Carlos Sainz overcame fierce heat, humidity and tropical rainstorms and closed the gap to World Rally Championship leader. Tommi Makinen with his second successive victory in the Rally of Indonesia. The Ford driver's success in the series moved him to within eight points of reigning world champion, Makinen, who was forced to retire on the second day of the event. Ford teammate, Juha Kankkunen finished second overall and the 555 Subaru World Rally Team pairing of Kenneth Eriksson and Staffan Parmander - who managed to stay out of trouble for the whole rally — finished in third position. Eriksson's result was also sufficient to clinch the FIA Asia-Pacific Rally Championship for 555 Subaru with one round remaining, says a press release.

Sainz and co-driver, Luis Moya, took the lead on yesterday's final stage and sealed victory in style by posting fastest time on the last stage, the longest of the rally.

For Juha Kankkunen, it was his fourth podium finish in the last four events, the 38-year-old Finn once again demonstrating the form and consistency which has taken him to four World Championship titles.

Putting yesterday's frustrations behind him, Kenneth Eriksson firmly took control of the pace this morning, setting fastest times on the opening three stages. However, the 56 second deficit to second placed Juha Kankkunen proved to much to overhaul and he simply ran out of stage kilometres.

Richard Burns, in the sole remaining Mitsubishi, went on the attack early this morning. eager to deprive Eriksson of third position, while safeguarding Mitsubishi's points by reaching the finish. He survived a fifth gear spin on the first stage to take his best result yet in Indonesia.

With every reason to suggest that the 555 Subaru World Rally Team have successfully overcome their previous engine problems, the team now look forward to Sanremo where Piero Liatti joins Colin McRae and the regular World Championship contenders for the sole remaining asphalt round of the

All England champion Prakash Padukone made peace with Indian badminton officials Friday, ending a three-month crisis that threatened to wreck the game in the country, reports way to a 6-7 (6/8), 6-3, 6-1

AFP. Padukone, who launched a breakaway group demanding greater player power in June agreed a truce with the Badminton Association of India

(BAI) at a meeting on Thursday. Under the agreement Padukone will take over as the BAI's executive president whole his rebel Indian Badminton Confederation (IBC), which received the backing of the country's top players, will be dissolved.

BAI president V K Verma, who replaced the long-serving Fazil Ahmed in June as a first step to end the deadlock, will continue in his position, but the new look executive committee includes many of Padukone's supporters. We want to work together in in the interest of badminton in the country," Padukone said. The past is behind us, we want to make a new beginning." Padukone, a sporting idol in the interest of the players and India, had earlier rejected Verma's offer to join the BAI, saying a third body should govern the game. But a directive from the International Badminton Federation (IBF) that meetings may have changed his mind ... BAI chief Verma said

Padukone will "play a leading role in administering and monitoring all scheme related to coaching development and selection and planning of the sport."

Case of Uganda's missing paddlers

KAMPALA, Sept 27: Ugan-dan sports authorities have asked the international police agency interpol, to help over the disappearance of eight table tennis players on a trip to Japan, according to local press reports Friday, says AFP.

The eight Ugandans were due to take part in a tournament in Japan this week, but the Japan Table Tennis Association said Wednesday they suspected that the players disappeared to try to find work in Japan.

Abbey Lutaya, general secretary of Uganda's National Council of Sports (NSC), said it had asked interpol to take over. The Ugandan team, which was due to compete in the fourday Ogimura Cup Japan Grand Prix, arrived in Chiba near Tokyo on September 19.

Faldo's feat

SOTOGRANDE, Spain, Sept 27: Two decades ago, Nick Faldo was the youngest player ever in the Ryder Cup, a record he still holds. On Saturday, he became the greatest point scorer in the 70-year history of the competition, reports AP.

When Lee Westwood rolled in a birdie putt on the 16th green to close out their alternate-shot match against Justin Leonard and Jeff Maggert, it gave Faldo his 24th Ryder Cup point, breaking Billy Casper's record by one-half point.

In all, Faldo now owns or shares 10 Ryder Cup records, including most times in the competition with 11.

Put into perspective, Tiger Woods needs to play in every Ryder Cup until he is 43 years old just to tie Faldo for most competitions.

In addition to most Cups played, most points and youngest player. Faldo also has the record for most matches played (43), most foursome matches (17), most four-ball matches (16) and most four-ball matches lost (9).

He shares the record for most matches won (22) with Arnold Palmer, most singles won (6) with Palmer, Casper and Peter Oosterhuis and most four-somes won (10) with Seve Ballesteros.

By the end of play on Sunday. Faldo could also own all three of those marks by himself. He will play in singles on Sunday and was playing with Westwood in Saturday's fourball against Tiger Woods and Mark O' Meara.

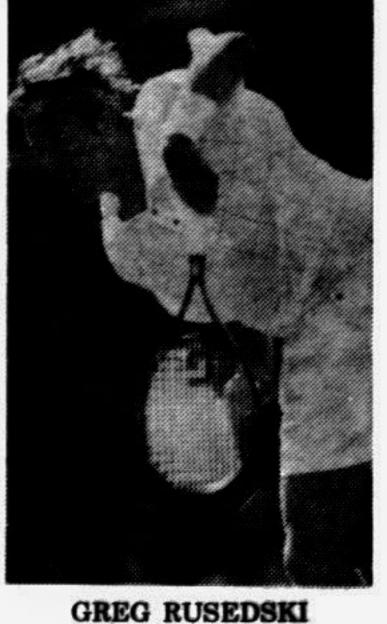

Faldo was also expected to play in Saturday's foursomes.

Rusedski began his comeback in the second set then consolidated in the third, allowing the former French Open holder to win only the first game before taking charge. Rusedski faces Sampras on Saturday in a best-of-five match "I played as good as I've played all year in those final two sets," said Rusedski, who has now reached 425,000 dollars (about 275,000 pounds) for the week. "It was a very satisfying win."

Rusedski said he is keen for his Saturday re-match against Sampras, who won the title in San Jose, California, against the Briton when Rusedski had to retire with a wrist injury after winning the first set and going down 0-5 in the second.

During that week in February, the Briton also beat Michael Chang and Andre
