'Establishment of viable political system suggested'

Speakers at a roundtable discussion in the city yesterday felt the necessity of an accountable and transparent bureaucracy with neutral ideas and views to serve the people in the way of implementing government policies for national causes, reports BSS.

In this context, they suggested establishment of a viable and conducive political atmosphere to ensure that the bureaucracy was working with full sincerity and devotion for national progress, and not as lackeys of any party or lobby.
The roundtable discussion on "functions and functioning of the bureaucracy" was organised by Bangladesh Unnayan Parishad (BUP), an independent thinktank for research and development, in its auditorium.

Former bureaucrats and diplomats, educationists, journalists and economists of the country took part in the discussion which was moderated by BUP chairman and a leading economist of the country Dr.

Qazi Kholiquzzaman Ahmad. Dr Ahmad, in his introductory remarks, pointed to the great responsibility the bureaucracy had towards national progress and said practice of democracy in real term would help all institutions, including bureaucracy to work sincerely to fulfil the hopes and aspirations of the people.

Dr Mahabbat Khan of Dhaka University described bureaucracy as an unescapable reality which needed political neutrality first to work without any inclination towards any particular quarter but for the national prosperity.

Former foreign secretary Fakhruddin Ahmed said the political institutions and political environment were still weak and observed that a viable bureaucracy could not be developed without a sound political atmosphere in the country.

Former secretary and minister AMA Muhit called for downsizing the bureaucracy and activating the local government institutions with adequate democratic power upto the rural level.

Former secretary Kamaluddin Choudhury suggested establishment of a framework so that corrupt bureaucrats could be weeded out.

Hasanul Huq Inu of JSD said, the overall situation in the country was telling all of us that both politicians and bureaucrats had failed to uphold the hopes and aspirations of the people.

Journalist Abed Khan said, a bureaucrat is safe within the system he is working but a minister and a politician is accountable to the people and goes to jail.
