college.

While narrating their immense sufferings, some girls said that they had to sleep on tables and even on the verandahs. Sometimes they divide themselves in groups and go to bed by turn in group. When one group sleeps, then another group reads or gossips outside the room.

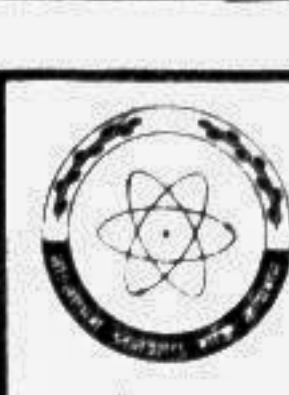

Another major problem is the crisis of water. There are only two pump machines to lift water, out of which one is old enough and often goes out of order.

The students said that the quality of meal is on average standard.

The hostel has no guest room. When guests come to visit them, the students have to go out. Hundreds of girls and boys of different age are seen talking or gossiping in the afternoon in front of the hostel gate on the foot-path of Rajshahi-Chapainawabganj highway.

The authorities and the girls openly said that the safety measures of the hostel are satisfactory. But sources willing to be unnamed allege that a few terrorists most of whom belong to student organisations, use the hostel as a shelter when needed. There are also some allegations of unsocial activities done by the terrorists.

Some girls allege that most student organisations force them to support them and threaten them of doing harms if they refuse to comply. In fear of safety and prestige they cannot inform the authorities concerned about their problem, they said.

Potato growers deprived

From Our Correspondent

CHANDPUR, Mar 14: The potato growers of Chandpur district have been deprived of fair price of their products during the current season due to shortage of storage facilities.

This year there was a bumper production of potato throughout the district.

According to Agriculture Extension Office sources, about 40 thousand hectares of land have been brought under potato cultivation this year in the district. The target of production exceeded more than 60 thousand metric tons of potato.

Meanwhile, the farmers have started collecting potato from the field. Due to abundant supply of potato in different markets, the price of potato have come down.

Potato now being sold at Tk 2.50 per kg. The price is much less than the production cost. It is alleged by the farmers.

In the absence of adequate space in cold storages, most of the growers are not in a position to store potato for selling in future to get higher price. They need money to repay their loan and other expenses. The poor growers are compelled to take loan against advance sale of their products.

There are four cold storages in the district for the preservation of potatoes. The middlemen booked these cold storages in advance. The poor and marginal growers find it difficult to preserve their potatoes. The middlemen are now buying potatoes in bulk and storing these in the cold storages. They sell potatoes in the lean period and get windfall profit, while the poor growers who toil hard to produce the crops suffer much and get a nominal price of their produce.

It is alleged that more than 10 thousand metric tons of potatoes are likely to be perished due to shortage of cold storage in the district.
