Death anniversary of Nasiruddin observed

The third death anniversary of eminent literature and editor Mohammad Nasiruddin was observed in the city yesterday through various programmes, reports BSS.

The day's programmes included offering of ziarat at the grave of the deceased in the morning and feeding of the destitutes at the residence of Mohammad Nasiruddin at 38, Sarat Gupta Road in the old city.

A milad mahfil was also held at his residence where friends, relatives and admirers of the late literature attended. Mohammad Nasiruddin died at the age of 105 on this day in 1994. Sawgat, the literary magazine he edited, was the major mouthpiece of free thinking where most of the major writers of that age contributed.

Deadline for UNCA Prize '97 Aug 31

The deadline for UN Correspondents Association's third annual prize for best media coverage of the United Nations and its agencies is August 31, 1997. The prize will be given at UNCA's annual dinner at the UN in October and the costs of the prize winner's trip to New York will be met by the Association if necessary, says a press release.

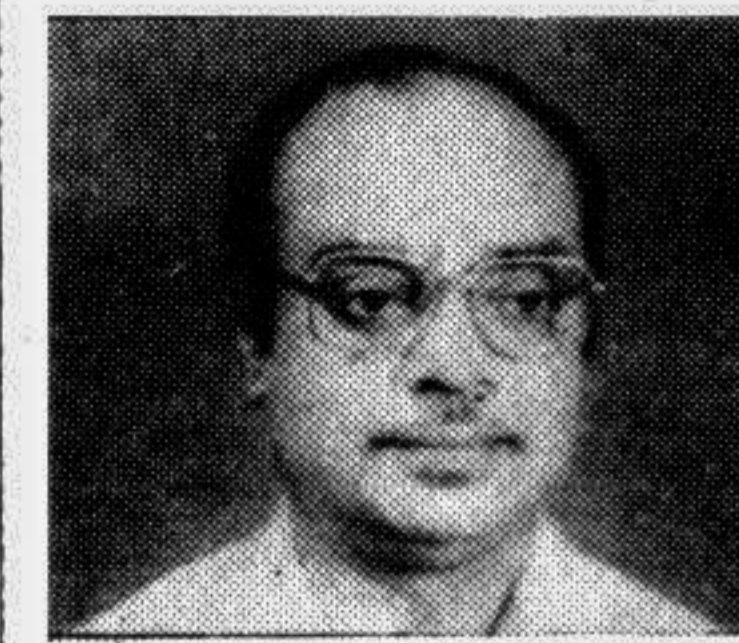

The award is open to all journalists anywhere in the world, in any media, for the best story, programme, or series covering the UN and its agencies. The judges will be looking for entries with impact, insight and originality, and will take into account the courage and assiduity of the journalist. Investigative work will be welcome. Work published between July of 1996 and the end of July 1997 is eligible. Multiple or joint entries will be accepted.

Entries not in one of the official languages of the UN should preferably have a translation in English or French, and video entries should be in VHS (preferably NSTC) format.

The first prize is US dollars 1000. Other prizes may be awarded at the discretion of the judges, the release added.

Entrants should send two copies each of their entry or entries to: 1997 Award/The President/UNCA/UN Building/New York/NY 10017.

An UNCA Committee will pick the shortlist, except for entries from UNCA members, which will be referred to outside arbiters.
