

Arranged, early marriages still the norm, study shows

Traditional practice of early marriage still prevails in the country while choice of spouse depends on the parents or guardians, reports UNB.

A recent study revealed 80 per cent of women were married to their parents' or guardians' choice, while only 12 per cent to the person of their own choice and 8 per cent to their own choice with parents' or guardians' consent.

On the other hand, 34 per cent of men said they were married to the person of their own choice whereas in 55 per cent of cases the partner selection was made by their parents or guardians.

The remaining were married to their own choice as well their guardians choice, according to the study of the Bangladesh chapter of Population Council, a New York-based research organisation and research Evaluation Associates for Development (READ).

The study found the mean age at marriage for female adolescents (aged 15-19) interviewed for the study was 14.8 years and the mean duration of marriage about one year.

Of them, eight per cent were aged between only 9 and 12 at the time of their first marriage, 55 per cent between 13 and 15 and 37 per cent between 16 and 19 years.

It showed the mean figure for the husbands of the female adolescents was 23, that showed a mean age difference of 8.2 years between the spouses.

These figures are in agreement with the findings of the secondary analysis of the 1993-94 Bangladesh Demographic and Health Survey (BDHS) data of adolescents.

The study said the rural poor are most likely to get married at an early age followed by urban slum dwellers, rural well-off and housing estate residents in towns.

Almost 50 per cent of male and female respondents said a woman should get married after completing her education while nearly four per cent believed that women should be financially stable, in other words, be in formal employment before getting married.

Twenty-seven per cent were of the view that women should go by the parents' wish as far as marriage is concerned, while 20 per cent felt a woman should get married when she finds the partner of her choice.

The mean ideal age at marriage recommended by both married and unmarried respondents of both sexes was 19 for girls and 25.5 for men. According to female unmarried and married adolescents, the mean ideal age at marriage was 19.8 and 19.3 respectively.

More than 53 per cent preferred an age difference of less than five years between husband and wife. It was followed by 24 per cent less than seven years, 14 per cent seven years or above and seven per cent less than two years. Only 0.5 per cent preferred no age difference.

Automation process at DSE to be completed within 2 months

By Staff Correspondent

The officials of Tandem Computer International at a seminar in the city yesterday said that the automation process of share trading in the Dhaka Stock Exchange would be completed within two months.

Responding to queries made by some DSE members whether the company was delaying in setting up computer machinery, Mark de Kock, project manager of the company said, "We are confident that the automation process would be completed by September next if everything goes smoothly."

He said the process had become slower due to indecision of the DSE authority and delay in repair work at the place.

3 arrested for stealing computer

By Staff Correspondent

Police arrested three youngmen on charges of stealing a laptop computer from a shop at Dhanmondi in the city yesterday afternoon.

The three youths, identifying themselves as students, entered the Sun Computers Super Store on the third floor of Dhanmondi Plaza market at about 4 pm and started looking at computers and other accessories on display there, said a staff of the shop.

All on a sudden, one of the youths took a laptop, worth about Tk 1.75 lakh and put it in his bag. Then all three ran out of the shop and down the stairs.

Meanwhile, some employees of the shop, with the help of market security guards and bystanders gave chase and managed to catch them red-handed.

Emergency police immediately rushed to the spot and arrested the three. A case has been filed with Dhanmondi thana in this connection.

A staff of the computer shop reported the lifting of computer accessories has become a regular incident in various computer shops in the city.

where the computer machinery would be installed. Now DSE has engaged experts of Bangladesh University of Engineering and Technology (BUET) to supervise the installation work.

The computer hardware is ready for shipment and if the DSE authority gives permission it would reach in two days, he added.

Addressing the seminar, held at Hotel Sonargaon, Bill Gorman, securities industry consultant of the company, highlighted various advantages of automated trading and Central Depository System (CDS) in stock exchanges.

The company organised the seminar to apprise the DSE members and persons related with the capital market about computerisation process of share trading and inform the current trends in international capital market.

Owais Saadat of the World Bank in his keynote speech underscored the need for immediate automation of the country's stock exchanges for the benefit of the investors. Sooner the stock markets are automated the better services it will be able to provide to the investors.

The automated service will also help attract foreign direct investment and bring transparency in the stock markets, he said.

A large number of DSE members including its former chairman Imtiaz Hossain and Hemayet Uddin Ahmed, Securities and Exchange Commission chairman Abu Sayeed and officials of leading securities firms attended the seminar.

But DSE present chairman and vice chairman M A Haq Howlader and Abdul Hye respectively were not present at the seminar which created resentment among the general members. Some DSE general members while talking to the correspondent said that vested interest group did not want automation system in the DSE. That group is trying to delay the process through various ways and means, they alleged.

The DSE chairman and vice chairman could not be reached over telephone last night for their comments.

BSD slates 'audacious' behaviour of Sohel, Salman with BB governor

Bangladesher Samajtantrik Dal (BSD) condemned the "audacious" behaviour of Salman Rahman and Sohel Rahman with the Bangladesh Bank Governor on loan-default issue, reports UNB.

"The indecent behaviour by the loan defaulters with the top person of the highest financial body is not only surprising but also a threat to country's banking system and economy."

For this, he blamed the ruling quarters, saying their "indifference and, in some cases, giving indulgence to the defaulters encouraged them to give such threat."

Khalequzzaman, convenor of BSD demanded fair judgement in this regard and recovery of default loans and punitive action against the bank loan defaulters.
