Dhaka committed to promoting rule of law

Bangladesh is dedicated to the welfare of the people by being effective, participatory. transparent, accountable, equitable and promoting rule of law. reports UNB.

LGRD and Cooperatives Minister Zillur Rahman said this at the international conference on governance for sustainable growth and equity at the United Nations headquarters in New York, said an official message received in the yesterday.

The minister was speaking on Monday at the plenary session on the governance issue and the role of public sector. chaired by Minister for Public Service Apolo Nsibmbi of Uganda.

Earlier, Secretary General of the United Nations Kofi Annan inaugurated the conference organised by UNDP. The conference is being attended by 70 ministers, 150 mayors and 1,200 delegates from 160 countries of the world.

Speaking on the role of public sector, Zillur Rahman said that like many other developing countries, the public sector in Bangladesh has increased role mainly because of the mul-

Many non-government organisations have also developed their expertise where they can share the functions of the government, particularly in social sectors, and cooperatives have also been performing a development role in agriculture and poverty eradication programmes, he added.

Zillur said in Bangladesh, the stage is now set for rethinking the role of the government by identifying the sectors and activities from which government can withdraw so as to concentrate better on those sectors where it has comparative advantage.

Members of Parliament SM Akram and Barrister Rabeya Bhuiyan, LGRD and Cooperatives Secretary Hasnat Abdul Hye, Establishment Secretary M Mahe Alam, Comptroller and Auditor General Hafizuddin Khan and Khulna City Mayor Sheikh Tayebur Rahman are also attending the conference as Bangladesh delegation.
