Lone mango research centre still faltering

From N S M Mahbubur Rahman

The growth of the Chapainawabganj mango research centre is so poor that it could not go out beyond its primary stage of research till now since its establishment more than a decade ago.

CHAPAINAWABGANJ, May 7: The lone mango research centre of the country could not vield fruitful results even after lapse of 12 years of its establishment here in 1985.

Infrastructural flaws including lack of a full-fledged, modern, well equipped laboratory and manpower shortage have attributed to the failure of fulfilling the aims and objectives of establishing such a specialised laboratory. The growth of the research centre is so poor that it could not go out beyond its primary stage of research fill now since its establishment more than a decade ago. According to the concerned sources, the research of mango has been going on here in only two phases out of six phases. As a result, the expected rate of advancement could not be

The research centre was established for identifying the problems in the production of mango, finding out ways to increase its production, nourishing, its species, improving its quality, training and providing developed technology for the production of mango. But the laboratory works only nourishing and improving the species.

According to some scientists who have specialised in mango research works, they cannot go on with their research works rapidly due to lack of proper facilities of a developed laboratory. Besides, the research centre lacks sufficient research workers as it is not a full-fledged research centre, one of the scientists informed this corespondent. Consequently, the chance of promotion of the Scientific Officers is very poor. The officers working here reportedly possess various grievances due to disparity.

A full-fledged research centre like the one in Chapainawabganj needs a Chief Scientific Officer at least three Senior Scientific Officers, 15 Scientific Officers and a director for each phase or department. But there is only one Chief Scientific Officer for performing activities of the said two phases. It is to be noted that for the establishment of a full-fledged research centre, Chapainawabganj Mango Research Centre has demanded garden at Kansat under Shibgonj thana. It is learnt that the proposal is under consideration in the concerned ministry. For the sake of proper research of mango, a very prospective fruit, the process should be quick, viewed conscious people of the district.

It is to be noted that quality mango of a number of species like, Gopalbhog, Langra, Fajli, Khersapat and a few other types of mangoes are abundantly grown in the greater Rajshahi region. Chapainawabganj being on the top of the list in terms of its production (commercial) capacity. There are estimated thousands of mango gardens which contributes over 90 per cent of the total country's mango output. It is said, this year a bumper mango output is expected from the region.

Sweepers' work abstention makes life miserable at RU

From RU Correspondent RAJSHAHI, May 7: Life of the residential students of Rajshahi University has become unbearable as almost all sweepers and garbage cleaners of Utility Service are abstaining from their works since last 10 days due to strike enforced by Islami Chattra Shibir (ICS) protesting the newly introduced admission system.

Garbage have been piled up in halls' corridors emitting bad odour. Most of the dining halls remained closed due to frequent loadshedding and continued hot spell also added a lot to the misery.

Meanwhile, administrative works of the university remained at a standstill for the 10th day on Tuesday. Only a few offices of the administrative building were open, while all offices of the residential halls and academic building remained closed. The central library was also closed. University busses are not plying since April 26 last.

Monthly salaries of the university officials were given from the Shahebbzar branch of Agrani Bank in the city instead of the university branch.
