Journalists should report objectively, says President
The Overseas Correspondents Association of Bangladesh (OCAB) yesterday appealed to President Justice Shahabuddin Ahmed for his personal initiative to bring the government and the opposition close to each other, reports UNB.
President Shahabuddin said journalists should report objectively keeping national interest above anything else.
"Journalists, writers and opinion leaders should guide the people towards building a society based on justice and democratic values," he told the OCAB delegation.
An OCAB delegation, during a courtesy call on the President at Bangabhaban, made the appeal in order to end the government-opposition standoff.
The journalists pointed out country's various pressing problems requiring immediate solution.
The OCAB members appreciated the President for his candid comments and remarks on different national issues including violence and terrorism in educational institutions resulting from student's alignment with different political parties.
They apprised the President that about seventy OCAB members of the country were representing almost all the important print and electronic media of the world.
The overseas correspondents also noted with satisfaction that they were enjoying full freedom in their profession.
They said they are pledged-bound to project Bangladesh abroad in its positive aspects, specially the continuous efforts of the people for achieving economic self-sufficiency.
Led by president of the association Zahiduzzaman Faruque, the delegation members included Farid Hossain, Enamul Huq Chowdhury, Muklesur Rahman Chowdhury, Zafar A Chowdhury, Ataur Rahman, Shafiqul Karim and Kamrul Huda Khandker.
