Scarcity of lower unit phone-cards

NATORE, July 28: The discontinuation of the sale of phone-cards of 25, 50 and 100 units by the Telephone Shipa Sangstha (TSS) and T&T Board is causing inconvenience to the telephone users in the 16 northern districts.

During the last few months, phone cards of 25, 50 and 100 units costing Tk 50, 100 and 200 respectively have become scarce in a almost all the post offices in districts even in Rajshahi divisional post office.

Only 200 units of Tk 400 are available. There is no satisfactory explanation regarding non-availability of phone-cards of lower units.

Local people alleged that a section of T&T employees in connivance with some bureaucrats at the ministry are responsible for the scarcity of the phone-cards.

Gradually the card-phone system would be made redundant so that people using phone-cards mainly for making overseas calls can seek the assistance of the T&T Boards staff who would get opportunity to make money — an official of anonymity, told UNB.

Card-phone system had started earning good profit for the Board and TSS since its introduction in 1992.

Meanwhile, it is also found that lower unit cards are being sold at 15 to 25 per cent higher rate in some betel leaf shops in front of Rajshahi PCO.

Hilsa production falls

From Aroop Talukdar

BARISAL, July 28: Hilsa fish has become scarce now due to various reasons. The fish has also turned into a costly one.

The total production of hilsa fish is nearly 2.5 lakh metric tons. The total fish production is over 12 lakh metric tons in the country.

One fourth of the total fish production is hilsa. Nearly 90 thousand metric tons of hilsa are collected from different inland rivers. The rest comes from the Bay of Bengal and its adjoining coastal areas, according to official record.

The production of hilsa fishes is decreasing gradually. The main reason is non-stop fishing of small-size hilsa fish called jatka. The trend could not be controlled till now.

Informed sources said, to check this unhealthy tendency more strict laws should be enforced as early as possible. The other major reason is shortage of ice at coastal areas. The production of ice has fallen sharply in 25 ice factories due to frequent loadshedding. At least 4 to 6 hours' non-stop power supply is required for normal production of ice.

Acute scarcity of ice is still prevailing at Alipur, Mahipur, Kuakata in Patuakhali, Patharghata of Barguna, Chaffan and Daulatkhan of Bhola where 20,000 fishermen are living only by fishing.

There are some other reasons for decline in production of hilsa. According to Fisheries Research Institute (FRI), change of environment, decrease in river navigability, emergence of new shoals, changing of river routes are also the causes of fall in hilsa production. The FRI's survey report also revealed, unscrupulous fishermen are fishing nearly 50 crore jatka annually. They also fish hilsa during its breeding period from January to March and July to October. This period is restricted for fishing hilsa. But many fishermen pay no heed to the government order. The government should compel the fishermen to follow order strictly. A big size hilsa fish carries nearly 30 lakh eggs during the breeding season. During the fishing season of hilsa the government and the Fisheries Department should look after the problems of fishermen.

The government earned a huge amount of foreign currencies by exporting hilsa fish to India, USA, UK and some Arab countries previously. Over 5,850 metric tons of hilsa fishes worth about Taka 50 crore were exported to different countries from Bangladesh during the last fiscal year. The government is being deprived of a huge amount of foreign currencies due to smuggling of a good quantity of hilsa through waterways either by high speed trawlers or marine vessels.

The production of Hilsa has recently fallen alarmingly due to various reasons.
