MARY PIERCE

caro, Michael Chang and Sergi Bruguera all raced to easy wins, while 16-year-old world number-one Martina Hingis slapped down the challenge of 15-year-old Russian Anna Kournikova for the loss of just four games.

Mary Pierce got out of her sick bed to defeat French compatriot Sandra Testud and twelfth-seeded American Mary Joe Fernandez, who has yet to drop a set at the tournament, saw off Italy's Flora Pericoli. Australians Mark Woodforde and Patrick Rafter were both impressive winners against seeded players and they reached a fourth-round showdown which ensures that Australia will have a player in the men's quarterfinals for the first time in fifteen years.

Woodforde put out eleventh-seeded Albert Costa of Spain and Rafter defeated Wimbledon champion Richard Krajicek. Krajicek, furious after his four-set loss to Patrick Rafter, stalked off court and out of the stadium refusing to attend a post-match press conference — a decision which will cost him a 2,000-dollar fine.

The moody seventh-seeded Marcelo Rios of Chile continued to progress by putting out Arnaud Boetsch — the last French man in the men's draw — and now plays 23-year-old Hicham Arazi of Morocco.

The 5ft 9in Arazi outplayed Sweden's 6ft 4in Magnus Larsson in straight sets. Elsewhere big-serving 14th seed Brenda Schultz-McCarthy of the Netherlands, less comfortable on clay than on a faster surface, went down 7-6 (7/2), 6-4 to 1988 finalist Natasha Zvereva of Belarus. South Africa's 13th seed Wayne Ferreira had to withdraw after injuring his ankle while training for third-round match against 1992 runner-up Petr Korda of the Czech Republic.

On a sixth day of fierce sunshine, but with a swirling wind making conditions far from easy, Hingis stretched her un-

PARIS, June 1: South Africa's battling Amanda Coetzer reached the quarterfinals of the women's singles at the French Open here today when she upset Spain's seventh-seeded Conchita Martinez 6-7 (4/7), 6-4, 6-3, reports AFP.

The eleventh-seeded Coetzer came through a gruelling 2 hrs 44mins baseline duel on the Roland Garros Suzanne Lenglen Showcourt which was constantly swept by blustery winds.

Coetzer, 25, who had never got past the fourth-round in eight previous appearances and who had lost all ten of her last encounters with the Spaniard, now plays either defending champion Steffi Graf or 13th seed Irina Spirlea of Romania.

beaten record this season to 34 matches by ruthlessly defeating Kournikova 6-1, 6-3 in 43-minutes of mostly one-way traffic.

Sanchez-Vicario, a winner in 1989 and 1994, was in no mood to distribute any birthday gifts to Belgian's Dominique Van Roost who was celebrating her 24th birthday.

The sixth-seeded needed just 57 minutes to chalk up a 6-0, 6-3 win.

Seles was in even more of a hurry — finishing six minutes faster to eliminate experienced Nathalie Tauziat of France.

Tauziat, who defeated the 16-year-old Venus Williams in a three-set marathon on Thursday, won only two games against the 1990, 1991 and 1992 champion.

"I think Nathalie was making more unforced errors than she usually does," said Seles diplomatically after the win.

The one thing I was doing very well today was returning. But my serve was terrible. The wind was bugging me. I had a very hard time with my toss."

Seles now faces tenth-seed Mary Pierce who beat the American left-hander at the Italian Open when they last met.

Pierce, the 1994 finalist here, had been a doubtful starter on Saturday after spending 24 hours in bed on doctor's orders. But she came through 6-1, 6-3 against French Fed Cup teammate Testud.

Second-seeded Michael Chang, who won here as a 17-year-old in 1989, hardly worked up a sweat to reach the last-sixteen.

His French opponent

Stephane Simian retired with a groin strain with Chang leading 6-1, 5-2.

Bruguera, the 1993 and 1994 men's title-winner, imitated Sanchez-Vicario by also humiliating a Belgian opponent — towering Dick Norman. The sixteenth-seed, who is slowly coming back to form after his poor season last year, beat the towering 6ft 8in Norman 6-3, 6-

MICHAEL CHANG

1, 6-3. The victories of Woodforde and Rafter mean that there are three Australians in the fourth round — the other being the big serving Mark Philippoussis who beat Dutchman Jan Siemerink on Friday.

The last time an Australian player reached the quarterfinals here was Peter McNamara in 1982.

Rafter delighted the crowds, basking in fierce sunshine on the Suzanne Lenglen Showcourt, with some superbly aggressive 'serve-and-volley' tennis and admitted afterwards: "I didn't miss a volley."

Certainly his 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 win did little to calm an increasingly frustrated Krajicek who by the end was clearly impatient to get out of the stadium and head for a grass court to put his own big-serving game back on track.

It was a welcome change of fortune for the Queenslander-born Rafter, who was beaten in the first-round in his last two appearances here.

Woodforde, the world's best doubles player when he is alongside Todd Woodbridge, showed he was no mean singles player by shocking 11th-seed Albert Costa of Spain.

The left-hander from Adelaide constantly wrong-footed the Spanish clay-courtier and romped home 6-4, 7-6 (7/2), 6-3.

The 20-year-old Galo Blanco of Spain ended the run of American Chris Woodruff, 19g player, who ended Andre Agassi's tournament here in the second-round in 1996.

Blanco scored a 7-6 (8/6), 6-3, 7-6 (7/2) win.

Pakistan win hockey series

MELBOURNE, June 1: World Cup champions Pakistan, playing one man down for the second-half, defeated Australia to win their six-match field hockey international series on goal aggregate here today, reports AFP.

The Pakistanis, showing admirable resolve, fought back from 1-0 down at halftime and the loss of Danish Kaleem, dismissed for misconduct five minutes before the changeover, to beat Australia 3-1 in the sixth and final match of the series.

That left the series tied at three matches all, but Pakistan claimed the series on goals scored throughout the six matches, 12-11.

Ineffect, Rahim Khan's 63rd minute score in Sunday's game gave Pakistan the series.

Matthew Smith gave Australia the lead in the 32nd minute, but Pakistan roared home, scoring three times in the second half — Muhammad Khalid (in) in the 38th minute, Kamran Ashraf in the 43rd minute and Rahim Khan seven minutes from full-time.

Pakistan won the opening match of the series 3-2 in Perth on May 21 before Australia won back-to-back games 3-2 and 2-1 in Adelaide last weekend.

The Pakistanis levelled the series with a 3-2 victory in Sydney last Wednesday, before Australia pulled ahead after another close tussle 3-2 in Canberra Saturday.

Pakistan will be returning to Adelaide in October for the six-nation Champions Trophy tournament, which also features Atlanta Olympic champions from the Netherlands, as well as Spain, Germany, South Korea and Australia.

Before then Australia will be competing in the Panasonic Cup in Hamburg from August 21-24 and in three-match series against England between August 25-31.

Jorginho gem keeps Kashima on the top

TOKYO, June 1: Brazilian striker Jorginho scored a 25-meter (80 ft) free kick nine minutes from time on Saturday to give the Bellmare Antlers a 2-1 win over Kashima Hiratsuka, keeping his team on the top of Japan's J league, reports Reuter.

Kashima enter a month-long break in the J-league with a comfortable four-point lead over second-place Yokohama Flügels.

The Flügels suffered a 1-0 upset home defeat by Kyoto despite dominating most of the game.

Kobe, a newcomer to the league this season, defeated the Yokohama Mariners 2-1.

Brazilian Jamelli scored twice before half-time to lift Kashima to a 4-1 home victory over Gamba Osaka. Kashima is now third behind the Flügels on goal difference.

In other matches, Nagoya edged Ichihara 3-2 for its fifth win in a row after losing the opening six. Hiroshima blanked Fukuoka 1-0 and Shimizu scored a 2-1 victory against Cerezo Osaka in 273 minutes.

League action will be suspended until July 2 because of the Kirin Cup and the second leg of the Asian zone World Cup first round qualifying tournament.

Moeller may miss WC qualifier

BONN, June 1: Germany's midfielder Andreas Moeller is doubtful for their Group 9 European World Cup qualifier in Ukraine on June 7, reports AFP.

Moeller, who masterminded Borussia Dortmund's European Cup final win over Juventus on Wednesday, has hurt his knee.

PWD yet to acquire land for stadium

By Staff Correspondent

The Public Works Department (PWD) is yet to gain possession of land needed for the proposed cricket stadium at Maghbazar in the city, sources said.

Most of the 17.44 acres (52.84 bighas) of land on the proposed site belongs to the Road and Highways Department and Bangladesh Railway, while 3.44 acres (10.42 bighas) is privately owned.

An inter-departmental meeting held on Monday decided that all departments concerned would play their respective roles in expediting the land transfer process. The Dhaka District Commissioner was instructed to serve notice on the private land owners, ordering them to relinquish their properties.

The meeting was jointly convened by the PWD and the Works Ministry. It was attended by representatives of the Land Ministry, District Administration, Bangladesh Railway, Sports Ministry and the Road and Highways Department.

A PWD source said by the time the next meeting was held, on June 10, the land transfer procedure would be complete. "At the June 10 meeting, we expect to clearly define the shape of the project's first phase," he said.

In a letter issued by the Prime Minister's Secretariat last month, the PWD was given the overall responsibility of constructing the stadium. Its ultimate capacity will only be determined after completion of the project's first phase, preparing the playing field itself.

In the first phase, which will take around nine months and cost an estimated Tk nine crore excluding the land price, the department must conduct land-fill to elevate the whole site — currently lying on low ground — by 18.46 feet, PWD sources said.

One source said plans for construction of the outer stadium would be considered once work on the field was underway. He said, "Later we will think of building the actual stadium in line with any other international venue". He added that the total cost and capacity of the stadium would be determined once the project proposal for the second phase was completed.

The whole procedure of land transfer could take months. To avoid further delay PWD officials said the land might be handed over to them pending official procedures. "This won't be very difficult since most of the property is owned by government departments. For the private owners we can always find a reasonable solution," a PWD official said.

He said if the private land owners were willing to negotiate for fair compensation the handover would not take long, but if they took the matter to court the procedure could be prolonged.

When asked to elaborate on the project's first phase, the official said that after turling the field they would immediately fence it off and make all arrangements necessary for practice to start.

Meanwhile, the PWD had already completed a topographical survey of the site.

One year apart, but a world of difference

PARIS, June 1 (AP) — What a difference a year can make. It looked like the finals of a juniors tournament Saturday when two teenagers, 16-year-old Martina Hingis and 15-year-old Anna Kournikova, took Centre Court.

But this was the third round of the French Open, and when Hingis had finished dismantling her erstwhile junior rival, 6-1, 6-3, it was clear just how wide the gap is between the two.

For the top-ranked Hingis, as for several other top seeds, it was a day of calm after the storm.

Just a day earlier, havoc reigned at Roland Garros, with three favourites — including No. 1 Pete Sampras — knocked out of the draw. But on Saturday, a few top players barely had to break a sweat.

The marquee match of the day was definitely between Hingis and Kournikova. The two know each other well, having battled twice in the juniors. Kournikova lost both of those matches — one, in the 1994 US Open juniors, by 6-0, 6-0.

But as the blonde, braided Russian had said, that was the juniors, and that was a long time ago — especially when you're 15. Expectations were higher for this match.

They didn't last long. The first set took 17 minutes, as Hingis broke her opponent twice. Both players hit hard, deep groundstrokes and went for the corners. But it was Hingis who was more consistent.

She also played smarter, wrong-footing her opponent and using the occasional well-placed drop shot.

In the second set, Kournikova played a little better. She broke Hingis late in the set for 3-5, but Hingis broke right back, and won the match on a netted Kournikova backhand. The whole thing took 42 minutes.

It was quite a contrast with Hingis' previous match, in which she barely survived a challenge from the world's 75th-ranked player, Gloria Pizzichini of Italy.

Hingis had 43 unforced errors in that earlier match — 20 in the second set alone. In Saturday's whole match, she had 13.

"I said I was going to be harder to beat every day," Hingis said later. "I needed that match two days ago."

that she thinks it hurts her. "I have much more pressure on me because I cannot play as much as I want, learn, get experience the way Martina can," said Kournikova, who lives and trains in Florida.

Hingis wasn't extremely sympathetic. "You have enough time to practice and then play well.... She has to try sometimes to beat the top players so she can get further," the Swiss star said.

"If you're good enough, you can beat them."

Hingis also made clear — if anyone was wondering — that despite her age, she isn't shy about asserting her position at the top of the tennis world.

Asked why she had requested that her match be shifted from 11 am to a later slot, she replied, "I'm not a very good morning person. I mean, I'm No. 1 in the world, so I should have the right if I'm going to play on Centre Court, to say what time I want play."

Despite going into new territory for the event, Gebrselassie left the Fanny Blankers Koen Stadium without a cent for his efforts.

A one million dollar cheque was on offer if any runner in the race, built up as a head-to-head clash between Gebrselassie and Nouredine Morceli of Algeria, broke the eight-minute barrier.

Hayden hits double ton

LONDON, June 1: Australian opener Matthew Hayden piled up a career-best 235 not out to spearhead a fight-back by his adopted English county Hampshire on Saturday, reports Reuter.

Hayden, 81, got out overnight, battered through the third-day of the four-day championship match against Warwickshire at Southampton to beat his previous best of 234 for Queensland against Tasmania in the Sheffield Shield.

Hampshire, facing a massive Warwickshire first innings score of 631 for seven declared, were 549 for six at the close.

Hayden, who has batted for 550 minutes and received 414 balls, striking 29 fours and two sixes, figures in two double century stands.

Will Kendall (76) helped Hayden add 206 for the fourth wicket and off-spinner Shaun Udal shared an unbroken seventh wicket partnership of 205 in 45 overs with the Australian.

Udal played the dominant role, hitting a six and 19 fours in his maiden century and ending the day with an unbeaten 117.

All-rounder Mark Ealham, expected to join Sunday in the England squad for the first Test against Australia at Edgbaston next week, displayed impressive form as Kent beat Nottinghamshire inside three days at Trent Bridge.

Ealham hit a career-best 122, then held three catches as the home side, second in the county championship table at the start of the match, were skittled out for 119 to lose by an innings and 105 runs.

Lancashire's England captain Mike Atherton hit a timely century ahead of the Ashes series in a high-scoring match against champions Leicestershire at Leicester.

Opener Atherton faced 202 balls and hit 13 fours in making exactly 100 not out as Lancashire, trailing by 95 in first innings, ended the third day on 279 for two.

Yorkshire narrowly failed to beat the clock and become the second side to win with a day to spare, against Essex at Ilford.

Despite claiming an extra half-hour, Yorkshire still needed six more runs with two wickets left to achieve their victory target of 276.

Yorkshire, fired by a fine 81 in 109 balls from Australian Darren Lehmann, reached 229 for three before off-spinner Peter Such checked their charge by taking five for 89. They were 270 for eight at the close.

Walsh stays in the saddle

GEORGETOWN, Guyana, June 1: Courtney Walsh has been retained to captain West Indies against Sri Lanka on their short tour of the Caribbean starting next week, reports Reuter.

Walsh, who became skipper after the World Cup last year when Richie Richardson retired from international cricket, is in charge for the two Tests and one limited overs match against Sri Lanka.

West Indies' squad for the one-day international in Port of Spain, Trinidad, next Friday is to be named on Monday.
